ILLINOIS HOUSE VOTES QUIZ ON SLUSH SCANDAL

Inquiry to Embrace State Finances.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 30.—Important developments crowded one upon another today as the 61st general assembly opened its first special session. They were:

1. By unanimous vote the house of representatives created a committee of seven members, with subpena powers, and assigned the committee a broad field of investigation. Under the terms of the resolution the legislators may dig into major scandals of the Horner administration, including slush funds, campaign shakedowns, and the alliances among labor racketeers, political machines, contractors, and suppliers of state materials that came to light following the mysterious death of F. Lynden Smith, director of public works and former campaign manager for Gov. Henry Horner. Speaker Hugh Cross tonight appointed the committee, which promptly organized and elected Representative Clinton Searle [R., Rock Island] its chairman. The group will meet again tomorrow to plan its inquiry. [Details on page 6.]

Stelle in Old Rôle.

2. Lieut. Gov. John Stelle retired, for the day at least, from his self designated status as acting governor, which he assumed the day before he was defeated for the Democratic nomination for governor. Stelle functioned today in the post the constitution gives him—that of presiding officer of the senate. Meanwhile, two legislative committees, one from the house and the other from the senate, called upon ailing Gov. Horner. Most of them reported later that the governor appeared to be in serious condition. [Details on page 5.]

3. Gov. Horner was at odds with himself during the day over the matter of raising new revenue for the increase in old age pensions, which is the principal subject for action by the special session. In his written message, he called upon the legislature to find new revenue to carry this added burden. Yet a short while after the message was distributed, the governor told the legislators who called upon him that no new funds were needed at present. The matter could go over for consideration by the regular session next January, he said. [Details on page 5.]

Bills Are Introduced.

4. Prospects were that actual work for which the session was called, the consideration and passage of bills upon a dozen subjects, mostly to aid various taxing bodies, would proceed without much controversy. Besides the pensions bills, financial measures were introduced affecting the Chicago sanitary, park, and forest preserve districts, as well as the Field museum. All were advanced to second reading. The heat engendered will likely emanate from the Searle committee and whatever other investigations may be proposed.

CADETS ATTEND DANCE IN HONOR OF DEAD BUDDY

Columbia, Mo., April 30 (AP).—Kemper Military school cadets and their dates dined and danced last night in memory of Cadet Jimmy E. Parker Jr., killed last month in an automobile accident. A vacant chair stood at the head of the table during the party, which was attended by 180 boys and girls.

The strange memorial was arranged at the insistence of J. E. Parker Sr., who told school authorities: "I want to do something for the boys in Jimmy's company." The father recently went to Boonville, where the school is located, for a memorial service for the boy and afterward he proposed the dinner-dance for the 85 boys in Company B.

Maj. E. W. Tucker of the Kemper faculty described Jimmy as an average American boy and an average student. He said the party was unusual in its significance, but ordinary otherwise. The boys neither were unusually hilarious nor serious, he added.

Tells Census Taker Home Mortgaged for U. S. Debt

Toledo, O., April 30 (AP).—Mrs. Arthur Cline upset the calm of a census taker today by insisting the mortgage on her home amounted to 45 billion dollars, which is the national debt limit. Richard Marlow, supervisor of census, said Mrs. Cline's answer constituted a refusal to answer.

REJECT DEALERS' WAGE CUT PLAN; STOP DELIVERY

4,600 Union Members Take Action.

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

The 4,600 members of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union went on strike early today. Officials announced there would be a complete stoppage of home and store deliveries by their men in Chicago and all the suburbs within Cook county effective at once. The 1,700 inside dairy workers are coöperating in the strike.

The union officers said that the strike would continue unless the employing dealers agree to pay the old wage and commission scale in the contract that expired at midnight. This the dealers have steadfastly refused to do.

The union membership, meeting in Car Men's hall at Van Buren street and Ashland boulevard last night, hissed and booed a dealer proposal that they take a wage and commission cut while contract negotiations continued. The dealers had offered to put the difference between the old and new scales in escrow and make any final agreement retroactive to today.

Dealers Make Plans.

Some 45 dealers, as soon as they learned of the union decision, went into conference early today at the Morrison hotel, hoping to find some way to supply hospital shut-ins. They said they would insist that this humane delivery be carried on. No definite plans had been formulated for handling the supplies coming in from the farms. The dealers had not expected a stoppage of deliveries so soon, altho they and the union have been seemingly hopelessly deadlocked for days.

Specifically, the dealers had proposed that the men accept wages of $30 a week, with a new commission base that would give the average driver an estimated income of $40 a week. The old base pay was $48 a week and average earnings about $52. It was also proposed that any changes in the store price of milk—now 8½ cents a quart—be reflected in workers' earnings; a $2.50 raise in pay would be given the men for each increase of 1 cent a quart.

Charges Dealers' "Plot."

David Riskind, attorney for the union, declared this provision was inserted as a part of a "conspiracy of large dealers" to place the onus of fixing milk prices on the union men. He asserted such a program was illegal and that neither the government nor the public would stand for it.

The final strike vote was preceded by a dramatic journey of a union committee to meet representatives of the dealers in the Morrison hotel. Leading the delegation was Leslie C. Goudie, president of the teamsters' joint counsel, to which the milk drivers belong. Henry Weber, president of the union, was another member.

This delegation had been ordered to reiterate a demand for the old scale pending a settlement, and to make it plain that there would be a strike if the demand was refused.

Dealers Stand Firm.

The unionists were met by Attorney Ernest S. Ballard, spokesman for the dealers; Paul Potter, executive secretary of the Associated Milk Dealers, Inc., and the 45 dealers.

"The men have considered the proposal and voted unanimously to ask a better deal," said Goudie.

Ballard asked what was demanded. Goudie told him. Ballard said that ground had all been gone over in an afternoon conference.

"Your position is the same now?" he asked.

Goudie agreed it was. "If there is anything else you want to offer," said Ballard, "we will consider it. Otherwise we have reached an impasse."

Goudie asked if that was the opinion of the dealers present and was answered individually by them. They agreed it was.

"If it's a fight you want we'll give it to you," said Goudie. "There is nothing else for us to do here."

He and his fellow delegates marched out.

Inside Workers to Join.

Later it was announced that the Inside Dairy Workers, who have been negotiating for a new scale, would go out in sympathy with the drivers. The union officials declared that they would coöperate in plans for supplying milk to the sick and to children.

Spokesmen for the dealers said that they had informed the union they were aware of the seriousness of the situation, but that it was "a joint responsibility" to keep supplies rolling.

Arrangements were being made by the police to handle any trouble that

Jury Convicts Pair in Goon Slugging Case

Harry Hlavacek [top] and Joseph Kopke.

Two business agents of the butchers' union were found guilty last night of assault to commit mayhem. A jury of nine women and three men selected the most severe of the counts in the indictment on which to base the verdict. It carries a mandatory sentence of 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary.

The defendants were Joseph Kopke, 37 years old, sallow and bald, and Harry Hlavacek, 46, a ruddy faced union veteran with thinning gray hair. Witnesses at the six day trial testified Kopke and Hlavacek entered a butcher shop at 3710 26th street last Jan. 6 and beat and kicked a former union member. Kopke carried a revolver.

Victim Porter in Shop.

Their victim, Czeslaw L. Mikolajczyk, 51, had obtained a job as porter—and not a butcher—in the shop and hence, he contended, needed no union card.

State's Attorney Courtney's staff hailed the verdict as a victory in their fight against labor terrorism. The prosecution was handled by Assistant State's Attorney Morris Meyers, with the assistance of Gordon Nash.

Courtney emphasized that three jurors had direct union connections and were representative of the law abiding labor element. One juror was a union railroad employé; one, a woman, was a member of the garment workers' union, and another woman was the wife of a union grocery clerk. The jurors declined to comment on their verdict.

Testimony on which the verdict was based was given by Mikolajczyk himself and by other employés and customers who were in the shop. Mikolajczyk, thru a Polish interpreter, testified he was beaten by the goons until he "saw all the stars in heaven."

The porter said Kopke pointed his gun at him and then kicked him in the groin. Later, he said, Kopke struck him on the head with the revolver and Hlavacek also hit him.

Mikolajczyk said he obtained the job to get food for his six children. They live at 3035 Cullerton street.

Kopke testified he had struck Mikolajczyk only in self defense, after the latter raised a shovel menacingly. Hlavacek said he did not strike Mikolajczyk at all.

Reach Verdict Quickly.

The case went to the jury in Judge Joseph Graber's court at 4:20 p. m. and reached a verdict in less than four hours. It was learned that the jurors quickly arrived at a finding of guilty, but spent some time in selecting the count on which the verdict was to be based. They could have let the defendant off with as little as a day in jail under the misdemeanor section of the conspiracy count.

Attorney Benedict Short moved for a new trial, and hearing on the motion was set for May 10. Kopke and Hlavacek will remain at liberty on $7,500 bonds. The union they represent is local 638 of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America, an American Federation of Labor affiliate. Kopke lives at 1845 23d place and Hlavacek at 1533 South Cuyler avenue, Berwyn.

SCHOOLGIRL TO FIGHT TO RETAIN CUSTODY OF BABY 12 DAYS OLD

East St. Louis, Ill., April 30 [Special].—A schoolgirl, 13 years old, who quit her classes to have a baby, said today she would resist any possible attempt to take the child from her. The annulment of her marriage has caused fear that the courts may put her baby in an orphange.

The child mother is Mrs. Doris Walters, a junior high school pupil of Louisville, Ky. She came here a month ago to live with her grandmother. Twelve days ago a healthy 6 pound 8 ounce girl was born to her by a Caesarian operation.

Telling of her marriage to a 20 year old youth in a community near Louisville last year, the girl said:

"I met him in a movie theater last year. A few days later he came to school, during recess, and asked me to go for a ride with him. I did, and in a nearby town he asked me to marry him. He said if I didn't I would have to walk home. Well, I didn't walk."

Offer Reward of Million for Hitler—Alive

New York, April 30 [Special].—A reward of $1,000,000 in cash to the person or group who will deliver Adolf Hitler "alive, unwounded and unhurt" into the custody of the league of nations was offered today in behalf of a group of Pittsburgh residents by Samuel Harden Church, president of the Carnegie institute.

Church made his offer in a letter to the editor of a New York newspaper.

In the letter he said the German Fuehrer should be delivered "for trial before a high court of justice for his crimes against the peace and dignity of the world."

Time Limit to Spur Action.

The proposal is made in good faith, Church emphasized, and the money will be paid without cavil to any qualified claimant. The group that is backing the project is not overoptimistic about its chances of achieving its end, Church explained, but they do think that even a slim possibility is worth encouraging on the ground that the capture of Hitler would avert untold suffering.

The offer is for the month of May only. The purpose of that limitation, Church said, is "to make sure that seekers after the reward will act quickly."

Hope to Balk New Drive.

The decision to post the $1,000,000 was reached by the Pittsburgh group after certain of them had received private advices from Europe that Hitler was determined to strike soon on the western front, and that he had said he would break thru even tho it cost the lives of 500,000 Germans.

"The question of offering the reward has been under discussion by a group of members of the Duquesne club for two or three months," Church said. "Finally the project has taken shape and I was selected to make the offer public. There are, in the group of present sponsors, about 50 persons, some of them women."

No Clinging Vine, She Sets Her Own Fractured Arm

Wichita, Kas., April 30 (AP).—Mrs. A. D. Boyles, 45 years old, is the self-reliant type. She fell down her basement steps and broke her arm. Waiting to be taken to the hospital, she set the arm herself. Physicians said X-rays showed it was a perfect job.

Hit by German Raiders; Many Marines Killed

BULLETIN.

BERLIN, May 1, Wednesday (AP).—A special radio announcement said today that German planes bombed and sank a British cruiser at Namsos yesterday and badly damaged another. The destruction of eight British planes in a British air attack on the Norwegian port of Stavanger also was announced.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, May 1, Wednesday (AP).—Swarms of German bombers which raided Namsos and vicinity for nearly 11 hours yesterday, blew to bits a British destroyer with heavy loss of life, the Svenska Dagbladet correspondent reported today from that British landing base on the west coast of Norway.

"Scores of British marines and sailors were believed killed. The remainder, number unknown, were taken aboard a cruiser which then managed to get out of the fjord," the correspondent wrote.

Held off at first by steady British antiaircraft fire, from newly installed guns, the Germans persisted from 7:15 a. m. to 6 p. m., losing two planes, he said.

"Targets of the German flyers were two British warships—a cruiser and destroyer—which entered the harbor during the night," the correspondent wrote.

Fire Reaches Powder Magazine.

"The destroyer received a direct hit on her stern, with the result that the entire ship was blown to pieces when fire aboard spread quickly to the ammunition store and powder magazine.

Further details of the story were given to me by a Norwegian doctor who was in the French hospital at Namsos during the bombing.

"Six German bombing planes began attacking the two English ships which lay at anchor until the bombs began to fall, and then began weaving back and forth at full speed. The British destroyer apparently was too slow in its maneuvers, and the Germans' heavy bombs struck it.

"After the first attack the Germans returned with three planes at a time. In the first of these groups one plane was shot down. Later one more was destroyed."

Bombers Range Along Road.

FORMOFOSS, Norway [about 20 miles east of Namsos], April 30 (AP).—German war planes ranged the Norwegian countryside from the ocean to the Swedish border on this northern war front today. They bombed and strafed allied communications and one truck train filled with Swedish supplies and volunteers. They reportedly machine gunned a Red Cross ambulance.

The Germans swarmed over Grong, railroad point 30 miles east of Namsos, where bombers and machine gunners alternated in the attacks. Grong escaped without casualties.

Flying into the Sanddola mountains, the attackers paid a brief visit to Formofoss without any shooting; then they droned over the trail that leads from Gaddede, on the Swedish frontier.

Ambulance Escapes.

A Red Cross ambulance, one of 25 being brought into Norway by British Quakers, was raked with machine guns a short distance up the road. Both attacks, however, failed to cause any casualties.

Dr. Richard Early, in charge of the ambulance unit, said the Germans twice swept down, firing their bursts.

Next the attackers turned to a seven truck supply convoy en route from Sweden.

HITLER PRAISES ARMY; 'NORWAY CONQUEST NEAR'

British Pursued by German Troops.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Maps on back page.)

Gen. von Falkenhorst.

BERLIN, April 30.—"I am proud of you," Adolf Hitler told his military forces tonight after the high command had announced that Germany's conquest of the Scandinavian kingdom was virtually finished.

The Fuehrer sent his congratulations in a special order of the day following the linking of Oslo with Trondheim by columns of German troops, the capture of the strategic railhead, Dombas, and seizure of control of the main rail line to the big Norwegian port on the Atlantic coast in a 20-day campaign.

All Germany acclaimed the smashing of a British, French, and Norwegian pincers movement designed to cut off German held Trondheim by offensives from north and south.

Germans Pursue British.

German troops have thrown British and French forces back to the immediate vicinity of their landing bases at Andalsnes, 100 miles south of Trondheim, and Namsos, about the same distance north of Trondheim. Offensives against these bases may be expected immediately.

These offensives, under the leadership of Gen. Nicholas von Falkenhorst, appear to be underway already. The Germans are pursuing allied forces — mainly British troops — retreating from Dombas toward Andalsnes and Molde.

The Germans likewise have launched attacks against the allied lines north of Steinkjer in the direction of Namsos, where French and Norwegian troops are in the first lines and the British in reserve.

German military leaders believe that with the strategic railway junction at Dombas in German hands and with unlimited troops and supplies being able to reach Trondheim by land, the remaining allied positions north and south of Trondheim have become untenable.

Anticipate New Blow.

Authoritative German circles in Berlin expressed confidence that it is just a matter of days until Norway is fully in the hands of the German army. They began discussing where Germany will strike next, and voiced a conviction that the next blow will be delivered very soon.

The German high command in announcing the achievement in Norway first disclosed that a motorized German force, which climbed over mountain trails 3,000 feet high northward from Tynset, had reached the Trondheim-Dombas-Hamar-Oslo railway, southwest of Storen, and there met a southbound German force from Trondheim.

The officers of these two forces shook hands solemnly. [Presumably the southbound force had fought its way thru allied units at Storen, 35 miles south of Trondheim.]

Germans Take Opdal.

Then came the word that the main German column, fighting its way thru Gudbrands valley from the south, had occupied Dombas, which is 100 miles south of Trondheim. The railway junction at Dombas connects with the British and French landing point of Andalsnes.

Still later, the force following the railway down from Storen took over the station of Opdal, half way between Storen and Dombas.

"Therefore the main rail connection from Oslo to Trondheim is in German hands," said the high command.

Fight North from Roros.

German forces also are east of Storen on the eastern line of the railway, fighting up from Roros and the Glomma river.

Breaking of the brief siege of Trondheim, according to the Germans, not only cracked the lower jaw of the attempted pincers on the port but prevented the British and French from making any land connection between their widely separated two landing points—Andalsnes and Namsos.

Norwegian resistance is breaking down rapidly in all parts of south and central Norway, it was announced. Northwest of Lillehammer, 2,500 members of the 4th Norwegian infantry regiment surrendered to the Germans. Advancing along the Bergen-Oslo railway line, German troops captured 260 Norwegians and five pieces of artillery east of Voss. In that sector the Germans are rapidly closing the gap between Oslo and Bergen.

Up in arctic Narvik the Germans admitted the British were continuing to gain a foothold at that iron ore port. They are meeting, however, with stiff resistance, the Germans said, the German air force silencing one enemy battery with several direct hits.

Text of Hitler's Order.

Hitler's order in which he praised his troops read:

"Soldiers in the Norwegian theater of war!

"In the tremendous drive forward German troops today established land communication between Oslo and Trondheim.

"Therewith the aim of the west powers still to be able to force Germany to her knees by a belated occupation of Norway has been definitely frustrated.

"Units of the army, navy, and air force in model coöperation have completed an achievement which in its courage redounds to the highest honor of the young German armed forces.

"Officers, noncommissioned officers, and men:

"You have fought on the Norwegian front against all hardships on sea, land, and in the air and against the resistance of the enemy. You have fulfilled a tremendous assignment which I, believing in you and your strength, had to give you."

Hitler Expresses Pride.

"I am proud of you. Thru me the nation expresses its thanks to you. As an outward expression of this recognition and this thanks I award the commander in chief in Norway, Gen. von Falkenhorst, the Knight's Cross of the Iron Cross.

"Upon the recommendation of your commander in chief I also will decorate the bravest among you. Your greatest reward now, however, ought to be the satisfaction that you have made a decisive contribution in the most difficult and fateful battle of our nation for existence.

"I know you will continue to fulfill your tasks. Long live our greater Germany."

GERMAN PEOPLE SHARE BLAME: CHAMBERLAIN

LONDON, April 30 (AP). — Prime Minister Chamberlain again told the house of commons today that the British and French have "no vindictive designs against the German people."

This was his answer when he was asked if he would take steps to avoid complete identification between Germans and the Nazi government in all statements of British government policy. The German people, he said, "must realize their responsibilities for prolonging the war and the suffering that it would bring to them."

SWEDEN REPORTS A NAVAL BATTLE OFF WEST COAST

12 Vessels Scatter After Loud Explosion.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, April 30 (AP). —Heavy naval gunfire reported off the west coast of Sweden indicated today that England and France are maintaining a constant watch in the narrow seas of the Skagerrak for German ships northbound out of the Skagen at the northern tip of Denmark. Firing was heard last night and on several previous nights.

Great pillars of fire were seen off the coast yesterday after a convoy of five merchant ships and seven destroyers scattered in the wake of a loud explosion.

Observers said apparently British mine fields either had not been completely swept away by the Germans or had been replenished.

Warships Bombard Narvik.

Meanwhile from the far distant arctic port of Narvik, Norway, the German garrison was reported to have lost its artillery and to be clinging to machine gun positions on the shoreline under continued heavy bombardment from British warships.

Reports from Riksgransen, Swedish border settlement on the iron ore railway to Narvik, said all the German mountain artillery positions had been taken or smashed and that a German battery set up in a churchyard had been silenced by the British naval guns.

Report British May Withdraw.

On the Lake Snasa front, north of Trondheim, melting snow was delaying action. Mechanized German forces were unable to get under way against the first line positions held by the French, with British forces holding a second and reserve line.

Considerable interest was shown here in London dispatches published in Swedish newspapers reporting that the British war council was considering the advisability of sending more troops to Norway or withdrawing entirely.

DECLARES 500,000 FINNS STILL ARE WITHOUT HOMES

PARIS, April 30.—Finland still has 500,000 homeless people, Mrs. Kyllikki Pohjala, deputy in the Finnish parliament, reported today. She is the head of the Finnish Nurses' association and is in Paris en route to the United States to confer with former President Hoover on Finnish relief.

"Finland was defeated," she said, "but we are able to hold our heads high and not one complaint has been spoken despite our sufferings."

BODY TAKEN FROM RIVER.

The body of an unidentified man about 45 years old was taken from the river near the Franklin street bridge late Monday night. He was about 5 feet 8 inches tall, weighed 150 pounds, and had blue eyes and blond hair.

BLACKOUT MENACES OLD PARIS CUSTOM: DINING IN OPEN AIR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 30.—Will the blackout deprive Parisians of their custom of dining in the open air next summer? This question is being asked with anxiety by restaurant owners whose evening trade during the summer is composed largely of Frenchmen who refuse to eat indoors. So far the authorities have not given their answer.

In warm weather, many Parisians frequent the 1,001 sidewalk restaurants; they climb the heights of Montmartre and dine on the Place du Terte, or they enjoy the cool shades of the Bois de Boulogne. Eating in complete darkness is neither feasible nor desirable and, unless some sort of lighting is authorized, this picturesque aspect of Paris night life will disappear for the duration of the war. Restaurant owners hope mitigated lighting will be permitted during certain hours.

REDS PLAN BIG NAVAL GAMES OFF VLADIVOSTOK

TOKIO, Japan, April 30.—The soviet fleet in Vladivostok is preparing to conduct maneuvers on the largest scale seen there since the Russo-Japanese war, according to reports brought back from Vladivostok yesterday by the captain of the Japanese steamer Hardin Maru.

The maneuvers will be conducted by eight converted cruisers, 18 destroyers, 160 "high speed destroyers" [probably fast small motor craft], 72 submarines, 36 river gunboats and 500 planes. The exercises will extend over a radius of 5,000 miles.

The newspaper Hochi, which published those details, reported the commander of the soviet far eastern fleet has said the soviet fleet based at Vladivostok is able to defeat any interference with soviet trade by European belligerents.

Canadian Air Force Flyer Killed When Plane Crashes

CAMP BORDEN, Ont., April 30.—Pilot Officer Gordon Robert Day of the Royal Canadian Air Force, an outstanding hockey player, was killed here last night in one of his first solo flights when he crashed into a group of trees soon after taking off. He received his wings only 10 days ago and was to have taken leave today to celebrate his 23d birthday.

GERMAN PLANE FALLS IN BRITISH TOWN; 5 KILLED

Craft Explodes; Houses Fired; 90 Injured.

LONDON, May 1, Wednesday (AP).—One of a group of German warplanes that roared to within 50 miles of London crashed in an Essex coastal town last night, killing five and injuring 90. Four of the dead were members of the plane's crew.

The bomber which plummeted to earth while antiaircraft guns poured shells into the night sky hit with a tremendous explosion. Several smaller explosions followed the first blast, which shook the town.

Several houses were demolished when the plane, which had been fired on at sea, fell in flames in a residential district. It landed within 400 yards of a hospital, to which the victims were carried while residents, awakened from their sleep, rushed in their night clothes to the street.

Rescuers Work in Dim Light.

An alarm was flashed and the town's services were swiftly mobilized. Soldiers aided air raid precautions units in rescue work. Physicians in shirt sleeves gave first aid to the injured at the scene.

Air raid precautions workers and demolition and rescue parties worked feverishly in the dim light of the half-darkness.

"We can be guided only by such lights as are deemed safe," said one rescue party official.

Another Plane Heard.

While the rescue work was still under way another plane was heard overhead and all lights were ordered extinguished.

It was feared some persons still might be buried in débris.

One witness said the plane, a Heinkel bomber, plunged thru "six or seven houses and burst into flames."

A crater made by the first explosion was described by a witness as large enough to put a house in.

ITALIAN ARMY'S BORDER ACTIVITY STIRS JUGO-SLAVS

ZAGREB, Jugo-Slavia, April 30 (AP). —Stories of a stir in Italian military activity near the Jugo-Slav frontier caused uneasiness tonight in Croatian Slovenia and especially Dalmatia, despite a reassuring statement from Premier Dragisha Tsvetkovitch. The premier arrived here from Dalmatia and said the country's internal situation was good and that he was confident it could maintain its neutrality.

Virtual suspension of Italian coal shipments from Germany via Slovenia was attributed here to heavy military traffic on Italian railroads leading to the Jugo-Slav frontier. Railwaymen coming into the country from Italy said they saw a trainload of tanks being moved. Others said new antiaircraft defenses were going up at Fiume and Trieste.

Jugo-Slav authorities expelled several hundred German "tourists." In Slovenia, where there is an important German minority, many persons were arrested for possessing compromising documents. Large German military concentrations are reported in the Klagenfurt area near the frontier.

Jugo-Slavs Discover Secret ArmsCache in GermanPlant

LJUBLJANA, Jugo-Slavia, April 30 (AP).—Police discovered a secret store of fireams in a German cardboard factory here today, a discovery which spurred authorities to intensify their drive against suspicious foreigners. The police arrested the factory manager. The seized equipment included rifles, pistols, ammunition and uniforms.

BRITONS ASSAIL WAR CHIEFS FOR SLIPS IN NORWAY

Fear Neutrals Will Rush to German Aid.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 30.—A storm appeared to be brewing tonight over the British government's handling of Norwegian operations. Feeling was growing among members of parliament that the government acted irresolutely at a critical stage of the conflict. All parties are more critical of the war cabinet than at any time since the hostilities started.

"If the government muddles the Norwegian campaign, it will be for parliament to act objectively, fearlessly, and resolutely at the grand inquest of the nation."

Chamberlain a "False Prophet?"

Sinclair asked why the British counterstroke to the German attack developed so slowly. He asked whether Prime Minister Chamberlain, while warning Norway and Sweden about approaching danger, at the same time was ordering the dispersal of the striking force which Britain had assembled a few weeks earlier for operations in Finland.

He called Chamberlain a "false prophet" for claiming that Fuehrer Hitler "missed the bus" by invading Norway. "That reminds me," Sinclair said, "of the prophecy that Munich meant 'peace in our time.'"

Neutral countries, Sinclair declared, have the "gravest doubts of the political direction of the British war effort" and will rush to climb on the German band wagon unless the British take vigorous and determined action in Norway.

He assailed the "defeatist" attitude toward the Norwegian campaign and insisted that withdrawals of British troops from Norway should be carried out only if recommended by their commanders on the spot.

Were Troops the Best?

If Britain did sustain a defeat in Norway, "searching questions would have to be asked," he stated. "For example, the country would be entitled to know whether the troops sent to undertake this hazardous enterprise were highly trained, regular troops with experienced officers and staffs and whether they were adequately equipped."

Sinclair flayed the government for its vacillating policy. "We shall pay for the feebleness of our political direction," he stated, "by a prolongation of the war and a tragic increase in its cost, in life, and treasure."

Tho criticism of the cabinet has become more bitter, political observers declare it has not yet reached the pitch of a crisis. Many members of parliament are withholding judgment until they hear what Chamberlain has to say in his long delayed statement to parliament.

Today he told parliament that public interest would not be served if he spoke at once, but said the statement might be made this week.

Pass Over German Claims.

Oliver Stanley, war minister, denied that the British troops in Norway were improperly equipped, either as to clothing or arms.

The war office failed to answer German claims that their troops had established a land connection from Oslo to the Atlantic ocean at Trondheim, Norway.

[Announcements in Berlin of sweeping German advances said that a German column striking south from Trondheim had met another moving north from Oslo at a point southwest of Storen; that Dombas, vital railroad junction 100 miles south of German-held Trondheim, had been captured and that the Germans had driven into Opdal, railway station midway between Storen and Dombas.]

Late tonight a war office communique made this brief announcement:

"In the Dombas area the British, fighting with indomitable courage, have resisted any further advances by the enemy. North of Steinkjer the British troops again proved their superiority in patrol work, inflicting heavy casualties on the enemy. Fresh landings have taken place along the coast of Norway."

British in Serious Plight.

Earlier a British military source reported the Germans had taken Storen. If the German assertions are true it means the British forces south of Trondheim are isolated—near Storen, and possibly also at Hjerkinn, between Opdal and Dombas.

The British reported a "successful" bombing of Fornebo, airport near Oslo, Norway's German held capital.

An unofficial account of the attack on Fornebo said "considerable damage is believed to have been done to the airport and to aircraft dispersed around it." This report acknowledged that one British plane had failed to return. [A German communique in Oslo said one British plane had been shot down and the other raiders driven off.]

The admiralty announced that two submarines were overdue and must be regarded as lost. They are the 1,095-ton Tarpon, which carried a normal crew of 53, and the 678 ton Sterlet, whose normal complement was 40. The admiralty also disclosed the sinking of the 452-ton trawler Bradman and the 590-ton trawler Cape Siretoko, but said there was no loss of life in either case.

Actress to Wed

MARY KORNMAN.

Hollywood, Cal., April 30 [Special].—Mutual admiration for horses paved the way for a romance that will lead to the second marriage of Mary Kornman, film actress and former member of Hal Roach's famous "Our Gang" youngsters. Today Miss Kornman, 22 years old, told of her engagement to Ralph McCutcheon, 37, who owns a ranch near Greeley, Colo. Miss Kornman has owned several thorobred horses. About a year ago she decided to add to her stable and in looking about for horses she was introduced to McCutcheon and purchased several from him. The actress divorced Leo Tovar in 1938 in Los Angeles.

WELLES ORDERS PROBE INTO NAZI USE OF U. S. FLAG

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 30.—American diplomatic and consular officers in Scandinavia today were cabled instructions by Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles to investigate the first official charge of misuse of the American flag in the European war.

Welles revealed he had issued instructions for the assemblage of all facts in the reported misuse of the American flag by the German supply ship Jan Wellem at Narvik, Norway, at the start of the Nazi invasion of that country.

C. J. Hambro, president of the Norwegian parliament, charged Sunday that the German vessel flew the American flag and had American flags painted on its sides to disguise its true nationality.

Hambro said his information was based on the sworn statement of the Norwegian pilot of the vessel.

BRITAIN SETS UP MEDITERRANEAN SHIPPING GUARD

Shifts Routes Over Italy's Pro-German Stand.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 30.—Disquiet aroused here by the trend of Italian policy against the allies resulted in an announcement tonight that the British government has ordered "certain precautions" to safeguard British shipping which normally passes thru the Mediterranean. Official quarters attributed the need for special protective measures to recent pronouncements by Italian ministers and the Italian press campaign in favor of Germany.

A brief statement gave no inkling of the nature of the safeguards or whether they would involve strengthening of the Mediterranean fleet, tightening up controls and convoys, or a closure of the Mediterranean to British merchant ships. Authoritative circles said British shipping to and from eastern trading centers was being rerouted by way of the Cape of Good Hope. Vessels already in the Mediterranean were expected to leave as soon as possible.

Precautions Taken Earlier.

Similar precautions were taken immediately before the outbreak of the war when it seemed possible that Italy might join the war.

Altho much attention recently has been given here to Premier Benito Mussolini's attitude, as reflected in the Italian press, the sudden decision to safeguard British shipping came as a surprise since earlier today London newspapers emphasized the cordiality of week-end contacts between Lord Halifax, foreign minister, and Giuseppe Bastianini, Italian ambassador to London, and hinted an early resumption of Anglo-Italian trade negotiations.

Whitehall circles tonight said the special shipping measures would be continued no longer than necessary and expressed the hope that an improvement in Anglo-Italian relations soon would permit their cancellation.

Italy's Neutrality Denied Again.

ROME, April 30 (AP).—The newspaper Il Giornale d'Italia, pursuing the line of thought expressed by at least three Italian leaders last week, today reiterated that Italy is not neutral and, "allied with Germany, has her own interests to defend."

SHORTAGE CUTS SPAIN'S WHEAT RATIONS IN HALF

MADRID, Spain, April 30.—Faced with a serious wheat shortage the government today halved the bread ration, reducing the daily amount per person from 8.8 to 4.4 ounces. This was accomplished by a decree forbidding bakeries to sell bread except on alternate days, the amount available to each purchaser remaining unchanged. Efforts are being made to buy wheat abroad. However, it is understood France has refused to provide more than the 175,000 tons authorized in the recent commercial treaty and lack of shipping is holding up supplies from the Argentine and Australia. It is understood the government has made overtures to buy wheat in the United States. There also is a shortage of chick peas and red beans, two staples of the poor. There is, however, plenty of fruit and green vegetables, but sugar, olive oil, potatoes, milk, chick peas, and beans are strictly rationed. Meat is available about once a month and butter not at all.

RED CROSS SENDS $10,000 TO ASSIST NORSE REFUGEES

Washington, D. C., April 30 [Special].—Norwegian refugees are "swarming across the border" into Sweden to escape wide-spread bombing of villages, towns, and farms, according to a report received by the American Red Cross today from its representatives in Stockholm. The Red Cross at once cabled $10,000 to the Swedish Red Cross. Dr. Vance Murray of the United States public health service is now in Stockholm on American Red Cross medical relief work, and a special branch of the royal Swedish relief committee is caring for the Norwegian refugees.

U. S. CASTS GREEDY EYES AT NEW LANDS, RUSSIANS CHARGE

MOSCOW, April 30 (AP).—The communist international's annual May day appeal today charged that the United States "bourgeoisie" is casting greedy eyes toward Greenland, Iceland and British-French possessions in the West Indies. It also asserted that new wars are threatened in the Pacific by imperialistic arguments, one of which it said is being waged among Japan, Britain and the United States over the Netherlands East Indies.

As to the European war, the appeal said it threatens to spread to the Balkans and the near east, with Italy ready to go in. Europe and Asia and possibly other continents will be transformed into a field of bloody battle on a scale never before seen, the Russians predicted.

The appeal was addressed to workers of the world, who were urged to unite under the Red banner. A big military display will take place in Moscow's Red square tomorrow and 1,500,000 citizens will parade before soviet leaders as the climax of a May day festival.

HUNGARY WARNS SLOVAKIA: HANDS OFF OF MAGYARS

BUDAPEST, Hungary, April 30 (AP).—Hungary warned Slovakia today to keep its hands off "persecuted" Magyars within its new borders and expressed the belief that German-Hungarian friendship outweighs Germany's guarantee of Slovak "independence."

Count Stephen Csaky.

Hungarian Foreign Minister Count Stephan Csaky today read in parliament a declaration notifying Slovakia she cannot "hide behind the German guarantee" if Hungarians find it necessary to fight for their brothers inside Slovakia.

Hungary is at the "limit of its patience," he said, and the Hungarian minority situation in Slovakia must be quickly remedied. His declaration came after Geza Szullio, a leader of the Hungarian minority in what used to be Czecho-Slovakia, said Slovak oppression of Magyars had reached the point where people had been told to "tear out the tongue of any one who speaks Hungarian." Slovakian officials and diplomats said Csaky was talking nonsense.

New York, April 30 [Special].—The 43,450 ton French liner Ile de France, stripped of its luxurious furnishings and loaded to capacity with war supplies, took on a full store of fuel oil tonight in preparation for departure for war service. It is expected to sail tomorrow morning, having been here since Sept. 9. A number of warplanes, several tons of fresh beef, many tons of copper, brass rods, cable wire, and barrels of oil are aboard.

BRITAIN PREPARES FOR CONTRABAND CONTROLS IN AIR

Considers Way to Patrol Europe's Traffic.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ronald H. Cross.

LONDON, April 30.—Britain and France are examining the possibility of checking aerial traffic of European countries, for contraband, Ronald H. Cross, minister of economic warfare, told the house of commons today. They hope thus, he said, to halt the flow of contraband to Germany thru indirect channels. Traffic over the Pan American Airways' trans-Atlantic routes between the United States and Europe would in turn be affected.

This move follows a press campaign in which complaint was made that the special airline service connecting Italy and Holland to Portugal is furnishing a serious leak in the economic blockade.

It is admitted that forcing airplanes flying outside of territorial areas to go into control bases would raise a new question of international law. Moreover, it is said, the lives of pilots and passengers on planes intercepted by the control might be endangered in certain circumstances.

An obstacle to the scheme lies in the difficulty of maintaining an effective patrol to intercept planes. Britain and France are trying to work out a solution.

Tells of Blockade Leak.

Minister Cross told the American Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon that a serious leak in the British-French blockade of Germany existed at Vladivostok, Russian Pacific port.

" We wonder," he said, " how far it is generally realized in your country that important supplies are reaching Germany in this way."

Cross attempted to assure American business men that trade and business secrets obtained thru opening mails taken off American ships and airplanes and other neutral vessels were never, as some business men have charged, passed on to British competitors. Any information obtained, he declared, is kept secret in a small group of government officials. Business information was important in aiding the efficiency of the blockade, the minister said, and he asked neutrals to volunteer as much of this as possible.

Russia Rejects Trade Curb.

Russia, it was announced here, has bluntly rejected a British condition as a preliminary to trade negotiations. Britain proposed to ration soviet trade with neutrals and thus prevent a surplus from reaching Germany.

Russia is reported to have told Britain it is willing to guarantee that goods bought from Britain and France would not be passed to Germany, but declared her trade with Germany and other powers is her business and not that of Britain and France.

The Northern Ireland government will help Britain's war effort by handing over all war trophies, such as guns and tanks, which were gained by Ulster in the world war. The metal will be used in making munitions.

Ermine trimmed train, coronet and all, Bud Princess Lolita Yvonne Gordon came to town yesterday on a good will trip. Princess Lolita is 7 years old. She is to preside at the 1940 Michigan blossom festival, opening tomorrow in St. Joseph and Benton Harbor. Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes greeted her in the morning in the city hall. As the guests of Willard M. Rutzen of the Morrison hotel, she, her mother, and other members of the festival party were taken on a sightseeing trip of the city. They will return to Benton Harbor tomorrow.

TORNADO STRIKES IN THREE STATES; 9 DEAD, 28 HURT

Lashes Illinois, Missouri, and Arkansas.

Cairo, Ill., April 30 [Special].—A tornado that killed eight persons in Arkansas and Missouri lashed across the southern tip of Illinois this evening, injuring 19 persons, then backlashed into Kentucky to claim a ninth life.

Six persons were killed and six injured in Arkansas. All were members of two farm families living in Tull, about 25 miles southwest of Little Rock.

Three Missouri Towns Hit.

The tornado then took a long jump into southeastern Missouri, striking the towns of Bertrand, Charleston, and Sikeston. At Bertrand, about 15 miles southwest of Cairo, the year old son of Brownie Pettis, 30 years old, a farmer, was hurled 100 yards into a field and killed when the house blew away. Pettis and his wife, Nana Dell, were brought to a hospital here, seriously injured.

Lewis Campbell, 66, working on a farm at Sikeston, was killed. A Charleston woman was brought to hospital here after her house was demolished. Roofs were carried away and farm buildings blown down thruout the area.

The tornado then jumped the Mississippi river and struck Cache, in Pulaski county, 10 miles southeast of here, where several farm homes and barns were destroyed. It hit again three miles east of Cache at Mounds, knocking down the homes of five colored families and injuring eight persons, one of whom, Mrs. Anna Love, 60, is expected to die.

Strikes Other Regions.

Sweeping east thru the countryside the twister injured six more persons, who were brought to the hospital here. At Bellview, north of Mound City, Mrs. Floyd Gray, 30, was seriously injured when her house blew away.

At Marion, in Williamson, in Williamson county, 35 miles farther north, several houses were blown off their foundations and two were set on fire by live wires. Five persons, two of them children, were injured.

The tail of the tornado curved back across the Ohio river into Livingston county, in northwestern Kentucky, killing Mrs. Ruby Hawks when a building collapsed at Grand Rivers.

Meanwhile residents of La Salle and Livingston counties were repairing damage of a tornado which swept the area just 24 hours earlier, killing one person and injuring 19. Property damage was estimated at $100,000.

Three Killed in Texas.

Dallas, Tex., April 30 (AP).—Windstorms and a cloudburst tonight left three dead, many homeless, and thousands of dollars' worth of damage in east Texas. The dead were: J. E. McNeese, 70 years old, Richland; his son, Cecil, 30, and Mary Lee Cook, 18 months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Cook of Frankston.

GIRL, 4, IS RAPED; CHILDREN FIND HER NEAR HOME

A girl, 4 years old, was missing from her home at 4451 Wallace street yesterday from 1 to 7 p. m. Her mother hunted frantically for her in streets and alleys of the neighborhood. Finally a group of children found the girl on the sidewalk a few blocks from home. She said a man had taken her into a house. At the Evangelical Deaconess hospital of Chicago physicians found the girl had been raped. She could not help Stockyards police in determining who her attacker was or where he had taken her.

$1,100 PAYMENT FOR JOB TRACED TO CONGRESSMAN

Mail Carrier's Story Backed by Bankers.

Gainesville, Ga., April 30 (AP).—A stammering rural mail carrier testified today he paid the equivalent of half his first year's salary as a campaign contribution to Representative B. Frank Wehlchl [D., Ga.] in return for his appointment.

Hulon Holcomb, 22 years old, of Ball Ground, said he was a $75 a month clerk for his father, S. H. Holcomb Sr., when the latter conferred with Whelchel prior to his appointment and later told him to contribute $1,100 to the congressman.

Father and son subsequently borrowed money from a Canton, Ga., bank, young Holcomb told a federal court jury, and he paid the specified amount to H. Grady Jones, Pickens county commissioner, accused by the government as a go-between for Whelchel in the job sales. Three months later he was named a rural carrier, Holcomb said.

Whelchel, congressman since 1934, for 18 north Georgia counties, is accused jointly with Jones of receiving $2,700 for three postal appointments, and charged separately with agreeing to accept $1,500 for a fourth appointment which failed to materialize.

The prosecution, headed by Assistant United States Attorney General O. John Rogge and United States Attorney Lawrence Camp, called a parade of bank and finance company officials to the stand to identify deposit slips, canceled checks, transfers, and other bank records in an effort to trace payments by prospective appointees.

Ernest T. Hudson, president of the Bank of Ellijay, Ga., testified Jones deposited $1,100 on two occasions and $500 on another and promptly drew fresh checks, payable to cash, in equal amounts.

Cashier O. J. Lilly of the Gainesville National bank and W. G. Martin, manager of the Gainesville Motor Finance corporation, testified these eventually found their way to Whelchel's account with the finance company.

2 DELEGATIONS FROM ASSEMBLY TALK TO HORNER

Stelle Reverts to Job as Lieut. Governor.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 30 [Special].—John Stelle relaxed his claim upon the governorship of Illinois today, and took his constitutional office of lieutenant governor at the opening of the first special session of the 61st general assembly.

While Stelle presided over the senate today, he refused to reveal whether he plans in the future again to raise the question of Gov. Henry Horner's health. Just before the April 9 primary, in which Stelle was defeated for the Democratic nomination for governor, he proclaimed himself governor with the assertion that Mr. Horner was incapacitated.

No Official Explanation.

Mounting the senate rostrum, Stelle gave no explanation of his position to those before him. After the session, however, which featured a clash between Stelle and Harold G. Ward, Democratic floor leader, he talked briefly with reporters.

"I assumed the lieutenant governorship," he said, "in order to expedite passage of the old age pension increases. I thought the governor was going to be at the state house this morning so naturally I planned to preside over the senate. What I will do in the future depends upon the future."

Routine was followed in the opening formalities in both houses, including the naming of the customary committees to call upon the governor. Thru these bodies the legislature was given its first glimpse of Gov. Horner in months. Each group talked with him briefly in the library of the executive mansion. He arose, clad in a business suit, to meet and shake hands with each. Newspapermen were not permitted to witness the meetings.

Membership of Committees.

Representing the senate were Louis Menges [D., East St. Louis], chairman; H. S. Burgess [D., Fairfield]; Melvin Thomas [D., Charleston]; Arnold P. Benson of Batavia, the Republican floor leader, and Earl B. Searcy [R., Springfield].

From the house went Elmer J. Schnackenberg [R., Chicago], chairman; Ira H. Streeper III. [R., Alton]; Ben S. Rhodes [R., Normal]; W. H. Owen [D., Duquoin]; W. O. Edwards [D., Danville], and Edward Skarda [D., Chicago]. As each committee left the mansion the chairman was designated spokesman.

Deliver Governor's Message.

Back in the statehouse each committee handed over a copy of the governor's message which was read. Then the house went to work on the investigation of finances.

Neither chairman made any mention of the governor's condition to the membership of either house.

After Menges had handed the message to the secretary of the senate, A. E. Eden, Senator Ward arose and asked that Horner's call for the session be read, which brought on a clash with Stelle. Many thought this was because Stelle issued a call when he proclaimed himself acting governor, but it was not recognized by Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes and thus did not reach the assembly.

Stelle said later, however, that Ward had misunderstood his intentions and that he, Stelle, had ordered the call to be printed in the journal. It had not been read, tho, when Ward made his request.

Ward Insists Call Be Read.

Stelle replied that the call was not available, and ordered that the introduction of bills begin. Ward persisted, and finally demanded the floor on a point of personal privilege.

"No man is big enough to keep this call from the senate," Ward declared.

"If you want to make a speech, go ahead," Stelle retorted.

"That proclamation must be read," Ward repeated.

"If you want to make a speech on a point of personal privilege, go ahead; otherwise take your seat," Stelle told him.

Senator A. L. Marovitz [D., Chicago] joined Ward in his demand at that point and finally produced a typed copy of the call—one of those sent to all members—and took it to Eden's desk.

Stelle took it from Eden, looked at it, and asked the secretary if it had been read. Told it hadn't, he directed "Read it," and the incident closed.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Morrell, 20 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Morrell of Muskegon, Mich., yesterday was named May queen of Rosary college in River Forest. Her choice was announced at the annual college day dinner by Miss Patricia Knox of Green Bay, Wis., president of the sophomore class. According to tradition, Miss Morrell, a senior, will crown the statue of the Blessed Virgin in a ceremony on the campus next Sunday night.

HORNER VISITORS GIVE THEIR VIEWS ON HIS CONDITION

Most Agree Governor Is Ailing and Weary.

Springfield, Ill., April 30 [Special].—Eleven legislators visited Gov. Henry Horner in the mansion today, notifying him that the assembly had convened tonight. In response to questions from newspaper men, ten of them reported varying impressions as to the governor's physical and mental condition. Their statements follow:

Senator Louis E. Menges [D., St. Louis]—Gov. Horner is a very sick man and should be relieved of his duties for his own sake, regardless of any political considerations or questions of public interest.

Senator Earl B. Searcy [R., Springfield]—Gov. Horner is disabled physically but his mind is alert. Considering his year and a half of sickness, he is better than could be expected. He's still very sick.

Senator Arnold P. Benson [R., Batavia], senate minority leader—The governor's physical and mental condition was better than I had been expecting to find. We discussed matters for about 10 minutes, and at all times he was clear and lucid.

Senator Melvin Thomas [D., Charleston]—I last saw the governor in January. He seemed weaker now than then but is still mentally alert.

Senator H. S. Burgess [D., Fairfield]—Of course his mind has been weakened by illness, but, take it from a man who has been thru a severe heart attack, Gov. Horner is getting along all right.

Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg [R., Chicago]—The governor is certainly not as alert as he used to be. He's a very weary man.

Representative W. H. Owen [D., Du Quoin]—He lacks the vigor, mentally and physically, of the Gov. Horner who is known to the public. He has exhausted himself in public service. He is like a worn out machine.

Representative Ira H. Streeper III. [R., Alton]—The governor is a very sick man. He is to be pitied and not condemned. He had difficulty following a simple conversation.

Representative Edward Skarda [D., Chicago]—The condition of the governor shocked, surprised, and sorrowed me. He was far from his old mental and physical self. Questions put to him were answered by his secretary, Mr. O'Brien.

Representative W. O. Edwards [D., Danville]—It was plain to see that the governor had been a very sick man, but it was remarkable to note the recovery he has made.

Representative Ben S. Rhodes [R., Normal] refused to comment.

There is nothing before the legislature's special session challenging Gov. Horner's right to continue as chief executive. In the Circuit court at Bloomington, there is a tax payer's suit for a mandamus to compel Lieut. Gov. John Stelle to assume the post of active governor pending Horner's recovery. The suit is scheduled for a hearing on Friday, a hearing on a motion by Attorney General John E. Cassidy to dismiss the pleading on the grounds that the court lacks jurisdiction.

DISMISS CONTEST ON G. O. P. COMMITTEE POST IN 29TH WARD

County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki yesterday dismissed the suit to contest the election of Louis J. Meyers over Joseph R. Orrico as Republican 29th ward committeeman by 38 votes. This was done on the motion of Orrico's attorneys, who said the situation does not warrant the the expenditure involved. Contestants pay the costs of a recount.

Special Commissioner James P. Connery said he expects to report to Judge Jarecki tomorrow the results of a recount completed yesterday of the 70 precincts in the 44th ward. Richard A. Donnellan is contesting the election of Robert W. Dunn as Republican ward committeeman by a margin of five votes.

Connery will preside today at the recount to be started in the 36th ward, where Joseph F. Gubbins is contesting the election of Eden T. Brekke as Republican ward committeeman by 50 votes.

TELLS SAVINGS IN FLUORESCENT STREET LIGHTS

Chicago would save between $275,000 and $325,000 a year in its electric bill if fluorescent lamps were installed for street lighting, Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, told the Lake Shore Business and Professional Women's club at its annual public affairs dinner in the Hotel Sherman last night.

The city's annual electric light bill now is $800,000, Hewitt said. The purchase of fluorescent lighting equipment, however, would be expensive and would lessen the savings, he said.

DIES IN AUTOMOBILE.

John Fox, 57, died of a heart attack yesterday while seated in his automobile in front of his home at 2201 Foster avenue. Fox was a delicatessen owner.

HORNER VARIES IN STATEMENTS ON ADDED TAXES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 30.—Gov. Horner's message to the special legislative session today on the subject of additional state revenue was at variance with the personal observations he made to legislators on the subject.

Most important of the matters before the session is an increase of the state's share of the old age pensions from the maximum of $15 to $20 per month, which will be matched by federal funds. There are about 137,000 persons receiving pensions in the state—the average about $20—but experts in the department of finance have not yet stated how much additional revenue will be required to meet the proposed new maximum.

In his message the governor said he did not feel there would be opposition to the increase.

More Revenue Needed.

"However," he added, "measures should also be adopted by you to guarantee the ability of this state to satisfy the added financial burden which it must assume in order to effectuate such increase.

"Payment of [pension] awards," the governor's message continued, "has always been made from the general revenue fund; but further appropriation therefrom is impossible without drastic curtailment of vital state functions, unless added revenue is provided."

To many members this read like a mandate to find some new source of revenue. But in his brief conference with the committees which waited upon him from both houses, Mr. Horner told the senators and representatives that no new funds were necessary at the present time.

Any moves which must be made toward new or increased taxes can await the regular session in the legislature which convenes next January, the governor said. No reasons were advanced by administration leaders for these conflicting attitudes—written and spoken—expressed by the governor.

Measures Are Introduced.

Measures to bring about the increases were introduced in both chambers and advanced to second reading—in the senate by the Democratic floor leader, Senator Harold G. Ward of Chicago, and in the house by several representatives including Leo D. Crowley [R., Peoria], Thomas J. Lenane [D., Quincy], Charles W. Claybaugh [R., Champaign], Augustus F. De Gafferelly [R., Danville], Michael A. Hannigan [D., Chicago], Paul Powell [D., Vienna], and Andy O'Neill [D., Springfield].

O'Neill's and Powell's bill was accompanied by another measure to provide funds for the increase by a 5 cent per barrel tax upon oil producers.

Reduce Unemployment Payments.

A bill was introduced in response to another section of the call, providing reduced payments by Illinois employers under the unemployment compensation act. Sponsored by Representatives W. O. Edwards [D., Danville] and Edward J. McCabe [D., Chicago] this measure was said to have the support of both organized labor and business.

Savings of from $5,000,000 to $7,500,000 a year to Illinois employers were claimed for the bill by Martin P. Durkin, state director of labor, who said it would cut employer contributions by a sum somewhere between those figures without affecting employé benefit rights.

The major change in the present law which would be affected by the new bill, Durkin said, is to limit the payment of contributions by employers to the first $3,000 in wages paid by one employer to any worker.

Present Rate 2.7 Per Cent.

"Thus," Durkin said, "if an employer paid a worker $5,000 a year, he would be required to pay contributions on only the first $3,000 and would not have to pay on the other $2,000. Contributions now amount to 2.7 per cent of the total wages payable by employers who are subject to the law."

In Durkin's office it was explained that the reduction was made possible because collections under unemployment compensation are coming in at the rate of more than 15 million dollars per quarter, while payments range from 9 millions to 10 millions per quarter.

Durkin said the measure, if approved, would cut employer contributions by about 10 per cent.

Pegged Levy Bill Filed.

The $5,000,000 pegged levy bill for the Chicago sanitary district was introduced and advanced to second reading in both houses, and was made a special order of business for 11 a. m. next Tuesday in the house.

Measures reinstating museum taxes affected by the invalidation of the preadjucation of tax law were also presented, as well as enabling legislation for the Chicago forest preserve district to enlarge its acreage.

House bill No. 1 introduced by Representative Floor Leader Robert J. Branson of Centralia, would give Centralia and Salem, their populations swollen by the oil boom, authority to build and operate a joint waterworks.

HORNER'S MESSAGE REVEALS RECOVERY OF DEWITT BILLMAN

Springfield, Ill., April 30 [Special].—Gov. Horner paid a warm tribute today to Dewitt C. Billman, veteran executive secretary of the legislative reference bureau, who has been seriously ill for six months. The governor said he was happy to state that Billman, definitely, tho slowly, is convalescing.

Dewitt C. Billman.

In paying his tribute the governor chose to include it in his message to the opening meeting of the special legislative session. Billman is known to every member of the legislature, since he heads the agency which drafts bills for the members.

"I shall never forget," the governor wrote, "the many, many hours we spent together upon vexatious problems of state and the brilliant and assiduous efforts of Mr. Billman in seeking their solution. Illinois is indeed indebted to him for almost a quarter of a century of devoted public service. It is my sincere and dearest hope, the fulfilment of which, I am happy to say, seems assured, that Mr. Billman will soon again be restored to the full measure of his health and vigor."

Ho Hum; Comes April 28 and Then There Are Four

Riverside, Cal., April 30 (AP).—A consistent pair are the Mauro Adames. On Sunday, April 28, a fourth child, a boy, was born to them. The other three Adame children, two girls and a boy, 10, 6, and 2 years old, also were born on April 28.

HOUSE APPROVES WIDE INQUIRY ON STATE FINANCES

Horner Forces Decide Not to Oppose It.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 30.—Speaker Hugh W. Cross [R., Jerseyville] tonight named the house committee of seven which will investigate state finances and slush funds. The group held an immediate organization meeting and then recessed until 11 a. m. tomorrow.

The personnel of the committee, if nothing else, forecast the character of the impending inquiry.

Speaker Cross named four Republicans and one Democrat who were members of the Searle committee that was killed in the 1939 session when it began to look into charges of padded pay rolls, favoritism in purchases, and other expenditures of public funds for the political benefit of the party in power.

Members of Committee.

Representative Clinton Searle [R., Rock Island], who led the foreshortened 1939 inquiry, was elected chairman for the 1940 investigation. Others who will again serve with him are S. O. Dale [R., Fairfield], David I. Swanson [R., Chicago], Fred W. Rennick [R., Buda], and W. O. Edwards [D., Danville].

The two other members, both of whom were against the Horner-Nash-Kelly ticket in the Democratic primary, are Schaefer O'Neill [D., Alton], and Edward Skarda [D., Chicago].

The committee, preliminary to its first business session tomorrow morning, looked into the journal of the 1939 legislature, where there are two printed pages of old corruption charges. As additional material the investigators have the scandals which came to light following the mysterious death on March 9 of F. Lynden Smith, director of public works and former Horner campaign manager.

Proposed by Branson.

The investigation was authorized by the adoption of a resolution introduced by Majority Leader Robert J. Branson [R., Centralia].

The Branson resolution in the forenoon was shuttled into the executive committee, a parliamentary maneuver that reduced its requirements for passage to a majority of those voting rather than a majority of the house membership.

Faced with a defeat in any attempt to block adoption the Horner-Nash-Kelly followers during a noon recess decided to vote for the resolution, to remove any stigma of trying to suppress an inquiry. This gave the resolution a vote of 136 to 0.

Stelle Forces Back Quiz.

Democratic followers of Lieut. Gov. John Stelle supported the investigation and there were reports that some of his state-wide organization influenced Democrats who will be candidates for reëlection next fall.

Republican and Stelle leaders interpreted the switch in the Horner-Nash-Kelly attitude toward the inquiry as a defeat for the administration in the first test of strength in the lower branch of the special legislative session. Arthur O'Brien, the governor's secretary, said, however, that it was a tactical move freeing the state house machine of any charge of obstructionism.

Two other resolutions calling for investigations of state house scandals were also introduced during the day. They were inflammatory in phraseology and were not brought to a vote.

Provides Quiz on Finances.

The more diplomatic Branson resolution reads in part as follows:

"Whereas the governor by proclamation has convened this extraordinary session of the general assembly and one of the purposes thereof expressed in said proclamation is to consider provisions for the raising of revenue to furnish old age assistance; now, therefore be it

"Resolved, by the house of representatives of the 61st general assembly of the state of Illinois, at their first special session convened April 30, 1940, that a committee be created consisting of seven members of the house of representatives, appointed by the speaker, whose duty it shall be to investigate the entire condition of state finances, the sources of state revenues, expenditures therefrom, the use or diversion of state funds or the moneys derived therefrom, or practices followed in connection with the expenditures of state funds, and to report its conclusions, findings and recommendations to this house as soon as practicable; and be it further

"Resolved, that for the purpose of conducting such investigation, the committee shall have power to subpoena witnesses, and compel them to testify under oath and to issue subpoenas duces tecum to compel the production of any records, to examine the same, and compel the production of such other books, records, accounts, papers, and documents as may be deemed relevant by said committee to the matter named for investigation in this resolution."

Nudelman Welcomes Quiz.

Milburn P. Akers, publicity man for Horner, tonight issued a statement quoting Director of Finance Samuel L. Nudelman as welcoming the investigation.

"Today's action of the house," Nudelman is quoted, "is in full accord with the Horner administration's policy of providing the public, at all times, with accurate and detailed information of all fiscal affairs.

"Altho the resolution was sponsored by a Republican member of the house, we were assured that the inquiry was intended solely for the purpose of better acquainting the legislators and the public with the state's financial problems and condition. Accordingly, we asked our friends in the general assembly to accord the resolution their fullest approval and support which, as the roll call demonstrates, they did.

"As director of finance, I am in hearty favor of this inquiry, and all others when they are honestly conducted and are not intended merely for the purpose of making political capital. The department of finance will coöperate fully with the committee. All records and facilities of the department will be placed at the committee's disposal to the end that the state may benefit."

New Session Call Urged.

A new special session of the legislature was urged today by Arnold L. Lund [R., Riverside] in a resolution which condemned Horner's call for the present session as suppressing administration scandals. Failure of the governor to include economy in the call also was attacked.

Lund would end the present session and appoint a joint senate and house committee to wait upon the governor to convene a new session with broader powers. The executive committee voted to report the resolution to the floor of the house without recommendation.

The committee postponed consideration of a resolution by Edward P. Saltiel [R., Chicago], asking an investigation of the financial status of the state; the need, if any, for additional taxation, and an inquiry into the 2 per cent slush fund assessment against the salaries of state employés.

EDUCATOR SLAIN IN CARBONDALE; WIDOW IS HELD

Shooting Accidental, Says Mrs. L. C. Petersen.

L. C. Petersen.

Carbondale, Ill., April 30 [Special].—A coroner's jury recommended late today that Mrs. Maud Petersen, 61 years old, be held for grand jury investigation in the fatal shooting of her husband, Prof. L. C. Petersen, of the Southern Illinois Normal university.

Petersen, 62 years old, died in a hospital this morning, 12 hours after the shooting in their home here. A native of Norway, he was the oldest member of the Normal university faculty, having been an instructor and professor in the industrial arts department for 30 years.

Altho Mrs. Petersen had told investigating officers that the shooting was accidental, she declined to testify at the inquest on advice of her counsel. Her bond was fixed at $10,000.

First Story Is Denial.

Mrs. Petersen first denied any knowledge of the shooting and later said it was accidental.

Police Chief Edward Fehrenbaker said that when he was called by neighbors to investigate the shooting he found Mrs. Petersen in the home of her mother, half a block away. She said she didn't know her husband had been shot and that she had been with her mother for 45 minutes. Fehrenbaker said he learned she had been there only five minutes.

When Mrs. Petersen was questioned in the hospital by Sheriff Cecil Brayshaw she told him there was a gun in the kitchen cabinet in her home. Police couldn't find it and took her home to look for it. There she admitted the shooting and said it was accidental, the sheriff said. Then she showed them the gun hidden in a coal bin.

Feared Husband's Ire.

Mrs. Petersen said she bought the revolver in a hardware store on April 11 after prowlers had been reported in the neighborhood. She hadn't told her husband of the purchase and was afraid he would object to it, she said.

Last night she decided to show it to him. He was sitting at the dining room table where he had fallen asleep while reading. As she approached him carrying the weapon, it was discharged, she said.

Prof. Petersen said he was awakened by the explosion, but didn't see any one in the room. He realized he was hurt, he said, and didn't know he was shot. He telephoned a neighbor, W. W. Trobaugh, and asked him to come over. Trobaugh found him lying on a bed, seriously wounded.

Gets Lilacs

Chicago saw its first lilacs of the season yesterday. A half truckload of blossoms arrived from Anna, Ill., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gatto, 7024 South Wabash avenue.

Each year the Gattos give one of the largest single contributions of flowers for Share Your Lilacs day, sponsored by the Chicago Plant, Flower, and Fruit guild in coöperation with THE TRIBUNE. Their 5 year old daughter, little Angel Diana Gatto, kept many of the blossoms for herself yesterday. "I've been waiting for them for a week," she announced petulantly. "They came earlier last year."

BARRETT CLAIMS FRAUD; DEMANDS BALLOT RECOUNT

Bloomington, Ill., April 30 [Special].—State Auditor Edward J. Barrett, in a recount suit filed late today in the office of George L. Morris, clerk of the Circuit court, charged that he was deprived illegally of about 31,000 votes in his April 9 primary fight for renomination against Congressman John C. Martin, who was given the nomination by about 18,000 votes on the face of returns.

Barrett asked for a recount of votes cast in six counties—Cook, Madison, McLean [where the suit was filed], Perry, St. Clair, and Williamson.

In filing his suit, Barrett made plain that he was not impugning his opponent, Congressman Martin.

Ballots, the suit claimed, were counted wrongfully and tallied by judges and clerks. Instances were cited where the combined vote for auditor exceeded the total vote cast in the precinct. In other precincts the bill charged that judges failed to make certifications of the votes on the tally sheets.

SEIZE 3 BOOKIES; ROUT 25 PATRONS. Sergt. Charles Moore and a squad from the Des Plaines street station made three arrests and sent 25 patrons home in a raid yesterday on a handbook at 1328 Adams street. Those arrested are Jack Berman, Morris Cohn, and Sam Meyers.

SLATE HAFFNER PROMOTION IN GUARD SHAKEUP

Lawton Expected to Get Keehn's Place.

The ouster of Maj. Gen. Roy D. Keehn from command of the Illinois National guard will result in the promotion of Col. Charles C. Haffner Jr. to the rank of brigadier general, according to well authenticated reports in military circles last night.

It is understood that Gov. Henry Horner will appoint Brig. Gen. Samuel T. Lawton of the 58th Field Artillery brigade to succeed Gen. Keehn. And the governor, it is understood, will then appoint Col. Haffner to Gen. Lawton's post.

Field Artillery Commander.

Col. Haffner is commander of the 124th Field Artillery of the Illinois National Guard and an overseas veteran of the world war. He is treasurer of the printing firm of R. R. Donnelley & Sons Co., and a director of a number of business institutions. His home is at 880 North Green Bay road, Lake Forest.

Gen. Lawton said last night that he has received no notification of his appointment. He was reached at Pontiac where he is hearing reformatory parole petitions as a member of the state parole board. Gen. Lawton is an attorney living at the Mayfair hotel, 5496 Hyde Park boulevard. He is a member of the Standard club.

Two Reasons Offered.

The ailing governor still offered no explanation yesterday of his ouster of Gen. Keehn. Reports persisted, however, that the two principal reasons were these:

Dwight H. Green, Republican nominee for governor, began his legal career in Gen. Keehn's law offire. And Gen. Keehn is said to have overridden the governor's wishes by completely mechanizing the 23d cavalry squadron and bringing about the construction of 18 new armories.

Despite the governor's silence, it was learned that he sent Adj. Gen. L. V. Regan to Gen. Keehn on Saturday with the demand for Gen. Keehn's resignation. Gen. Regan delivered Gen. Keehn's resignation to the governor yesterday.

Deprived of Honor.

Gen. Keehn's only comment was a reiteration of the statement he made to his staff officers when he told them he was resigning: "The National Guard is bigger than any one man or any one issue."

The ouster, it was learned, will deprive Gen. Keehn of the honor of promotion to lieutenant general. Illinois National Guard commanders automatically retired at the age of 64 are ordinarily raised to this rank. Gen. Keehn is 62.

It was reported that both the Illinois United States senators, Scott W. Lucas and James M. Slattery, advised Gov. Horner against dismissing Gen. Keehn. Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff at Washington, said:

"I regret to see Gen. Keehn relinquish command."

Circus Queen

TOSCA CANESTRELLI.

Tosca Canestrelli, 17 years old, who was born in the shadow of the big top and performs ballet numbers on a loose rope, last night was crowned queen of the Greater Olympia circus at the Chicago Stadium. La Tosca—as she is billed—was selected from six finalists in the competition. The choice was made by Frank ["Bring 'Em Back Alive"] Buck, whose jungle camp is an attraction at the circus, and an orchestra leader, and a photographer.

SEN. WHEELER TOSSES HAT INTO DEMOCRATIC RING

New York, April 30 (AP).—Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] made what amounted to a definite announcement of his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination today—"if Mr. Roosevelt is out of it."

"I can't conceive of him [Roosevelt] being a candidate," Wheeler added. Asked if that statement did not make him a candidate, he smiled and answered, "That's right."

If Mr. Roosevelt wants the nomination, Wheeler said during the interview, "he can get it and there's no use kidding oneself about that." The senator said he will go to Missouri tomorrow for two "nonpolitical" speeches, grinning as he stressed "nonpolitical."

GALA SPECTACLE TOMORROW WILL HAIL AIR THEATER

'Bittersweet' Featured on W-G-N Premiere.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Chicago's own Theater of the Air will be opened at W-G-N tomorrow night with a spectacle of light, color, music, and drama. The opening of W-G-N's new operetta series, with Noel Coward's "Bittersweet" as the first offering, is expected to resemble a Hollywood première.

Searchlights will play on the scene and loud speakers will tell the story as Marion Claire and James Melton, the stars of the production, and the notable company that has been invited to attend the première arrive at the W-G-N studios.

Mayor Kelly is to head the civic, business, and society leaders who will attend the gala opening. Heading a group of special guests will be Admiral William Carleton Watts, commandant, and 200 officers and men of the 9th United States naval district from the Great Lakes naval training station, resplendent in their blue and gold uniforms.

Mayor Heads Guests.

W-G-N and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, which is sponsoring the Theater of the Air, yesterday extended an invitation to everybody who desires to come and view the spectacle and hear the music from Tribune Square and surrounding vantage points.

Four powerful searchlights will light up the scene from a truck across Michigan avenue. Eight more floodlights will be used. Thus, crowds will have the best possible opportunity to catch a glimpse of the celebrities. Eight loud speakers—six to be suspended high from Tribune Tower and two on the W-G-N studio building—will carry the entire broadcast of the operetta.

Crowds to Be Described.

Radio pickup points, both within and outside the studio, have been provided so that a description of the crowds can be cut into the radio broadcast. The scene within W-G-N's big 600 seat studio will be described and relayed to the crowd outside by way of the loud speakers. And the full musical production will be carried by these speakers.

The loudspeakers, six feet square, can be heard for blocks and yet during softer passages the tones can be lowered with the retention of a maximum of fidelity.

James Melton, radio and concert favorite, will arrive from the east today to join the cast in two days of intensive rehearsal for the production which is being produced and directed by William A. Bacher of Hollywood. Henry Weber, director of music for W-G-N and artistic director of the Chicago Opera company, will conduct the orchestra.

Between acts Charles Collins, conductor of the "Line O'Type or Two" column and former dramatic critic of THE TRIBUNE, will recall the Chicago stage première of "Bittersweet" in 1933, contrasting it with this radio première.

The entire production of the operetta—running from 9 to 10 p. m., will be broadcast over the coast to coast network of the Mutual Broadcasting system.

FIFTH TRIBUNE PAPER SHIP TO ARRIVE TODAY

The Heron Bay, latest addition to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE's fleet of seven pulpwood and newsprint cargo vessels, was due to arrive at the Tribune warehouse east of the Michigan avenue bridge today. It will unload 2,700 tons of newsprint tonight. The vessel, a bulk cargo carrier, was purchased last winter to meet increasing demands on the fleet. Four of the Tribune boats already have unloaded 9,674 tons of paper and are now on their way back to the Tribune paper mills at Thorold, Ont. These vessels are Outarde, New York News, Chicago Tribune, and the Franqueline. The Shelter Bay and the Thorold are en route here from the mills.

Cashier for Park District Retires After 32 Years

George A. Bauer, cashier for the Chicago park district, retired yesterday after nearly 32 years' service. He began as a clerk with the old west park district in September, 1908. He was appointed cashier in 1917. His home is at 1121 Long avenue.

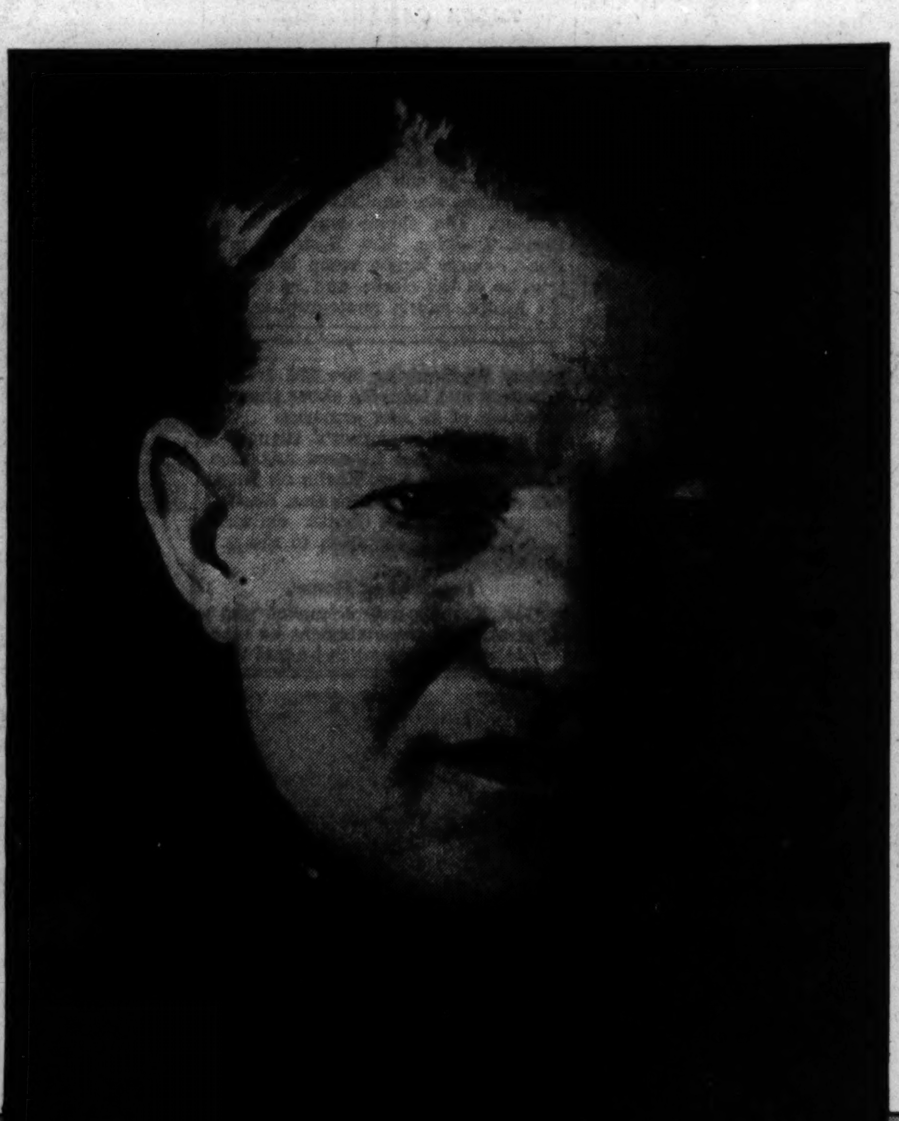
WAR'S "GREATEST SECRET AGENT" TELLS HIS STORY



▶ Three years before we got into Europe's last war, this country was a battlefield—a battlefield of espionage. Germany's dynamiters struggled to outwit the counter spies of the Allies. But the Allies had an ace in the hole, Captain Emanuel V. Voska—"Victor, the greatest secret agent of the war," a patriotic Czech-American. Today he is the only man who knows all the facts about the struggle which rages beneath the placid surface of peacetime America. Today—when it is especially valuable to know how espionage can be conducted in this country—he tells Post readers his dramatic story of trailing dynamiters, smuggling messages, stealing documents, and trapping spies.

PICK UNPLEDGED MASSACHUSETTS G. O. P. DELEGATES

Four Unauthorized Dewey Supporters Beaten.

Boston, Mass., May 1, Wednesday (AP).—Massachusetts Republicans rejected an old age pension slate supporting Thomas E. Dewey in favor of an unpledged delegation as returns mounted today in the state presidential primaries, while Bay State Democrats pushed close to completion a slate pledged to Postmaster General James A. Farley.

In 12 of the state's 15 congressional districts the "official" slates pledged to Farley ran well ahead and, barring a sharp reversal of the trend it appeared he would bag the 48 convention delegates involved. In three districts his supporters were engaged in nip and tuck battles for 12 more district delegate seats.

The 12 man Democratic delegation at large, also officially pledged to Farley, was elected without opposition. Each of the dozen was alloted one-third of a vote in the national convention.

Pension Group Snowed Under.

On the Republican side, a four man unpledged delegation at large headed by Gov. Leverett Saltonstall and backed by the G. O. P. state committee literally snowed under an old age pension group led by William H. McMasters, who had pledged his organization to the candidacy of Dewey, but without the authorization of the New York district attorney.

For the most part, the Republican state committee's slate of district delegates, running as unpledged, appeared assured of election, but in two of the 15 congressional districts there were close battles that only a final count could decide.

The vote in 1,472 of the state's 1,609 precincts for the state committee's unpledged at-large delegation was: Saltonstall, 51,251; Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, 51,220; House Minority Leader Joseph W. Martin, 45,523; John W. Haigis, 46,041.

For the pension group: McMasters, 11,856; Byron P. Hayden, 9,621; Henry P. Gibbs, 9,165; Seldon G. Hill, 9,121.

Another Slate Trails.

In Springfield, a two-man district slate openly favorable to Dewey's candidacy but entirely disassociated from the McMasters group trailed by approximately 300 votes with eight of the 103 precincts still uncounted. In the 13th district the state committee's choices trailed behind an independent group with the count one-fourth completed.

PRESIDENT CALLS FOES OF SHIFT IN CAA 'IGNORANT'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 30.—Taking cognizance of widespread criticism of his plan to reorganize the Civil Aeronautics authority, President Roosevelt today charged that the attacks on his scheme were inspired by "ignorance, gullibility, or politics."

At a press conference Mr. Roosevelt defended his plan to consolidate the five member CAA board, its administrator, and the air safety board into a unit, which would report to him thru the secretary of commerce.

He released a specially prepared statement which referred to a group of pilots who have descended on the capital to fight his order. His statement said "a flood of misinformation has engulfed those dealing with the Civil Aeronautics authority. This morning we saw a group of well intentioned people [and that had plenty of implication, he interjected] claiming to be a 'lobby to save lives.'

"The implication that we are not interested in saving lives is contradicted by the record of our progress in aviation."

The President asserted he will not modify his order.

Labor Candidate Elected as Mayor of St. Paul

St. Paul, Minn., April 30 (AP).—John J. McDonough, labor indorsed candidate for mayor, who lost to the incumbent, William Fallon, two years ago by 239 votes, defeated Fallon tonight in the city election, 49,244 to 45,793, an unofficial tally showed. The total vote was the largest ever cast here. Three labor councilmen also were reëlected to give labor progressive candidates a four to three majority on the city council.

Republican Gains

REPUBLICAN GRIP ON 19TH DISTRICT GROWS TIGHTER

Champaign, Ill., April 30 [Special]. —From the time the present Illinois congressional districts were created in 1901, the 19th district, with the single exception of the Bull Moose split in 1912, elected a Republican congressman at every election until 1932. It went Democratic also in 1934 and 1936, but it went back to the Republican fold in 1938 and apparently is going to stay there.

The eight counties in east central Illinois which make up this district cast 52,658 Republican votes on April 9 this year. This was an increase of 7,626 over the G. O. P. total of 45,032 in the presidential primary four years ago, a rise of 17 per cent. In comparison with the party vote in 1938—38,677—the increase was 13,981, or 36 per cent. The increase over 1934 was 9,965, or 23.3 per cent.

Dewey Receives 45,000 Votes.

In the presidential preference voting this year Thomas E. Dewey received 45,106 votes in this district. The total in 1936 was only 39,841, altho there was a contest that year, in which the late Senator William E. Borah received 24,440 and Frank Knox 15,401.

Thomas E. Dewey, President	45,106
William H. Wheat, congressman	42,847
Elmer Haynes, national delegate	35,757
Rolla C. McMillen, national delegate	32,686
Wayland Brooks, U. S. senator	26,690
Dwight H. Green, governor	30,922
Hugh W. Cross, lieutenant governor	22,591
Justus L. Johnson, secretary of state	9,220
Arthur C. Lueder, state auditor	6,230
Warren Wright, state treasurer	21,511
George F. Barrett, attorney general	8,430
William G. Stratton, congress at large	25,097

Unseat Democrat in 1938.

In 1938, when Congressman William H. Wheat unseated the Democratic incumbent, Hugh M. Rigney, there was only 32,335 votes cast for congressman in the Republican primary. This year the total for Wheat, who was unopposed, was 42,847.

These analyses were made by representatives of THE TRIBUNE from the results of the county canvasses.

April Slightly Wetter and Cooler Than Normal

April weather was slightly wetter and cooler than normal, Forecaster C. A. Donnel said yesterday in a preliminary report based on the first 29 days of the month. Precipitation for the 29 days was 3.15 inches, compared with normal precipitation of 2.67 inches for the period. Average temperature was 44.1 degrees against 46.7 degrees as normal. Six of the 29 days were clear, nine were partly cloudy, and 14 were cloudy. Yesterday's maximum temperature was 72, and a magnolia tree was reported in bloom at the home of Harry Milewski, 4436 North Spaulding avenue.

ROOSEVELT ENDS EFFORT TO BEAT GARNER IN TEXAS

Compromises, Then Turns to Row in Iowa.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 30.—After abandoning his fight to deprive Vice President John Nance Garner of the Texas delegation to the Democratic national convention, President Roosevelt turned his attention today to complications in the "draft Roosevelt" situation in Iowa.

E. H. Birmingham, chairman of the Iowa Democratic state committee, laid the situation before the President. Birmingham and Senator Clyde Herring [D., Ia.] are beating the tom-toms for a third term nomination for Mr. Roosevelt. They want the state's delegation of 22 instructed for his renomination.

Gillette Backs Wallace.

Senator Guy M. Gillette [D., Ia.] is vigorously opposing a third term, wholly on principle he asserts, and uninfluenced by the fact that he is one of the Democratic senators of whom the President undertook to purge his party in 1938 because they refused to support his project to pack the Supreme court. Senator Gillette and a considerable following want a delegation instructed for Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace as Iowa's favorite son, but Mr. Wallace has declared for a third term for Mr. Roosevelt.

Birmingham hinted at a possible compromise, presumably suggested by the President, whereby the delegation would record a complimentary note for Mr. Wallace and then join the third term procession.

Agreement Is Reached.

In Texas the President started out to beat Mr. Garner in his own state, but found he had seized a potato too hot to handle. Undersecretary of the Interior Alvin Wirtz, after a conference with the President, departed for Texas 10 days ago to round up the delegation for Mr. Roosevelt. He found the going pretty rough. It was apparent that if the President succeeded in capturing some of the delegates it probably would be at the cost of a party schism.

The upshot was that Wirtz was called off and an agreement was made by the Garner and Roosevelt forces whereby the state convention will instruct the 46 delegates for Garner and indorse the Roosevelt administration.

Rayburn Is Informed.

This agreement was summarized in the following telegram received today from Myron G. Blalock, Texas state manager for Garner, by Majority Leader Sam Rayburn [D., Tex.] of the house, Garner leader, and Representative Lyndon Johnson [D., Tex.], Roosevelt third term leader:

"I have your telegram and agree with you. Our organization advocates a three-point program as follows:

"1. A strong indorsement of the Roosevelt-Garner administration.

"2. An instruction to the Texas delegates to work and vote as a unit at Chicago for the nomination of our great fellow Texan, John Nance Garner, for President.

"3. The selection of a representative delegation composed of a strong and representative group of Texas Democrats, both men and women, to carry out this program and not to serve as a stop-Roosevelt movement. I have conferred with Mr. Wirtz and we are in accord on this program."

A similar telegram was received from Wirtz. The Garner managers readily agreed to pledge against a stop Roosevelt movement.

DEWEY'S HEALTH RESTORED; READY TO RESUME TOUR

Colorado Springs, Colo., April 30 [Special].—Thomas E. Dewey, candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, had recovered fully today from the stomach ailment which kept him in bed several days. Under his physician's direction, he remained in his hotel suite here.

Dewey was in such excellent spirits that he asked Dr. John A Sevier, who has been treating him, if he could play a round of golf. Dr. Sevier advised against it.

If the weather is appropriate, Dewey probably will play golf tomorrow afternoon. He will continue his rest here until Thursday night, when he will resume the second half of his transcontinental campaign tour and head back east. Dewey will speak in Wichita, Kas., Friday evening; in Marshalltown, Ia., Saturday; go to Chicago Sunday, and return to New York City early Monday morning.

SENATE TO RUSH VOTE ON BILL TO CURB NEW DEAL

Passage by Majority of 2 to 1 Predicted.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 30.—Senate supporters of the Walter-Logan administrative law bill today predicted its passage by an overwhelming vote and announced plans to bring it up for consideration this week, probably tomorrow.

Sponsors of the measure said they would move to make it the senate's pending business immediately after disposition of the Townsend bill to repeal the New Deal's foreign silver purchase program. The Townsend bill was made the senate's pending business today, and is expected to be passed tomorrow.

Thus the New Dealers face the probability of two major senate defeats at an early date. The Walter-Logan bill, intended to regulate the regulators by subjecting the rules, decisions, and orders of the federal administrative agencies to strict judicial supervision, has been passed by the house by a 3 to 1 vote and some of its supporters predicted senate approval by at least a 2 to 1 majority.

May Override Veto.

Such a majority would make possible the overriding of a veto by President Roosevelt, which has been threatened by the New Deal opponents of the bill.

Senate sponsors of the Walter-Logan measure contradicted the claims of New Dealers that the Supreme court opinion given yesterday by Justice Hugo L. Black doomed the measure. They said the Black opinion would strengthen rather than diminish the bill's support in the senate.

Black's opinion, upholding the authority of the secretary of labor to make wage determinations under the public contracts act of 1936 without appeal therefrom to the courts, pointedly denounced interference by the judiciary with the executive and administrative agencies of the government.

Sponsors Desire Speed.

Senator William H. King [D., Utah], chairman of the judiciary subcommittee which considered the Walter-Logan bill, and Senator Carl A. Hatch [D., N. M.], a leading sponsor of the measure, both said they would demand its immediate consideration after disposition of the silver purchase repealer. Senator King said the supporters of the bill would try to obtain its approval as the house passed it, without amendment, in order to avoid a conference delay and send it directly to the White House.

While the decisions of the quasi-judicial, quasi-legislative agencies which act as complainant, prosecutor, judge and jury are subject to judicial review as to the law, their findings of facts are binding upon the courts if supported by substantial evidence. In the case of the national labor relations board, the Supreme court has held, in an opinion by Justice Black, that the courts have no power to review findings of facts. Thus the word of the labor board as to the facts on which it bases an order against an employer is absolute and final.

Reduction of WPA Rolls in Illinois Starts Today

Gradual reduction of the state Work Projects administration rolls for May from 169,175 to 140,000 will begin today in accordance with orders from Washington for a general national slash. Charles E. Miner, state WPA administrator, said yesterday the decrease will be spread over the entire month. In Cook county WPA rolls will be cut from 72,783 to 68,972.

Counsel for Horace L. Brand, 71 years old, former German language newspaper publisher, and his wife, Erna, 44, of 37 Cedar street, conferred for three hours yesterday with Mrs. Erna Zeddies, Brand's daughter by a former marriage. She was ordered to appear by Judge Rudolph Desort of the Superior court after Brand said she objected to a settlement he had proposed in order to end his wife's separate maintenance suit.

Robert E. Cantwell Jr., counsel for Mrs. Brand, and Attorney Frank B. Teed, representing Brand, who lives in the Evanshire hotel in Evanston, stated at the conclusion of the negotiations that they were still far from a settlement, but would try again today.

The intimation was that Mrs. Zeddies, who lives at 2512 Iroquois street, Wilmette, was still reluctant to allow her father to pay his present wife a substantial settlement. Brand's chief asset is a collection of gold coins once valued at $1,500,000, which he says he would now sell for $360,000.

U. S. AGENTS QUIZ 3 ARRESTED FOR MAIL BOX THEFTS

Three young men, one of them a graduate of the St. Charles School for Boys and another on probation on an automobile theft charge, were arrested yesterday. Shapespeare avenue police said the three had admitted rifling more than 400 mail boxes in the last month. Last night they were questioned by government agents.

Those arrested are: Fred Hoppe, 15 years old, 1077 North Hermitage avenue, who recently served 20 months in St. Charles; Christ Zalewski, 18, of 1440 Chicago avenue, who is on probation, and Stanley Czarnik, 16, of 1500 Walton street.

FOES AMEND NEW WAGE-HOUR BILL TILL IT ALL DIES

Even Author Joins in House Vote to Junk Measure.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 30.—A tentative victory was scored by administration forces today when the house, by a vote of 156 to 66, defeated the Barden bill drastically altering the act imposing minimum wage and maximum hour restrictions upon industry.

Representative Barden.

The battle over improvements in the wage-hour law continues tomorrow, however, and some of the Barden amendments may eventually receive the approval of the chamber.

New Deal strategy achieved today's result. The measure sponsored by Representative Graham A. Barden [D., N. C.] was loaded up with so many amendments that it became unpalatable to a large majority, including Barden himself.

When the standing vote came, Barden voted against the measure. He was joined by more than 100 Democrats and 50 Republicans. Only a dozen Democrats and 50 odd Republicans voted for the bill.

Norton Bill Up Next.

Tomorrow's consideration will be upon the bill offered by Representative Mary T. Norton [D., N. J.], chairman of the house labor committee. Altho it is mild compared with the Barden bill, it is expected to be altered considerably before passage.

The Barden bill would have exempted about 928,000 workers in industries handling agricultural products from the minimum wage provision of the law, which is 30 cents an hour at present. It also would have exempted an additional 988,000 workers in the same industries from the maximum 42 hour week authorized in the present act.

The Norton bill would exempt an additional 465,000 workers in the same class, giving them a 60 hour maximum work week, with a 14 week period in which there would be no maximum in order to provide for seasonal commodities.

Any of the provisions of the Barden measure may be offered as amendments to the Norton bill.

The administration's strategy to kill the Barden bill became clear after 14 amendments had been approved. Some of them were of a far fetched nature, vastly exceeding the aims of those seeking to remove the injustices of the present law. Noting this roundabout method of gaining enemies for the bill, Representative Frank B. Keefe [R., Wis.] took the floor to exclaim:

"Are we too stupid to see what's going on here? The very obvious purpose on the part of some members fighting any changes in the law is to make this measure impossible of adoption in the house or to insure its ultimate death in the senate. I am going to vote against this bill in its present form."

Barden came out against his own bill after an amendment had been approved by a voice vote which knocked out of the measure the exemptions concerned with the minimum wage provision.

Author Disowns Bill.

"It no longer is my bill," he told the house. "I expect to vote against it."

Among the amendments agreed to was one exempting the employés of banks and trust companies, the greater part of whose business was confined within the boundaries of one state. Representative Vincent F. Harrington [D., Ia.] said this amendment would exempt only the employés of small country banks.

Another amendment sponsored by Representative John W. Gwynne [R., Ia.] exempted the employés of newspapers with a circulation of 5,000 or less.

ADVERTISE IN THE TRIBUNE

METHODISTS ASK THAT ROOSEVELT RECALL TAYLOR

Committee's Resolution Hits Tie with Vatican.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Atlantic City, N. J., April 30.—The standing committee on interdenominational relations of the general conference of the Methodist church here today unanimously adopted a resolution asking President Roosevelt to recall Myron C. Taylor, the President's envoy to the Vatican.

The resolution, signed by Chairman Dr. James W. Moore of Newport News, Va., and Chapin D. Foster of Chehalis, Wash., committee secretary, specifically endorses a statement by the council of bishops on diplomatic relations with the Vatican. This statement will be voted on tomorrow morning by the conference. Delegates predicted adoption.

Refers to Bill of Rights.

The resolution follows:

"The bill of rights, which guarantees freedom of religion, assembly, press, speech, and other liberties, is an essential part of the constitution of the United States. Without it this union of independent sovereign states could not have been formed. These principles must ever be held sacred and inviolate by a liberty loving people. It is our firm belief that their preservation can be accomplished only by maintaining the complete separation of church and state. On this matter we endorse the following statement contained in the address of the council of bishops:

"We are ready to join with the Roman Catholic church to promote peace, but we do deplore and must firmly resist any union of church and state, and are and will be unalterably opposed to any establishment of diplomatic relations between the Vatican and the United States.

Taylor Recall Is Urged.

"We, therefore, respectfully but with genuine earnestness urge our President to recall Mr. Myron C. Taylor. His appointment has created a spirit of uneasiness and resentment in the minds of a great number of people, and instead of promoting peace has engendered discord and strife, which seems calamitous at this time when there is an imperative need for harmonious action on the part of all those who fear God and love righteousness."

Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf of the Chicago area told newspaper reporters today that the removal of the board of education from Chicago to Nashville, Tenn., has been compensated by the transfer of other boards to Chicago and by the creation of a board of publicity which probably will be located at 740 Rush street.

Perish in Fire

[TRIBUNE Photos.]
JACKIE LECHLITNER.

South Bend, Ind., April 30 [Special].—Two little brothers were burned to death today in a fire that destroyed a barn at their farm home near here. Their hysterical mother, hearing their screams, tried to rush into the flames to save them, but neighbors held her back from certain death.

The victims were Ronald Lechlitner, 4 years old, and his brother, Jackie, 2, the only children of Mr. and Mrs. George Lechlitner, who live on a farm near the Michigan-Indiana state line north of South Bend.

The boys climbed into the hay filled mow of the barn on a happy hunt for a litter of kittens born to the family cat a few days ago.

It is believed they lit matches to look into the dark corners of the closed structure. Lechlitner said Ronald had a penchant for playing with matches. Only two days ago he was scolded when found lighting them.

FIRE AT STILLWELL, IND.

La Porte, Ind., April 30 [Special].—Fire today destroyed a general store owned by Gordon Taylor, La Porte county Democratic chairman, and Fred Mann's garage, at Stillwell, six miles southeast of La Porte. Loss is estimated at $10,000.

LAWYER OF TWO MONTH STANDING GIVEN NLRB JOB

Never Practiced, but Is on Review Staff.

Washington, D. C., April 30 (AP).—A lawyer, 27 years old, today told the house committee investigating the national labor relations board that he was appointed to the board's staff of review attorneys two months after his admission to the bar in Chicago.

The witness, Roscoe L. Barrow, a native of La Grange, N. C., told the committee he was graduated from law school in 1938 and was admitted to the bar in December of the same year. In response to questions by Edmund M. Toland, committee counsel, Barrow said he never had engaged in the practice of law.

Earlier, the committee heard further testimony from Mapes Davidson of Orange, N. J., a former board trial examiner. Angry exchanges took place between Davidson and Representative Arthur D. Healey [D., Mass.] at whose request Davidson was recalled for cross-examination regarding testimony he gave last week. The witness contended Healey was trying to twist his words.

Cites Davidson's Cases.

"I'm not going to permit you to twist my meaning," Davidson shouted angrily at one point. "There is no intention of doing so," Healey retorted.

Healey cited a number of cases heard by Davidson in which the latter's recommendations that 22 men be reinstated were overruled by the board.

"You went further than the board did in favoring unions, in those instances did you not?" Healey asked.

"No, I would not say that," the witness replied.

Early in the session Healey wanted to know why Davidson did not volunteer at his first appearance before the committee in January some of the testimony he gave last week after his resignation from the board's employ. In resigning Davidson charged that the board fostered communism.

Feared He'd Lose Job.

"If I had volunteered anything, I knew I wouldn't be working for the board long," Davidson responded, "and at that time I wanted to work for it."

Another witness, W. D. Shiveley, of Dayton, O., an employé of the National Cash Register company, accused the labor board of stalling off recognition of an independent union of the company's employés to give the Congress of Industrial Organizations a chance to organize the plant.

"Gloss over" your engine's age—
Change now to OIL-PLATING

"Full-time lubrication" is the good description of OIL-PLATING given by a garage man. He was letting a customer see why to change to patented Conoco Germ Processed oil, which is the way to have your engine OIL-PLATED.

"Now part-time lubrication," explained the garage man, "is from oil-film draining down every chance, like a liquid. But this Germ Processed oil, besides its swell oil-film, gives OIL-PLATING, which is up through your engine every minute, full-time."

"Never drains down, not even parked?" the customer quizzed.

"Right! That's what's special about Germ Processed oil. It's made to OIL-PLATE lubricant on engine parts in a regular close partnership—this way"... and grunting forcibly the garage man made his fingers interlock.

The customer allowed that OIL-PLATING must be as drain-proof as chromium-plating, and he added, "So all I've heard about starting up with the oil drained down, wouldn't be a worry any more with the engine's insides OIL-PLATED?"

"No it wouldn't. OIL-PLATING outsmarts heavy starting wear—and other wear, too—and that's why you wouldn't guess the age of an OIL-PLATED engine from the way it keeps giving oil mileage."

"I'd like to see how much mileage is meant by Your Mileage Merchant sign, but I've only got five or ten minutes"... which proved ample for changing to Conoco Germ Processed oil, and the customer drove off with his engine being promptly OIL-PLATED. Continental Oil Company

A THRILLING DISTRIBUTION!

Valuable Symphonic Masterpieces (3-4-5-6 Records Per Symphony). An Entire Symphony for Less Than You Would Expect to Pay for a Single Record.

Distribution Begins Saturday, May 4th

NEW ELECTRIC ATTACHMENT

Enables You to Play These Records Through Your Radio Loudspeaker

For those who do not have a phonograph or any other means of playing records, an electric Record-Player has been provided at very small cost, thanks to the co-operation of the manufacturers. This Record-Player will play all sizes and styles of records through the loudspeaker of an average radio, utilizing the volume and tone controls of your radio.

Beginning Saturday, May 4th, it can be seen on display at distribution headquarters at 65 East Lake Street and 14 North Franklin Street. In sending in your reservation for the symphonies, please indicate whether or not you will require a Record-Player attachment. Sending a reservation does not obligate you in any way. It merely enables us to estimate how many players to have on hand.

THIS IS WHY YOU GET THESE SYMPHONIES AT SUCH AN AMAZINGLY SMALL COST

The reason why these symphonies can be placed in your home at such an amazingly low cost is a fascinating story in itself, an inspiring example of co-operation between art and industry. For many years many of America's leaders in civic, social and economic spheres have tried to give all the people the pleasure that comes with an interest in good music. Many distinguished citizens have given huge bequests and endowed philanthropies in order to bring the joy of music to their fellow human beings. For instance, eleven million dollars was provided by George Eastman for the founding of the great music institution that bears his name. Twelve million dollars was given by Mary Louise Curtis Bok for the founding of the Curtis School of Music. The contributions of other philanthropists, many of them in Chicago, are well known. Yet only a relatively few persons have had the opportunity to hear good music often enough in order for them to experience the boundless enjoyment that music affords. According to Howard Hanson, Dr. Peter Dykema, Edith Rhetts Tilton, Lillian Baldwin, and scores of other famous music educators, the phonograph record, which makes practical sufficient repetition to induce recognition, constitutes the most practical means of learning to love good music. Thus it is that the idea of this wide distribution of symphonic records received such hearty co-operation from so many sources and thus becomes so important and so significant. It is the surest and most practical way of increasing the general public interest in good music.

WORLD'S GREATEST ORCHESTRAS MADE IT POSSIBLE

Encouraged by the nation's growing taste for good music, as evidenced by the popularity of radio broadcasts of symphony concerts, music educators, civic leaders and newspaper representatives conceived the idea of this Music Appreciation program and persuaded some of the world's greatest orchestras, conductors and record manufacturers to produce without royalties and at what they considered the lowest reasonable margin of profit a series of magnificent symphonic masterpieces for wide public service and educational purposes, these records to be distributed in the nature of a cultural civic service AT A PRICE SO SMALL THAT ALMOST EVERY FAMILY IN THE LAND COULD EASILY AFFORD TO OWN AT LEAST SOME OF THIS GREAT MUSIC. It was specifically agreed that these recordings would not be sold through customary retail channels and that the names of the orchestras and conductors would not be exploited.

The result is this Music Appreciation Program—one of the most thrilling cultural offers ever presented to the people of America. This group of twelve symphonic masterpieces was selected by a committee headed by Samuel Chotzinoff, one of America's most distinguished music writers. It was Mr. Chotzinoff who, acting in behalf of the NBC, persuaded Arturo Toscanini to return to America and present his now historical series of broadcasts over the air.

Elsewhere on this page you will find listed the masterpieces selected by Mr. Chotzinoff and his committee. Beethoven! Mozart! Bach! Wagner! Schubert! Haydn! Brahms! Tschaikowsky! Debussy! Franck! One or more complete symphonies from each immortal composer, symphonies consisting of three, four, five, or six double-faced 12-inch records, symphonies recorded by some of the FOREMOST SYMPHONY AND PHILHARMONIC ORCHESTRAS IN THE WORLD TODAY, recorded in the United States during the past eighteen months, under improved and modern methods of recording.

In an editorial published on April 23rd, 1940, lauding this campaign, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch said: "Great music is truly ennobling and soul-satisfying, and yet it remains unheard and unknown for many simply because it is expensive. The sponsors hope these records will create a new and more widespread interest in good music. This is much more than a promotional scheme. It is a contribution to the enrichment of the esthetic life of the community."

DISTRIBUTION BEGINS SATURDAY, MAY 4TH

In order to help us estimate the number of symphonies and Record-Players to have on hand, we would appreciate it if you would mail the reservation printed on the opposite page. Mailing the reservation DOES NOT obligate you in any way but is of assistance in estimating the number of symphonies to have on hand.

HERE ARE THE GREAT SYMPHONIES YOUR FAMILY CAN OBTAIN

SCHUBERT'S

Symphony No. 8 in B Minor (Unfinished)

During the century that has passed since Franz Schubert composed his "Unfinished" symphony, it has never failed to enthrall its listeners. Inexpressibly beautiful strains explore the innermost regions of the heart and soul. In the entire concert repertoire, few symphonies can match the appeal of this exquisite masterpiece.

BEETHOVEN'S

Symphony No. 5 in C Minor

Probably more than any other music in existence, Beethoven's Fifth Symphony appeals forthrightly, powerfully to human nature. Few human beings can avoid coming under the spell of this mighty work, an inspiring revelation of most of the meanings of life.

TSCHAIKOWSKY'S

Nutcracker Suite

Here is Tschaikowsky's genius, stripped of its usually melancholic note. In a cheerful, gay symphonic suite, we hear in lovely ballet music narration of a little girl's dream of her nutcracker come to life, to become her prince charming.

MOZART'S

Symphony No. 40 in G Minor

A blending of poetry and art, a serene beauty that reaches perfection in symphonic construction. Mozart's Symphony in G Minor is considered by many the greatest and most beautiful symphony ever written.

DEBUSSY'S

"Afternoon of a Faun,"
"Clouds" and "Festivals"

Debussy audaciously freed his art from musical procedure and emerged as one of the pioneers of the "modern" school in music. His "Afternoon of a Faun" disregards every canon of conventional composition. "Clouds" and "Festivals" are like the ever-charming colors of a beautiful sunset, and stir the listener to delightful reverie.

WAGNER'S

Prelude to "Die Meistersinger"
Prelude to "Parsifal"

In Wagner's Prelude to "Die Meistersinger," powerful beauty combines with dramatic intensity to thrill the listener. Wagner's Prelude to "Parsifal" embodies what many music critics claim to be "some of the most sublime music ever penned by mortal hand."

BACH'S

Brandenburg Concertos Nos. 2 and 3

Today these concertos by the greatest musician of his time are among the finest of this form of musical composition. They express sureness, vigor and charming clarity. This flowing music is the harmonious expression of Bach's own dashing high spirits, and invariably delights every listener.

HAYDN'S

Symphony No. 99 in E Flat Major

Startlingly new and original, masterly in structural perfection, Haydn's Symphony No. 99 thrilled its listeners a century ago, and thrills them even more today. Bold and animated, tranquil and winsome, this exquisite musical work invariably charms every concert audience.

TSCHAIKOWSKY'S

Symphony No. 4 in F Minor

A superbly vital musical interpretation of the battle against unfriendly Fortune—defiance rising in its power to challenge and dispel the grief and despair of the suffering. Of all the thrills the concert lover can experience, few, if any, can surpass the glorious moments of Tschaikowsky's Fourth Symphony.

BEETHOVEN'S

Symphony No. 8 in F Major

This symphony is typical of the great master's forthright manner of composition; a fine example of Beethoven's rugged directness and heroic spirit. A masterful work combining bold and vigorous themes.

BRAHMS'

Symphony No. 2 in D Major

The depth, orderliness, and perfect timing between form and feeling that mark the great classic style are beautifully developed in Brahms' second symphony. In perfect musical language he combines in this symphony gentleness and sweetness with great power.

FRANCK'S

Symphony in D Minor

Lofty idealism, spiritual exaltation, and a feeling for the mystic—all are reflected in Cesar Franck's Symphony in D Minor. Franck has earned the rightful title of true leader of the modern school of French symphony. The listener is held spellbound, entranced by the enchanting flow of inspirational music.

A CULTURAL ACHIEVEMENT FOR CHICAGO

Music For Everybody!

44 SYMPHONIC RECORDINGS

For Every Family! At Very Small Cost! Inspired Interpretations of Some of the World's Greatest Orchestras and Conductors---12 Symphonic Masterpieces of

BEETHOVEN - SCHUBERT - WAGNER
BRAHMS - MOZART
BACH-TSCHAIKOWSKY-HAYDN

There will begin in the City of Chicago on Saturday morning, May 4th, the distribution of some of the greatest music the world has ever known—the music of the immortals. Symphonic records, 3-4-5-6 in a group, can be obtained at a cost so small as to be almost incredible. An entire symphony, such as Beethoven's Fifth, consisting of four double-faced 12-inch records, 8 sides, can be had for less than one might ordinarily expect to pay for a single symphonic record. You get this complete symphony for the amazingly small payment of $1.69. This is not for each record but for all FOUR RECORDS, all 8 sides, the ENTIRE SYMPHONY.

This distribution is sponsored by the Chicago Committee for Music Appreciation, and has the co-operation of four of Chicago's most prominent musical organizations, The Chicago Symphony Orchestra, the Chicago Opera, the Ravinia Festival, and the Chicago Woman's Orchestral Association. The symphonies will be distributed from two distribution headquarters to be located at 65 East Lake Street, and 14 North Franklin Street.

The world's greatest orchestras and conductors waived their royalties, and America's foremost music manufacturers minimized their customary profits in order to make possible this movement to develop love of good music among the greatest possible number of families.

The Chicago distribution was inaugurated at a banquet last night at the Drake Hotel. Many leaders in Chicago's civic, educational and cultural spheres heard Mme. Olga Samaroff Stokowski, noted music educator; Gladys Swarthout, opera star; Dr. Peter W. Dykema, head of the School of Music, Teachers' College, Columbia University; Dr. Carleton Sprague Smith, head of the music division of the New York Public Library; Felix Grisette, executive secretary, and Edward T. Ingle, director of the National Committee for Music Appreciation, and other speakers launch this distribution that is intended to bring valuable groups of symphonic records within the reach of the greatest possible number of Chicago families.

Beginning Saturday you may obtain an entire album of symphony records, 3-4-5-6 double-faced 12-inch records, for an almost unbelievably small charge.

"This distribution of symphonic records will encourage tens of thousands of Chicago families to take good music into their homes, and to make it a part of their daily lives." said Edward L. Ryerson, Jr., president of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. "Music educators have hailed it as an answer to their prayers. In many cities, notably Detroit and Indianapolis, it has assumed the aspect of a great public service movement in behalf of music education. We so regard it in Chicago, and the Symphony Orchestra is happy to co-operate in the sponsorship of this distribution."

COMPLETE SYMPHONIES—YOURS AT AMAZINGLY LOW COST

Here, AT AN AMAZINGLY SMALL COST, is the geatest music ever written. Here is music hitherto precious and costly, but now brought within the reach of practically every family in our land.

Now through this MUSIC APPRECIATION PROGRAM, these twelve precious symphonies can be yours, almost for the asking. You will play your symphonies again and again, and each time you play them you will find them more beautiful. What a world of inspiration awaits you and your family when you feel the power and passion of Beethoven's mighty Fifth Symphony! The inexpressibly beautiful emotion of Shubert's "Unfinished." The drama of Wagner! The ecstasy of Debussy! The rousing, tingling sadness and gaiety of Tschaikowsky. One by one, each of these symphonies will become associated with the happiest moments of your life. Here is music—yet is MORE THAN MUSIC; it is something that will make you discover something NEW IN YOURSELF. Here is something that you will value more and more with the years because each time you play one of your symphonies, you will find in it an added thrill, added joy, added wonder. Here is the one priceless possession that will always be bright and fresh and fascinating to you.

Read below the procedure to follow in order to get your records, then MAIL THE RESERVATION FORM AT ONCE. Mailing the Reservation Form DOES NOT obligate you in any way. It merely enables us to estimate the number of symphonies and record-players to have on hand.

Distribution of the symphonies and players will begin on Saturday, May 4th, at 9 a. m., from two different Distribution Headquarters at 65 East Lake Street and 14 North Franklin Street.

The distribution offices will be open beginning Saturday, May 4th, from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m., and you may hear the records at any time during the day. Please remember, mailing the reservation form DOES NOT OBLIGATE YOU IN ANY WAY. It enables the distribution staff to estimate how many symphonies and players to have on hand.

"A GREAT PUBLIC SERVICE"

"To the People of Chicago:

"In behalf of the National Committee for Music Appreciation, which comprises 2,000 of America's prominent men and women, outstanding leaders in our civic, educational, cultural and economic life, let me say that we regard this fine movement as a great public service, perhaps the greatest and most practical public service ever rendered the cause of good music. Editorials in many of our leading newspapers support this view. The Chicago offer follows programs in Cincinnati, St. Louis, Cleveland and Detroit, where the symphony societies in these cities were the sponsors of the distribution. Obviously, Publishers Service Company, originators of this symphonic record distribution plan, is making a profit on the enterprise even though it is guaranteeing definite royalties on each of the twelve symphonic units offered to local musical societies in the various cities in which the distribution is taking place. However, the significant thing is not that this campaign affords sources of profit for those who make it possible and conduct it, but that it enables the Average American family to own a complete recorded symphonic masterpiece of as many as four double-faced 12-inch records, 8 recordings, for the amazingly small price of $1.69 for the entire symphony. And that is thrilling news for everyone interested in musical development.

"Especially do we salute the distinguished men and women of Chicago, members of the Chicago Committee for Music Appreciation, whose love for good music and whose desire to spread its joy and comfort and inspiration made this wonderful cultural public service distribution a reality in Chicago. Publicly we wish to recognize, individually and collectively, the laudable cultural civic service of the Chicago Committee for Music Appreciation and its following members: Maurice Berkson, Mrs. Walter Brewster, Mrs. E. V. L. Brown, Mrs. Clifford D. Caldwell, Paul C. Clovis, Julien H. Collins, Mrs. John H. Coulter, William Cudahy, Mrs. Walter J. Cummings, Mrs. Hugo Dalmar, Carl B. An ELECTRIC RECORD PLAYER can be secured by those who require a means of playing records. This instrument is electric, needs no winding, operates on AC current and connects with your radio. It plays all sizes of records through the loudspeaker of your radio, with same volume and tone of your radio loudspeaker, producing recorded music with dimension, tone and clarity.

THIS IS HOW YOU GET YOUR RECORDS

1. Come for, or send for your symphonies at MUSIC APPRECIATION DISTRIBUTION HEADQUARTERS, 65 East Lake Street and 14 North Franklin Street, any time after Saturday, May 4th, at 9 a. m. The office will be open each day thereafter from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. Requests by mail will be filled in order of receipt.

2. At regular weekly intervals, on Saturday of each week, each of the 12 symphonies or symphonic masterpieces will be released. The first symphony, Franz Schubert's No. 8 in B Minor, will be ready for distribution on Saturday, May 4th. Beethoven's Symphony No. 5 in C Minor will follow on Saturday, May 11; Tschaikowsky's Nutcracker Suite on Saturday, May 18, etc., until all of the educational masterpieces provided in the campaign have been made available to the public. Notice of release date of each symphony will be printed in the public press.

3. You receive each symphony, which consists of either three or four double-faced 12-inch records, for a total payment of $1.69. THIS IS NOT FOR EACH RECORD but for the COMPLETE SYMPHONY, all three or four records, six or eight sides, which comprise each symphony. The two symphonies which consist of five records (ten sides) require a payment of $2.18 for the entire symphony of all five records. The Cesar Franck D Minor Symphony, on account of its length, is divided into two units, each unit consisting of three double-faced 12-inch records, and the cost of each unit is the same as for any other three-record group. A quantity of de luxe records, known as Philharmonic Transcriptions, and inclosed in record albums designed for each particular symphony, is available at a slightly higher price. These are the first pressings from the same masters enclosed in albums and featuring a portrait of the composer on the label of each record. There is little, if any, difference in playing quality. Sales tax should be added to the foregoing prices.

4. An electric Record-Player attachment, which enables these records to be played through the loudspeaker of an average radio, is available for those who require a means of playing records, and is available with your first or any succeeding symphonic unit. The player can be obtained for $4.75. A more elaborate instrument, the Symphonic De Luxe Model, inclosed in a walnut-finished case, is available at a higher price. If you wish delivery of your symphonies by mail, add 25 cents for shipping charges for each symphony. Add 50 cents for shipping charges if you wish a Record-Player shipped to you. Sales tax should be added to price quoted above.

5. Every effort will be made to supply as many symphonies as are required. In order to avoid disappointment and to enable us to have a sufficient supply on hand, please fill in and mail the Reservation Form. It does not obligate you in any way.

MILK DRIVERS GO ON STRIKE; HALT DELIVERY

Union Rejects Wage Cut Plan of Dealers.

might grow out of the strike. Several dairymen, anticipating such a result, began asking for guards during the evening and Sergt. George Barnes of the detective bureau labor squad was in close touch with the situation until the final announcement.

At 2:30 a. m. a police teletype message ordered all district commanders to canvass milk depots employing drivers and to find out whether police protection was needed. "If so, detail a uniformed policeman," the order continued.

No Home Deliveries.

Union drivers of wholesale routes said that they had been kept overtime in the afternoon making large deliveries to stores. This supply will of course be available today, but there will be no home deliveries. Nonunion venders and trucks are expected to continue operations. At present they deliver about 30 per cent of the city's store sold milk.

Weber said that pickets would be placed immediately at every dairy plant and that efforts would be made to get the nonunion venders to coöperate and join the union. Later, he added, stores would be picketed.

Other Unions to Coöperate.

"We have been guaranteed the coöperation of all the teamsters' unions," Weber said, "and stores that receive milk will find that trucks will not be available for other merchandise. Pickets will be on duty 24 hours a day. We intend to win this strike. At the same time we will see that hospitals, orphanages, day nurseries, and maternity centers are supplied."

The strike is expected to increase the sales of condensed and other types of canned milk, of which there is an ample supply. Health authorities have held that this is an excellent substitute for fresh milk.

CHAOS IN MILK INDUSTRY

Back of the strike lies a long story of chaotic conditions in the Chicago milk industry. Within that industry are groups with widely divergent and often irreconcilable interests, principal among them being the farm producers, union labor, nonunion workers, and dealers.

Even within the groups there has been antagonism in the past. Organized farmers at times haven't seen eye to eye with the unorganized and big dealers have found conflict with little ones.

The present controversy traces directly back to the introduction of a new system of retail marketing in 1932. For some years prior the distribution had been almost exclusively in the hands of dairies employing union labor. At least 85 per cent of the milk delivery was to the doorstep; 15 per cent thru stores. Milk prices were uniform over the city, whether the quart was delivered or carried from a store.

In the predepression years there was a steady increase in consumption of milk. Farmers supplying the market augmented their herds. Then the birth rate dropped, there were fewer children, who are the great consumers of milk, and the consumption leveled off. There has been little change in this factor in ten years. Fluid milk sales vary little from year to year. Farm supplies have been overample recently.

In 1932 the Meadowmoor dairy was established. It was reliably reported then that its management wished to hire union drivers and follow the customary system of distribution. The union would not sign a contract and when the company attempted to serve routes with nonunion drivers there were sporadic incidents of violence.

Meadowmoor soon abandoned the routes and substituted sales to stores. Over the city there grew up a number of small milk stores. To link the dairy and its retail outlets a new class of small business men developed—the venders. This vender is a central figure in the present controversy. There are an estimated 1,100 in the city and close-in suburbs.

Jobbers' Margin Is Small.

Venders are in reality milk jobbers. They purchase supplies from Meadowmoor and other nonunion dairies and deliver to stores. Their margin is small. Unionists and dealers agree that they add only from ¾ of a cent to a cent to the cost of a quart while transferring it from dairy to store.

There is no exact figure on what it costs the dairy company with union help and its own trucks to deliver to stores. Indisputably, it is greater than a cent a quart. There is much dispute also about what it costs to deliver a quart to a doorstep. The oft quoted 4 cents a quart, union men claim, is false. They point out that while a driver received a base of $8 a day for delivering 191 units [a unit is a quart of milk or buttermilk, a pint or half pint of cream, etc.] he got a commission of only ¾ of a cent a unit for sales over the minimum.

In any event, store sales offered a price reduction from home delivery. The union employing companies had to get into this field heavily. To do so they had to meet nonunion prices. The differential in prices came into being and grew. The present home delivery price in quart bottles is 13 cents; store price 8½ cents. Result, store sales make up 52 per cent of the fluid milk business.

As the 85 per cent home delivery business shrank to 48 per cent many wagon drivers lost their jobs, as routes were consolidated or abandoned. The drivers' union, which had 7,200 members ten years ago, has 4,300 now.

Union Has Competition.

Attorney Ballard has contended in the negotiations that store sales now determine what the Chicago milk price shall be, and that unless more business is to be lost by the union and its dealers the union scale must be lowered. The proposed reduction, he said, would enable the dealers to meet competition from nonunion sources.

The union men and their present officers have not admitted that economic evolution is surely moving to lower the costs of milk distribution and they must take the drastic wage reduction to save their jobs. They contend that the work is hard, the hours unduly long, and the pay low rather than high.

Union officers have offered their own solution. They would have the union dealers return the emphasis to home sales by cutting the differential with store sales to only 1 cent a quart. They have proposed to organize the venders.

"With all delivery services unionized," said Peter Hoban, recording secretary, "business chances will be the same for all. Then it will be up to the dealers to merchandise properly. Even now the profit is in home delivery. Surrender to the store sale idea is suicide for the dealers."

HERE ARE FOODS TO SUBSTITUTE FOR FRESH MILK

Physicians Tell Sources of Vitamins.

During Chicago's last milk strike in 1934, the milk consuming public turned to substitutes and evaporated milk and got along without danger to the health of most children and adults, according to physicians. A supply of fresh milk was made available to infants and the infirm to whom it was a dietary necessity.

Physicians said last night that other foods can be used to supply lime, a requirement in the diet of growing children, and that milk substitutes in general, such as cereal, soy beans, vegetables, nuts, and many patent baby foods will provide the needed proteins, albumens, sugar, minerals, and vitamins.

The chemical content of milk is 88 per cent water and 12 per cent solids. Of the solids about 4 per cent is fat and the remainder is made up of milk proteins, milk sugar, lime, and phosphorous. Milk is short in iron and iodine in most localities, and rich in vitamins, with the exception of vitamin C.

Cheese Good Substitute.

Cheese contains practically everything in milk, while butter, altho it has but little of the proteins, is rich in vitamins, especially in vitamins A and D.

All of the health properties of milk are found in the milk substitutes. Soy beans are rich in lime and proteins, but when used as a substitute for milk a fat, such as olive oil, should be added. Eggs contain about the same food value as milk. They contain more iron, are rich in phosphorous, and are a good source of vitamins.

Cereals are rich in phosphorous and lime and contain more iron than milk. They are also rich in vitamin B. Nuts are rich in iron, lime, and other minerals.

Canned Milk Satisfactory.

Canned milk, according to the doctors, is a satisfactory substitute for whole milk. All the processed milk, evaporated, powdered, and condensed, contain about the same proportion of minerals as whole milk, and about the same vitamins except that they are not quite as rich in C.

These dehydrated milks may be substituted in every recipe that calls for milk by simply diluting them with water, as directed on the container. The slight difference in taste from whole milk is due to carmelization of a small amount of the milk sugar during processing.

Milk is the best possible source of calcium and phosphorus, the bone and teeth building elements, but with these exceptions there is no food element in milk which cannot be supplied by substitutes.

Sources of Calcium.

The following foods will provide as much calcium as one-half cup of milk: ⅝ cup of cottage cheese, ¾ inch cube of American cheese, ⅝ cup of cooked cauliflower, ½ cup of cooked rhubarb, ¼ cup of molasses, 1 cup cooked spinach, ⅓ cup raw navy beans, 2 medium oranges, 1⅓ cups of strawberries, 1 cup cooked turnips, ⅜ cup of oysters.

As much phosphorous as can be obtained from one-half cup of milk is in the following foods: 2 tablespoons chicken meat, 1⅓ tablespoons dry navy beans, 2½ tablespoons cottage cheese, 3x4x⅜ inch piece of beef liver, 1 inch cube American cheese, ¼ cup of oysters, ¼ cup of tuna fish, 2 tablespoons dry lima beans, ¼ cup salmon, ⅓ cup of canned corn.

CONVICT FOUR LABOR OFFICIALS OF EXTORTION

New York, May 1, Wednesday [Special].—Four labor union officers and two others were found guilty by a jury in General Sessions court early today on charges of extorting nearly $15,000 from the owners of fruit and vegetable stores here.

Witnesses testified that tribute was demanded of the victims as their contracts with two local unions fell due and that they were threatened with strikes, picketing, and embargoes.

Judge James G. Wallace remanded the six to the Tombs for sentencing May 21. The six are Nicola Elia, 32 years old, general manager of local 1204 of the Fruit and Vegetable Store Clerks' union [A. F. of L.]; Louis Iannacona, 29, another organizer and formerly its secretary treasurer; Anthony Pollemeni, 32, former president; Sol Shuster, 32, president of local 202 of the teamsters' union [A. F. of L.]; Frank Persico, 31, and Simon Zaientz, 34.

City Rules Mechanical Cow Must Be Licensed

If you want to operate a mechanical cow you must own a city milk vender's license, Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes told the board of health in an opinion yesterday. The board asked for the opinion after the Bowman Dairy company said it was considering the installation in office buildings of machines which would sell bottled milk.

TRIAL OF 'INSANE' COP FOR ROBBERY GETS UNDER WAY

State Closes Its Case in Ten Year Old Holdup.

The trial of John Howe Jr., suspended state highway policeman, on a 10-year-old robbery charge, went forward swiftly yesterday before Judge John F. Bolton in the Criminal court. Before the case was adjourned for the day a jury of eight women and four men had been chosen, the state had closed its case, and the first defense witness had been heard.

Howe, whose record was disclosed during a recent investigation of an alleged jury fixing case, is charged with the robbery of a grocery store on Oct. 16, 1930. He also has been indicted for conspiracy to obstruct justice in the jury verdict.

Store Manager Testifies.

Assistant State's Attorney Richard Austin called William Estabrook, 7250 Emerald avenue, as his first witness. Estabrook was manager of the store at 300 East 75th street which Howe allegedly robbed. Howe was adjudged insane at his trial following the robbery and was committed to the state hospital at Kankakee, from which he subsequently escaped.

Estabrook told the jury of opening the store on the day of the robbery and then pointed out Howe as the man who entered a few moments later. He said Howe was armed and asked him where he kept the money.

"I told him the money was in a brown bag in the back room," Estabrook continued, "and he ordered me to get it. He followed me back, and I gave him the money—$16. Then he asked me where the rest of the money was, and I said it was under the counter. When we went to get that he saw a policeman looking thru the front window, so he ran into the back. I hid behind an icebox.

Describes Howe's Capture.

"Then I heard the officer shout: 'Walk out, or I'll shoot.' The robber walked out, saying: 'Don't kill me. My gun's in the back room.'" He was taken into custody.

Edward Mulhearn, the policeman who captured Howe, was the next and final witness. He told the jury he and his partner had seen Howe walking nervously up and down in front of the store and suspected that he planned something. When Howe entered, Mulhearn said, he followed him in.

The first defense witness called by Attorney Joseph Roach was Howe's father, John Howe Sr., 8034 South Hermitage avenue, a former policeman. He traced his son's childhood history, told of various illnesses he had had, and said he had nearly died from scarlet fever at one time.

Pleads Son Was Insane.

Early in 1929, the father said, he noticed Howe muttering to himself and took him to a doctor, and then to the psychopathic hospital where he remained a couple of weeks. The elder Howe concluded with the statement that he thought his son was insane in 1929 and at the time of the robbery in 1930.

Attorney Roach introduced the court records of the first robbery trial in 1930 when Howe was found insane. The case then was adjourned until today. Outside court Attorney Roach said he intended to prove that his client was insane at the time of the robbery but later regained his sanity.

MRS. CLEO PALLAS.

Selection of a jury was begun yesterday in Judge John Sbarbaro's Criminal court to try Mrs. Cleo Pallas, 43 years old, for the murder of her mother, Mrs. Helen Sharp, last January. Mrs. Pallas' common-law husband, Sam Delao, 50, was sentenced to 199 years in prison for the crime by Judge Sbarbaro on April 4. Mrs. Sharp, 65 years old, a hotel worker, was found dead in a trunk in a south side alley. She had lived with her daughter and Delao at 207 West 25th place.

ALDERMEN GET NEW CARROZZO DEMANDS TODAY

Expect Committee to Give Him Third Rebuff.

BY EDWARD WILSON.

Mike Carrozzo, rich boss of city street laborers, was reported last night to be determined to appear before the city council finance committee today with demands for wage increases for asphalt workers.

Ald. Roger J. Kiley [37th], vice chairman of the committee, said he was informed that Carrozzo, or a representative, would be present at the committee meeting. A survey of the committee last night indicated that if they listen to Carrozzo, they will take his demands "under advisement," which is to say, pigeon hole them.

Would Be Third Rebuff.

Such action would constitute the third rebuff for Carrozzo by the city since April 10, when he called an unexplained strike of workers at the city's asphalt plants. No demands were made against the city at that time. The following Monday, Carrozzo conferred with a committee of aldermen and said his men walked out because of nonunion street workers. He said he also wanted a pay raise, for the street workers.

"Rule or Ruin" Ended.

The aldermen proved at that meeting that any nonuion street workers had temporary permits issued from Carrozzo's own office. They also told him he would have to tell the full finance committee of his pay raise request. Carrozzo called off his strike.

Most of the aldermen, it is said, believe that Carrozzo's "rule or ruin" rule of street labor was broken when the city administartion forced Carrozzo to call off his strike.

18 Members of Committee.

The finance committee before which Carrozzo must appear has 18 members and an ex-officio member, Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], president pro tem of the council. Ald. J. M. Arvey [24th] is chairman. Other committee members, beside Ald. Kiley, are: H. L. Brody [39], Arthur G. Lindell [9th], William A. Rowan [10th], Bryan Hartnett [12th], James J. McDermott 14th], James F. Kovarik [15th], William V. Pacelli [20th], Henry Sonenschein [22d], Harry L. Sain [27th], George D. Kells [28th], Joseph P. Rostenkowski [32d], Walter J. Orlikoski [35th], Joseph C. Ross [40th], Dorsey R. Crowe [42], John J. Grealis 44th], James R. Quinn [50].

Comments of Aldermen.

The majority of the committee agree that Carrozzo made his demands when the finance committee was preparing the 1940 budget in December and was turned down.

Ald. Bowler was one of the first reached last night who indicated Carozzo can expect little help. "We committed ourselves in the 1940 budget," Ald. Bowler said. "We couldn't consider Carrozzo's demands because there was no money for raises in the budget. We will have to take time for any decision."

Ald. Ross said: "Considering the finances of the city I don't believe we have funds available for wage increases."

Ald. Quinn said: "The city can't stand any wage increases at this time."

Another wage demand which is expected to be made today will come from the city chauffeurs and teamsters union. In the 1940 budget those men were reduced from a flat monthly salary of $192 to a daily rate of $8 a day, when they work. They contend this has cut them to $170 a month. The purpose of the reduction was to save money for the city and pay the men union wages on the days they actually work.

SCHENCK QUIZZED BY GRAND JURY ON BIOFF LOAN

New York, April 30 [Special].—A federal inquiry into income tax returns has been in progress here for the last two months, and Joseph M. Schenck, the movie magnate, has appeared before the federal grand jury several times, it was reported today.

United States Attorney John T. Cahill would not discuss the matter, but it was understood that the inquiry was concerned with $100,000 which Willie Bioff, leader of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employés, is alleged to have borrowed from Schenck in 1937 after signing a union contract. Schenck is head of the producers' association.

Bioff is in jail at Chicago serving a six months sentence for pandering imposed 18 years ago. The federal jury in Los Angeles indicted Bioff in January on charges of having defrauded the government of $73,000 in income tax in 1937.

I LIKE FAST HORSES AND A SLOW-BURNING CIGARETTE! THAT MEANS CAMELS. THEY'RE MILDER, COOLER, AND MORE FRAGRANT—NEVER WEAR OUT THEIR WELCOME

Peggy McManus, Expert Horsewoman

PEGGY uses plenty of horse sense in picking her horses... plenty of common sense in picking her cigarette. Like millions of others, she finds that a slower-burning cigarette gives more mildness and coolness, and smokes with a full, rich flavor and fragrance. So Peggy smokes Camels, for Camels burn slower, give more pleasure per puff and more puffs per pack.

In recent laboratory tests, CAMELS burned 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them. That means, on the average, a smoking plus equal to

THE REMEDY IS IN THE ELECTION.

Justice Black, who wrote the opinion holding that government contracts under the Walsh-Healey law are not subject to judicial review, made a reference to "present day needs of government." The Walsh-Healey act empowers the federal departments to stipulate what working conditions shall be, such as hours and wages, in plants filling government orders. Justice Black, with only one dissent, held that in the case before the court the secretary of labor had the right to fix the minimum wage for the steel companies involved and that the decision was final.

The opinion, as interpreted by observers in Washington, would have a general application and a prospective meaning was found in it with respect to the Walter bill, passed by the house and now in the senate, subjecting the rules of the governmental administrations, corporations, and authorities to judicial review for the protection of the individual who might be injured by an administrative order.

From what was said in the opinion, the conclusion was drawn that the jurisdiction of administrative law will be sustained, that the courts will be removed from the reviewing stand and the citizen will be denied an appeal to judicial process. The philosophy of the court as reformed by Mr. Roosevelt's appointments sustains the theory that the business of present day government in its new and manifold relations to the individual cannot be conducted if administrative rulings and orders are carried into the delaying processes of court review.

If the conclusions are correctly formed, the Walter bill would meet the court's disapproval. Administrative law which quickly degenerates into dictatorial law would be entrenched all over the widespreading front on which it has expanded into nearly all the activities of private enterprise. The degeneration of executive orders into autocratic orders when legal protections are withdrawn is expectable. It is in the nature of authority unrestrained to increase and not voluntarily to recede.

On numerous occasions courts have advised the American people that if they do not favor certain administrative policies their remedy is political and not, in many instances, judicial. It has been held that a legislative or administrative act may be of startling consequences to the people and still be within the constitutional powers of government. The court, as now constituted under Mr. Roosevelt, is seemingly prepared to follow revolutionary progress in administrative government without a disapproving eye. It would seem, however, if congress said, as it would in the Walter bill, that administrative law shall be subject to judicial review that the legislative authority could not well be overthrown.

The point which has been emphasized, however, remains that if the people do not want administrative government to take the direction it has under Mr. Roosevelt, if they do not want the individual in his private enterprises to be subjected to autocracy, their remedy is to change the government and set up one which will not want to do the things establishing a different political and economic order. The people can, in their elections, determine what is to be the intent of their government. That remedy, which is always a conclusive one, is in their power to adopt this year.

ITALY ON THE FENCE.

Dino Alfieri, the Italian pro-Nazi, who was removed from the ministry of popular culture when Mussolini wanted to blow a little cooler on German influence, will exchange places with Bernardo Attolico. Alfieri has been the ambassador to the Vatican. Attolico has been the Italian ambassador in Berlin for five years, during which time he and his wife were earnest workers for peace. Sir Nevile Henderson, the British ambassador, gives them both high praise.

The trumpets are blowing louder on the Roman hills as the Nazi occupation of Norway proceeds and the Fascist exhorters are telling the Italian people, who do not want to hear it, that they need not expect to stay out of a war which may remake the world. Interested parties are to understand that Mussolini expects to pick a winner. He'd better. If he doesn't he's sunk.

The flourish of the exchange of posts by Alfieri and Attolico, the Nazi sympathizer taking the place of the man of peace, is probably Mussolini's way of saying that Hitler at present has the call, but at the same time the Italians are negotiating with the British for an agreement which will increase their trade in American supplies and get more raw materials for their mills.

The uncertainty involving Italy is only one of the factors which make the British and French position now so different from what it was in the other war. On the advantage side they have taken Turkey away from Germany, but Russia is in agreement with Hitler. Altho Canada, Australia, and New Zealand are stanch, there is dissension in South Africa, and revolutionary unrest and a suspension of normal government in India. Ireland is neutral. The British empire s not as compact in this war as it was in the other, and it misses another of its old allies in Japan, which is now hostile. Moreover, the anti involvement sentiment in the United States is better informed and more reasoned and logical.

THE PAROLE BOYS DRAG A RED HERRING.

Members of the Central States Probation and Parole association, who met recently in Chicago, condemned gang buster programs on the radio as contributing "measurably" to the commission of crime by juveniles.

Just what method of measurement was used to determine the influence of the radio was not mentioned. Presumably the endless questionnaires of the professional social workers ferreted out a certain percentage of juvenile offenders who had listened to crime dramas on the radio. Had attention been directed to the favorite breakfast foods of the offenders it would undoubtedly have been possible, by equally valid statistical reasoning, to condemn a product as contributing to juvenile crime.

The gang buster radio dramas are not a perfect form of art. They have been subjected to logical criticism, as by mothers' organizations whose protests at their overexciting influence on children just before bedtime resulted in the broadcasters clamping down on some of the more frantic scripts.

But they are not crime breeders. All the youths they have launched on a life of crime could be gathered in the smallest of the studios from which the programs are broadcast without crowding. The attack on them by the professional parole racketeers is a red herring. By attacking the radio they seek to distract public attention from their own vicious activities of promoting crime by coddling criminals and by working with politicians to loose them against the public.

A VANDENBERG VICTORY.

A few years ago Senator Vandenberg led the fight in congress against the squandering of public money on the Florida ship canal and the Passamaquoddy pipe dream for harnessing the tides. His presentation of the argument against these projects was so devastating that they were abandoned despite Mr. Roosevelt's insistence that congress appropriate for them.

Mr. Vandenberg has followed that victory with another. He has now succeeded in eliminating the so-called Tombigbee project from the rivers and harbors bill, with a resultant saving of something like 75 million dollars for the taxpayers. The plan was to connect the Tennessee river at Pickwick landing with the Tombigbee. Mr. Vandenberg disclosed that the army board of engineers had rejected the proposal on four occasions since 1913, the last time as recently as 1935. Last year the board gave it a carefully qualified approval, saying that the waterway could be justified only by including in the calculation "intangible or indirect benefits" of which congress was as good a judge as the engineers.

That was faint praise, indeed, as Mr. Vandenberg showed. He went on to quote objections raised on behalf of TVA and the further objections reported by the National Resources committee. By the time he had finished his speech he had won over all but a small minority of the project's original supporters. The vote was 56 to 17 against the expenditure.

It is not often that a speech in congress succeeds in swaying votes. Most speeches are made for the record, not for purposes of persuasion. Mr. Vandenberg's victory can be credited to the strength of his personality and to his power of effective analysis of a complicated subject.

ZONING AS A RACKET.

The city of Evanston has a new zoning ordinance. Its city council has just completed the second revision of the zoning code since the original one was passed in 1921.

Evanston was overzoned. It had more land designated for business and commercial use than was needed by the city's business establishments. It had more land zoned for apartment houses than was likely to be used for this profitable but expensive form of construction.

This overzoning is a common fault in zoning codes. It hampers normal development of a city, as the American Society of Planning Officials notes in commenting on the Evanston code. There is no need for the excess business zones, but no one dares build a residence on property zoned for business use. Thus the property remains vacant.

The Evanston revision cut by 20 per cent the area in the city zoned for commercial purposes. It cut by 50 per cent the area zoned for apartment buildings. It recognized the increasing problem of automobile parking by a requirement that any new construction of row houses, apartment buildings, or theaters must make provision for off the street parking.

Chicago's zoning code was passed in 1923. It has not had a general revision since. It is operated today as a racket. The owner who wants to use property for purposes not permitted by the zoning code gets an exception passed by the city council. This is profitable to the property owner and frequently to the alderman who handles the matter, but it makes a joke of the zoning code.

Meanwhile new building in the city is strangled by castles-in-the-sky zoning regulations, the only purpose of which, when passed, was to inflate prices for real estate speculators. The aldermen have no wish to revise the code. The present one is right in the mitt.

Editorial of the Day

CITY EMPLOYES' RIGHTS.

[Detroit News.]

While the law concerned is the local civil service law, the outcome of the litigation over the status of New York subway workers' union contracts may affect indirectly the labor policies of other cities with municipally owned utilities.

The issues in part are fundamental. The courts will determine, in effect, how far collective bargaining can go in the case of utility employés who also are government employés.

That was the issue between Mayor La Guardia and the Transport Workers union which last week brought New York City to the verge of a terrific transport strike. The city is about to take over the two privately owned subway companies with which the union had closed shop contracts. The contracts in La Guardia's opinion conflicted with the civil service law, which recognizes no right on the part of city employés to strike. The threatened strike over the fate of the contracts was averted by agreement to leave the whole matter to the courts.

It is of interest that Mayor La Guardia, whose liberal viewpoint hardly can be questioned, was firm in the position that municipal employés cannot be permitted the same kind and degree of collective bargaining rights as other employés. How the courts will see it remains to be learned, but it does appear that such employés cannot have the right to strike without conceding to a minority a share of power that actually belongs, and must belong in whole, to the electorate.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

A FEW REBELLIOUS YELLS.

When "Gone with the Wind" had its "Hollywood première" in Atlanta, Ga., accompanied by every possible kind of promotional hysteria, the proper form of the historic rebel yell came up for consideration. Authorities, dragged out of the peace and quiet of confederate soldiers' home, gave different opinions and versions. When the ballyhoo reached its peak, there were three kinds of rebel yell in circulation, and the excited Atlantans, coached and cheer-led, experimented with them all. Thus many southern vocal cords were gladly cracked for dear old Hollywood.

The "Gone with the Wind" researchers have set the seal of their approval upon "Yee-aye-yee." A veteran of the 9th Virginia cavalry stubbornly held out for "Wah-hoo-ee." Old Gen. J. R. Jones, aged 95, proclaimed furiously that the correct form was "Yaaa-yeee."

From this evidence we derive the opinion that the rebel yell was a free hand, extempore form of screeching at which any one could suit himself. The essential point is that the yell, given by masses of men, was a sustained volume of shrill sound on two or three notes. The individual yells, frequently interrupted for breathing, formed a somewhat organized ululation which became continuous. Football crowds occasionally produce the same effect with a wailing sound on one note.

Edgar Miller, the Chicago artist, claims that he knows the rebel yell, and puts it in an "ee-yah-ee" pattern. He has a theory that the backwoodsmen in the confederate armies learned the trick from Indians. Anyway, the effect of the rebel yell upon their adversaries was disturbing. Many documents of northern soldiers testify to the strangeness and uncanniness of the confederate war cries.

BETTER LATE THAN—

How jubilantly comes the spring
With sun and song and blossoming!
With rain a silver slanting stream
Where young submissive saplings gleam;

With tulips thrusting spears of green
From out the mold, where all unseen
New life is stirring in the earth
Seeking a way to verdant birth.

The cardinals and robins vie
At pouring tunes into the sky,
And out come marbles, bats, and kites
That swoop and swerve at dizzy heights.

When even strangers pause to say
"O, isn't this a lovely day."
And city streets are echoing

Straightening Out the World Wars.

The present European war should not be called the second world war for two reasons: 1, it has not become world-wide; 2, if it should become world-wide, it would be not the second but the third. The first world war was the Seven Years' war, which ended in 1763.

On the Trail of "Fridolin."

The Crossroads of Chicago.

Has any one remarked upon the probably unique situation soon to obtain at Milwaukee and Lake? There will be seven levels of transportation:

1. The old freight tunnel; 2, the new subway; 3, the river; 4, the river bank carrying the Milwaukee railway tracks; 5, the street; 6, the North Western railway tracks, and 7, the "El."

I doubt if this situation is duplicated in the world. Ada.

REPLY TO "SPRING OVER ENGLAND."

(Suggested by verses published April 25.)

Spring over England . . . and the sound of war
  Over the gentle, smiling countryside?
  Altho the grim Red Horseman makes his ride,
There are white violets in Devon lanes,
  Pale stars of earth, shining against the green;
The periwinkle's lovely blue remains;
And friendship's bonds still span the troubled seas,
  Sending no words save those of hope and love—
No hymns of hate defile new blossoming trees;
  Still earth is fair; and, in the heights above,
Shelley's glad larks salute the returning spring.

Beverley Githens.

Great Geographical Discovery.

Well, well, well! The Associated Press pays cable tolls from Berlin to tell us that maps over there are speaking of "the North, or German, sea." An evening paper regards this item as first page news. Well, well, well!

We have seen at least 100 references to the North sea as the German ocean in British novels that hark back a century or more. In the Century Cyclopedia of names, published in 1899, you can find this:

"German ocean, see North sea."

"North sea, or German ocean; French, Mer de Nord; German, Nordsee or Deutsches Meer; Dutch, Nordzee."

One Irishman to Another.

Prof. Arthur C. L. Brown's lecture on William Butler Yeats on Northwestern's downtown campus last night [to be repeated next Tuesday] reminds us of a Bernard Shaw quip.

One of Yeats' early plays bore the title, "Where There Is Nothing," and Shaw, then a drama critic, wrote of it:

A newspaper says, "Hitler in private is genial and companionable." A Heil fellow, well met, no doubt. J. F. B.

May 1 is "Der Tag" on which many Chicago families find more Lebensraum—or less. Maxellus.

This column is now the proud owner of an aspidistra, the gift of Miss Lillian Gish [with verses], and will bring it up in the proper British tradition. The blamed thing wants its leaves washed twice a month. CHARLES COLLINS.

How to Keep Well By Dr. Irving S. Cutter

THE CONQUEST OF VIRULENT BACTERIA.

ALMOST every one has a boil at some time or other. The cause is usually an infection of a hair follicle and the germs responsible are largely staphylococci. Minor blemishes of the epidermis give little trouble, as a rule. One may suffer from crop after crop of furuncles [boils] with no menace to health without realizing perhaps that prevention lies in keeping the skin clean and avoiding scratching.

But now and then staphylococci will travel to the blood stream, where they may disport themselves and establish abscesses in various parts of the body. This presents a grave situation—one that may take life or result in a long invalidism with numerous surgical operations in prospect for the release of pus.

Now comes the suggestion that another of these sulfanilamidelike preparations be employed against these bacteria. The product is called sulfamethylthiazol and there is an allied form termed sulfathiazol. Careful experiments have shown that these organic substances will destroy effectively microbes which apparently can bathe in or even drink sulfanilamide without the slightest harm.

As is well known, infections about the face—especially the upper lip and nose—are extremely dangerous. The veins from this area are not equipped with valves and they drain directly into large blood spaces within the skull. Thus pernicious invaders may find their way into the circulation [from pricking or squeezing a pimple] with but little effort.

A typical case cited by Krock and Chamberlain will show what not to do—pointing also to the healing rôle of the chemical under discussion. A woman of 62 noted a small red swelling near the outer corner of the upper lip. Because of the pain and annoyance she removed the "head" with a pin. But instead of decreasing, the inflammation spread rapidly to the right cheek and the side of the nose. Hot salt water packs were then applied with but little effect. After 48 hours with no improvement she sought medical aid. Her temperature was found to be 100 degrees Fahrenheit. A yellowish crust had formed on the peak of the lesion.

An examination of the blood showed staphylococci in large numbers, whereupon the administration of sulfamethylthiazol in large doses was begun. Within 36 hours the fever dropped, the pulse rate descended, and—by the end of the fifth day—all symptoms had subsided. The drug was taken without the slightest embarrassment to digestion and there was no nausea or vomiting. This history appears to be typical of what may be termed miraculous healing. The disorder was serious enough—without this new weapon—to have terminated fatally.

Another example is that of a 50 year old woman who was desperately ill. The circulation was literally loaded with staphylococci. The beginning of her difficulty was a "mixed" pneumonia and many sorts of organisms were found in the sputum. For a time she made excellent progress under fair sized doses of sulfapyridine. On the fifth day, however, the mercury level reached 104 degrees Fahrenheit and her life was despaired of. Blood transfusions were resorted to with some benefit, but signs of phlebitis [inflammation of a vein] soon appeared.

Because of the poison of millions of staphylococci in the circulation, it was decided to try sulfamethylthiazol and sizable amounts were given each four hours. The temperature began to abate at once and within five days was normal. Not the slightest evidence of toxic reaction occurred.

It is safe to say that had not this valuable compound been available, recovery would have been out of the question. Observations point to the fact that the chemical is salutary in pneumonia, but particularly so in the type of infection described.

We may look upon such reports as typical of the advances that are being made in the production of remedies that will not destroy life, but which will so discourage certain species of organisms that they in turn will not be able to manifest their killing powers.

HEART DISORDER.

G. K. writes: What is mitral stenosis? Does it differ from a murmuring heart?

REPLY.

The opening between the upper and the lower chambers on the left side of the heart is called the mitral valve. Should this space become narrowed by disease, the word "stenosis" is used to describe the condition. Blood rushing thru a pathway that has been damaged may cause a sound like the "murmuring pines and hemlocks." Stenosis cannot be cured but it can be lived with. Surgery has been attempted but is successful only in rare cases.

NIGHT DREAMS.

N. W. writes: Is there anything that will stop dreaming? I am unable to get sufficient rest because of this "night life."

REPLY.

Omit from your diet every semblance of the "tall cold bottle and small hot bird." Take no food after dinner and make the evening meal light. More calories may be taken in the middle of the day. Drink plenty of water. Be sure your sleeping room is not too hot and that your bed clothing is not heavy.

SKIN CONDITION.

B. N. writes: What does "dermatitis" mean?

REPLY.

Inflammation of the skin. There are many causes.

Test Your Facts

Below each of the following questions are listed three answers. Make your choice, turn to page 39 in the Want Ad section for the correct answers, and mark your score:

1. In what city are the ruins of the Parthenon?
[a] Rome, [b] Athens, [c] Thebes.
2. Where is a guidon carried?
[a] On the mast of a ship, [b] by an army unit, [c] by an Alaskan trapper.
3. Who commanded the British naval forces when the Spanish Armada was destroyed?
[a] John Hawkins, [b] Charles Howard, [c] Francis Drake.
4. Which of the following is correctly spelled?

RESCUE AND RUIN.

Macomb, Ill., April 26.—"Norwegian towns burn, flee Narvik, British warn people." So read the headlines. So goes the process of saving Norway. The British mine her ports, the Germans land to save her from such subjection, and now the British aim to save her from the Germans.

Put the blame where you will, the hope for or the fact of salvation by such forces brings calamity. The Poles fought in the expectation of it, and who can now visualize a restored Poland? The Finns prayed for it, but what the Bear takes he keeps. Now Norway has the stern force of salvation thrust upon her, and what can remain but ruined cities and misery when it has been accomplished?

To the man on the sidelines it seems odd indeed that such destinies could be deliberately chosen. They seem more likely to have been guided by the fine hand of allied diplomacy, urging, promising, encouraging. Every new nation tossed against Germany registers as another diplomatic coup. We of the United States must resist to the utmost those similar efforts directed toward forcing our participation in any form. We will not police the Pacific to protect the empires of nations who have so steadfastly ignored their just debts. We are not all dupes and fools even tho our hyphenated diplomats have caused the world to so consider us. D. B. TOLLEY.

I. Q.

Chicago, April 26.—In THE TRIBUNE of April 21, Dr. Johnson is quoted as telling the principals of the Chicago public schools "to ignore the intelligence quotient as the safe measure of the student's brilliance or lack of it. The I. Q. to me is frequently a lot of nonsense," he told the assembled principals.

Does that mean that Dr. Johnson has ordered the principals to make a bonfire of all the "cumulative records" centered about those admittedly nonsensical I. Q. tests? Has he instructed the principals to allow Johnnie and Maggie to enter upon each new semester's work without their I. Q. labels following them from the kindergarten to the grave?

The parents and pupils hope that the above is true and that Dr. Johnson will also refrain from using the taxpayers' money in the most undemocratic division of classes into "honor" and "slow" classes. The public schools have no right to classify students as dumbbells or intellectual giants. The parents of both classes contribute equally to the support of the schools and resent any such division of their children.

What is more, as an educator, Dr. Johnson should know that the brilliant student likes to be in the same class with the average student because he loves to shine there. And for the same reason the average and the slow students learn to emulate their more gifted or simply more studious companions.

It would indeed be a step in the right direction if Dr. Johnson would do away with the entire adjustment or psychology department and send these teachers back to the classrooms. The citizens of Chicago want smaller classes per teacher, and therefore, better teaching. They don't wish to see the taxpayers' money wasted in sham experimentation, with their children as guinea pigs.

A MOTHER.

AFTER THE ACQUITTAL.

Chicago, April 20.—When I read that the man who thinks more of preserving fish than a child's life was freed, I was dumfounded, speechless. It looks like an invitation to go out and kill your enemies knowing that there will be no penalty. M. BURDICK.

REPUBLICAN PROSPECTS.

Menasha, Wis., April 22.—What a change on the political horizon this year!

Eight years ago and four years ago the Republicans were kicked around by the Democrats so successfully that people wondered whether or not the Republicans were thru for good. But those were the days before experience demonstrated beyond all doubt the flop the New Deal turned out to be.

This year the New Dealers are hopelessly on the defensive, falling over themselves and trying to be brave in the midst of increasing resentment against their conduct of our government.

And so the Democrats are resorting to smear, having failed to sta up under intelligent debate. It is the old story again of the Democrats trying to have the voters believe that the Republicans are being led around by a few hard boiled old guardsmen and that Republicans are in fact Tories. How the facts discredit the Democratic artists of smear!

Not only thousands but millions of voters are turning from the New Deal to the Republicans with hope as youthful and progressive Gov. Stassen of Minnesota is chosen keynoter of the June convention in Philadelphia and as youthful and energetic racket-buster Dewey [five years older than Stassen] leads the parade for the presidential nomination.

It certainly looks as if a Republican President will be inaugurated in January—a blessing for America!

ARNOLD J. LANE.

A CAT ABANDONED.

Chicago, April 26.—Last Wednesday afternoon about 1:30 I glanced out of my apartment window, which overlooks Stone street near Goethe, and I noticed a woman, a little girl on roller skates, and a black cocker spaniel dog. The woman was dressed in a gray tweed coat, small black hat and she was carrying a small white and tan cat. The little girl crossed Stone street and skated away, and as soon as she had left the woman placed the cat on the ground and whistled to the dog to come with her. They crossed Goethe and walked briskly up Michigan [north] and I watched the little, bewildered cat try to follow them. It made two attempts to cross Goethe street, but was frightened back to the curb by automobiles.

Tonight I saw the same little animal cowering in the grass in the small park at Goethe and Astor streets. Its pretty white fur was soiled and it looked hungry and desolate.

I cannot understand how any person could abandon a helpless pet in a neighborhood where there are many automobiles and all varieties of dogs. Why did she not call the Anti-Cruelty society and have them take it if she no longer wanted it?

RESIDENT ON STONE STREET.

SLOGAN.

Chicago, April 24.—Nearly every successful political campaign has a slogan. To epitomize the two big issues why not this: "For Peace and Real Jobs"—vote Republican. V. B.

TODAY IN HISTORY

May 1, 1784

King's college, which had been founded by a crown charter 30 years before, changed to a state university by the New York legislature and renamed Columbia college. Later the legislative act was repealed and administration of the institution given over to a board of trustees. It was nonsectarian in character, and ministers of five different denominations were on the original board of governors. In 1912 the name was changed to Columbia university.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

SHARING ESTATE.

Westmont Ill., April 19 [Legal Friend of the People].—Dad had three children by his first marriage [all married now]. Mother passed away. Dad married a second time a widow who never had any children. During their married life they accumulated a few pieces of property which they have in both their names.

1. Dad claims in event of his death the children by his first marriage are entitled to two-thirds of his estate, according to law.

2. His second wife's name is signed on every legal document. There were no children born of this second marriage. He does not have a will.

3. Is he correct in making the above statement?

4. Or does his second wife automatically inherit the whole estate because she has her name on all documents?

5. If the latter is true, how could dad go about leaving part of the estate to his children?

6. Where can one go to find out if a person is legally adopted? If this adoption has taken place it happened about 40 years ago. What does one have to know besides the name of the party and the name of the family which adopted her? H. M.

1. This would be true as to assets standing in his name alone.

2. In general the name of the grantee and the name of his wife would not appear on conveyances under which they take title, hence it is not clear what you mean by this statement.

3. Depends on the facts. See 1 and 2.

4. The effect of the conveyances depends on their wording. The wife would not acquire title merely by adding her name to a conveyance which was so worded as not to give her anything.

5. The first step would be to go over the facts in a personal interview with an attorney.

6. To the office of the clerk of the County court. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

COMMISSION FEES.

Chicago, April 19 [Legal Friend of the People].—Will your legal opinion department kindly give us:

1. The address of a firm which will aid an aged and afflicted couple alone in the world to obtain a return of at least a part of a deposit made on a real estate contract.

2. The firm refuses to return any part of the deposit. The payment, $100, was from our savings. The writer is near 70, partially blind and with no income whatever. His wife is slowly recovering from two years' total disability, being an arthritis victim, and is past 60. We need the money and feel, altho we did sign a contract which we could not complete on account of the wife's condition, [3] we should have part of it returned and that there is a legal firm which will aid us at no expense to us. L. P.

1. In order to guard against the suspicion that The Tribune Law Department is conducted to secure business and fees for favored attorneys, we have been forced to adopt the rule of never supplying the names of attorneys.

2. In general, the broker's commission is a first charge against the deposit.

3. If the broker had performed such services as to be entitled to his commission, then you would not be in a position to recover, unless the $100 amounts to an overpayment.

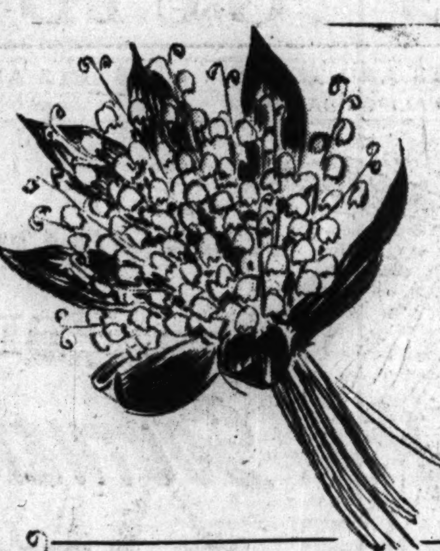
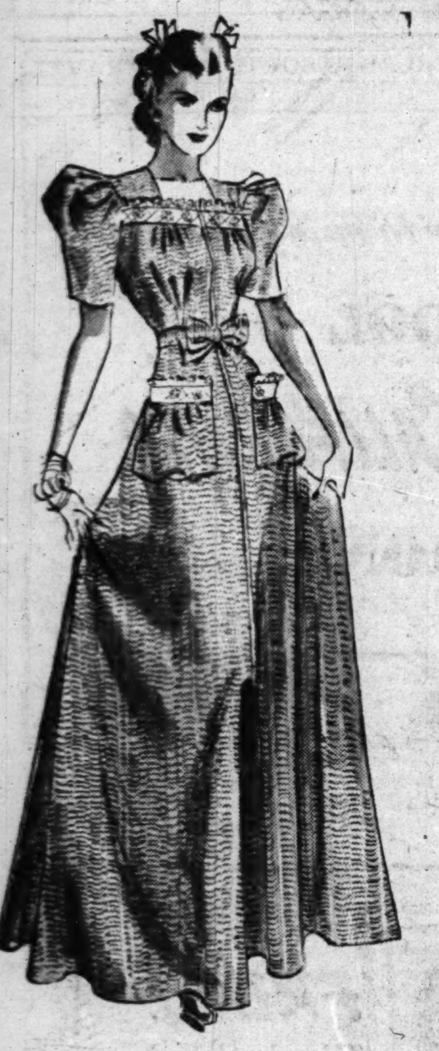
MARSHALL FIELD & COMPANY



JUST AN OLD FRENCH CUSTOM . . .

In France, husbands give their ever-loving wives lilies of the valley on May Day . . . American kids put May baskets on doorsteps . . . but when we grow up, we usually forget the sentimental, Spring-in-bloom feeling of May Day. Come to Field's to recapture the old rapture about Spring that's almost Summer. When you see all the charming, Summery dresses; the eye-beguiling hats; the cool, fragile lingerie, you'll want to dress up and be ready for happy days ahead.



Look fresh as dew in

CRISPY

SEERSUCKER, $4

You'll adore it because: Its skirt is graceful as a ballet dancer's. It has pouch pockets and dainty embroidery. It's thin as a dime, but not transparent—you needn't wear a stitch underneath it. It looks fragile and feminine—yet wears and washes like your pillow slips. It needs no ironing. And it's ideal to wear right through the Summer. Firebird red, summer sky, marine green; sizes 12 to 20.

ESCORTED TOURS

2 ARMIES CROSS CANADA BORDER IN FRIENDLINESS

They're Tourists and They Find No Restrictions.

"Americans may enter Canada today with the same ease and lack of restrictions as existed before the war clouds lowered over Europe. Citizens of enemy countries will, naturally, be subject to restrictions, but this will not affect the movement of tourists from friendly or neutral countries."

This was set forth by D. Leo Dolan, chief of the Canadian Travel bureau, at the fifth annual dinner of passenger representatives and ticket sellers of all the railroads serving Chicago.

The dinner was held Monday evening in the Stevens hotel. Among the crowd of 900 were more than 80 rail executives from all over the United States and Canada.

Tourist Experts Speak.

Other speakers were H. W. Siddall, chairman of Western Passenger association; C. A. Fox, chairman of the Central Passenger association; H. F. McCarthy, passenger traffic manager of the Boston and Maine railroad, and Homer J. Buckley, president of Buckley, Dement & Co., Chicago.

"Between this country and mine," said Mr. Dolan, "there is a boundary as clearly defined as the line between any other two countries in the world. Yet at this time, when the sound of marching feet echoes in many parts of the world, there have been no forts erected nor armed guards posted at strategic points to prevent armies from crossing what has been termed the most peaceful international boundary to be found anywhere. On the contrary, each year a great army of vacationists enters the dominion from the south and is welcomed all the way from Nova Scotia to British Columbia.

Makes for Better Friends.

"Likewise, an army from Canada each year pours into the United States, all the way from Maine to California.

"This infiltration of our peoples cannot help but make us better friends and neighbors, for it gives to each of us a first hand and better understanding of our mutual problems. In this, as in other ways, we have shown the world that it is possible for two great nations to live side by side in peace and harmony."

With most of Europe closed to vacation travel, Mr. Dolan said, Canada expects to be the goal of many thousands of Americans who heretofore have looked overseas for their pleasure trips.

"With Canada at war," he added, "there has been a feeling in some quarters that it might be difficult for tourists to cross the border. These fears are groundless. No new restrictions or regulations have been imposed since the outbreak of the war last September. Nor will there be any new rules—as far as Americans are concerned."

Chicago and Lisbon Linked by Direct Air Line Route

Chicagoans now have a direct flying connection with Lisbon, Portugal. The Pan-American Airways yesterday started a series of thrice weekly flights from New York to the Portuguese capital, and the American Airlines announced that their planes from Chicago would tie up with the departures from New York.

Stone Giants of the Saguenay

BAHAMA ISLANDS MARK INCREASE IN VACATIONISTS

NASSAU, the Bahamas, April 30 [Special].—Altho these islands are a part of the British empire and therefore might be classified as belligerent, they have suffered no decrease in winter and early spring sojourners. Instead, there has been an increase.

Figures made public today by the Nassau Development board showed that from Dec. 1, 1939, to April 1, 1940, there was a gain of 9 per cent in vacationists over the corresponding period a year ago.

FETE TO RECALL SETTLEMENT OF JAMESTOWN, VA.

Jamestown, Va., April 30 [Special]. —The passage of more than three centuries since a band of English colonists settled in North America will be celebrated here May 13. The ceremonies, arranged by the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities, will include a reception for Jacqueline Cochran, speed aviator, after her arrival from New York. Miss Cochran will fly back to New York with relics of the first American glass factory, built in Jamestown in 1609 by Capt. John Smith.

CALIFORNIA GETS LYRICAL ABOUT YOSEMITE PARK

San Francisco, Cal., April 30 [Special]. — California, never backward about telling of its scenic attractions, uses only superlatives in describing the sights of Yosemite National park.

The broadest areas of glacial pavement.

The largest granite monolith known [El Capitan].

Use Diving Helmets; See Ocean Floor at Bermuda

HAMILTON, Bermuda, April 30 [Special].—For years one of the favorite tourist haunts here has been the aquarium. Now Bermuda has started the stunt of letting visitors don bathing suits and diving helmets and descending into Herrington sound for a closeup of life at the bottom of the sea.

IF EVERYTHING SEEMS TO GO WRONG

Answer this question . . .

Are you sure that you may not be a victim of too much acid in your bladder!—a condition which can be brought on if your kidneys fail to eliminate at least two quarts a day. Here's what can happen if that occurs—

The acids and by-products of metabolism (which are expelled thru the bladder) are insufficiently diluted. They reach the bladder in such a highly concentrated acid condition that they irritate the sphincter muscle and the sensitive bladder linings. Such irritations can cause those "overwhelming" urges that wake you up; pains in back, lower abdomen and the legs; burning passages, itching. Under such conditions, you can't be blamed if you feel blue. But you can be blamed if you take no steps to relieve such a situation.

Take FOLEY PILLS. They act on your kidneys and bladder in three ways. They stir those sluggish kidneys, and dilute and neutralize the over-acid contents of your bladder. Furthermore, FOLEY PILLS transform those over-acid contents into a bland solution which actually helps soothe those tortured tissues and quiet those irritations which may be responsible for those "overwhelming" urges, backaches, getting up nights, burning, itching, etc.

Don't let too much acid in your bladder make you feel worse. Start taking Foley Pills today. Quick results, quick relief, quick satisfaction or your money back. At all druggists.

MEXICO MARKS ITS 4TH OF JULY ON 5TH OF MAY

Festive Sham Battles Hail Independence Day.

BY FREDERIC BABCOCK.

PUEBLA, Mexico [By Mail].—Mexico's "Fourth of July" will be celebrated Sunday, May 5. The celebrating will be done with much noise, music, the popping of firecrackers, and the sizzle of Roman candles.

May 5 marks the anniversary of the Battle of Puebla in 1862. Altho the battle did not drive the French permanently out of Mexico, the date still is observed with patriotic fervor.

Sham battles are the order of the day. In many small towns and villages these are costumed with naive imagination, and the maneuvers of the "troops," both French and Mexican, take the form of stylized dancing and pageantry.

A Laughing Army.

Wherever there are military garrisons they are besieged by a laughing army, symbolizing the attack of the natives on the Napoleonic forces. The firecrackers and Roman candles are supposed to simulate the exchange of shots. "Charros" and "Chinas Poblanas" dance in the streets in a storm of red, white, and green confetti, while military bands blare out "Zacatecas" and other marching songs.

The observance centers on Puebla. Some of the ceremonies here are held on virtually the same ground that was traversed by the forces of Gen. Ignacio Zaragoza when, tired and ragged, they marched against the French in 1862, and again by the troops of Gen. Porfirio Diaz when they came along five years later.

It was because of Zaragoza's brilliant victory—short lived, since the enemy later regained control of Puebla—that this city was named Puebla de Zaragoza and May 5 declared a national holiday.

Victory Climax of Campaign.

It remained for Gen. Diaz to launch a more successful attack in 1867 when the city was controled by imperialist forces directed by Gen. Manuel Noriega. Diaz and his men, escaping a trap set by an army dispatched by Emperor Maximilian, feigned a retreat, and then divided forces to wage battle at several points.

Their victory was the climax of the Diaz campaign against the French. Puebla again came under the constitutional government when that government was established with the election of Benito Juarez as president of Mexico.

While this city continues to live in the glory of its early prominence, other towns share in the celebration.

Pageant Rich in Color.

In Penon, a village on the outskirts of Mexico City, the sham battle has crystalized into a pageant rich in color and quaintness.

In Acapulco, Pacific seaport, the May 5 fête is a part of an Indian fiesta that lasts several days. At that time dances are held in the streets, and the markets are jammed with handicraft brought in by the Indians from the hills.

In Monterrey this year troops will storm Obispado hill in an engagement lasting thruout the morning of May 4. Sunrise the following day will mark the beginning of a day long fiesta, with music and dancing predominating.

They extend for unkown depths and distances under the foothills of the Guadalupe mountains near Carlsbad, in southeastern New Mexico. The entrance, 90 feet wide and 40 feet high, leads to a depth of 750 feet. So far two other levels—one 900 feet below the surface and the other 1,320 feet—have been found, but they have not been fully explored, and are not open to the public. The 750 foot level is open for seven miles.

Where is Tobago Island? S. D.

Near Trinidad, in the West Indies. It is said to have been the inspiration of Alexander Selkirk's "Robinson Crusoe."

I have been told that the world's largest Dutch windmill is not in the Netherlands, but somewhere in this country. What can you tell me about it? W. B.

San Francisco claims to have the world's largest. The mill, patterned after those in the old country, is situated in Golden Gate park, within a few hundred feet of the Pacific. There, day and night, the giant paddles rotate in the ocean breezes, pumping water to irrigate the thousand acre park. The mill was built at a cost of $20,000. Its arms, made of Oregon pine, measure 57 feet from center to tip. Most of it is covered with ivy, and it is set among cypress and eucalyptus trees.

What is the rate the railroads will charge this summer for the "grand circle" tour, permitting travelers to take in both the New York and the San Francisco fairs, along with scenic points en route? H. N.

The rates are $90 on the coaches and $135 [plus sleeping car fares] on the Pullmans.

Between Golden and Revelstoke, British Columbia.

HIGHEST TIDES OF WORLD RACE IN NOVA SCOTIA

WINDSOR, N. S., April 30 [Special].—The world's highest tides are found in the Bay of Fundy, but this Nova Scotian resort town also has a highly unusual tourist attraction.

After hours of beach emptiness the water comes rushing back as a "bore," or sheet of racing, turbulent, yellow foam. The tidal rise frequently reaches a height of 50 feet.

Windsor also is the site of Fort Edward, within which the plans were made for the expulsion of the Acadians.

100 TINY CARS WILL RUN RACES AT HOBBY SHOW

The fourth annual Gas Model hobby show will be held next Tuesday thru Saturday in the Louis XVI. room of the Hotel Sherman. More than 100 tiny racing cars, built to scale, will race twice daily thruout the show. Other exhibits will include miniature boats and planes. The autos, owned by members of the Chicago Model Race Car association, reach speeds of 60 miles an hour and cost approximately $60 to build. Sections at the show also will be devoted to miniature railroading and equipment for constructing tiny houses. Pat Sweeney is directing the show.

BOOKS

"This Is Our China" an Inside Story by Mme. Chiang Kai-shek.

Story of Pioneers Made Rare by Lack of Heroics

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Wild Geese Calling" is a rare novel of life in the wilds, for there is no blood lust in it, no losing battle with the elements, no brooding tragedy. It is a story aboutAlaska, and the gold of the Klondike can and does, as far as the characters are concerned, make fools and grubbers of others but not of them. In it two young people, who have the three greatest blessings that nature ever bestows, love, health, and a sense of humor, take themselves in a sail boat from Seattle to Klakan, Alaska, and then to a cove a few miles across tricky water and there make their lives.

Stewart Edward White.

There are epic moments. The tricky water almost manages to get the best of John; Sarah's experiences as a school teacher haven't really educated her for having a baby in pioneer loneliness, and one apparently safe customer gets pretty nasty when he's had a few drops too much, but a devoted malamute [dog to you] manages that situation, and strength of body and spirit, plus the sense of humor, the others.

What a delightful relief this sort of book is from violence and bloodshed and heroic sized groans you will have to find out for yourselves, but don't be misled by its lack of gore and grisliness. It has the stanch ring of truth about it. It is heroic in the sense of real heroism; unsniveling acceptance of what destiny offers and, starting from that acceptance, doing your derndest.

I once knew an unlettered woman, very religious, who twisted a slang phrase of the period to what always seemed to me a noble end. In those days we used to flip off a failure with "Angels could do no more." She always said, when things went wrong, after human hands and heart had done their best, "Angels could do more." She was happily satisfied with less than the angels could do. The utterly human quality of its characters being less than the angels [or the devils], being just what they are, no more and no less, is what makes "Wild Geese Calling" a memorable book.

Incidentally, Col. Theodore Roosevelt, writing a little booklet about Stewart Edward White, says: "When I finished it ['Wild Geese Calling'] I felt I had spent happy hours with two of my intimate friends." That is exactly the way you'll feel—as if you had spent happy hours with two of YOUR intimate friends.

Briffault's Latest

"Fandango," by Robert Briffault. [Scribners, $2.50.] Published a week ago Monday.

The author of "Europa" and "Europa in Limbo" carries his fictional record of a wrecked world up to the defeat of the republican forces in Spain in his latest book, "Fandago." Readers of "Europa," which was richly populated with the real people and the tense events of the period just before the first world war, will find "Fandango" a disappointment for more than one reason. It is pure fiction, unembroidered by Mr. Briffault's almost unique knowledge of the detail of fact and of persons which made "Europa" such a memorable tapestry. And in "Fandango" human beings and events take on lurid melodrama, like the too scarlet enameled finger tips of a lady's hand.

In the beginning of "Fandango" the heroine is the dazzlingly beautiful, fêted daughter of the Austrian ambassador to Spain. In the end she is physically, morally, spiritually bankrupt. Mr. Briffault undoubtedly intends that his readers look upon Carlotta as symbolic and upon her debacle as the world's today. But as he has written "Fandango" it is rather lurid melodrama than epic tragedy.

Caught in the first burst of the revolution in Spain, Carlotta's father and mother do their best to preserve their country's relations with the civil war torn country to which they have been assigned. Revolution is no new thing to them, and they can cope with it both personally and politically. But finally they are recalled. Vienna welcomes them, but only soon to send Carlotta and her mother in flight to Paris and her father to suicide as the Nazis come in. The degradation of Carlotta becomes complete in Paris as she tries vainly to find work and finally sells the only marketable possession she still owns, her beauty.

Mr. Briffault's heroine, one way or another, sees everything of life from penthouse to sewer, and some of the sights are described with brilliance. Mr. Briffault has a genius for making places and social backgrounds come alive. But here that genius does not rise to the job of making the people he is writing about also come alive. Whenever it is the emotions of the individual members of the audience at the theater of events rather than the theater itself that he attempts to interpret, his literary fingers are all Jack Horner thumbs. He pulls out a plum when he's merely describing places and things but a prune when he's intent on people. But he does both with the same air of "See what a good boy am I."

Hudson Bay Called "Sea of Destiny" as a Strategic Region

"Sea of Destiny—Hudson Bay," by H. Dyson Carter. [Greenberg, $3.]

In an alarming manner, Mr. Carter calls attention to "the American Mediterranean," from whose southern shores bombers could reach the industrial centers of this continent in four hours.

Starting with a brief history of the region, Mr. Carter states the case for the port of Churchill, which, situated on the western shore of Hudson bay, is within 200 miles of trans-Atlantic distance from Quebec to Liverpool. Churchill has the further advantage of being 400 miles from the heart of the wheat belt of Saskatchewan, and thus is 1,100 miles closer to the markets of Liverpool than the Saskatoon-Great Lakes-Quebec route. The port was completed in 1931.

After driving home the arguments for Churchill's promising development, Mr. Carter reverts to his original thesis that in the present European war Hudson bay offers the enemy a chink in North American armor, and urgently calls for military defense of the area's portals.

A Stirring Novel Portrays Europe of Last 15 Years

"Europe to Let," by Storm Jameson. [Macmillan, $2.50.]

Storm Jameson.

Thru the Europe of the last 15 years, and in particular the last four, Esk, a young English writer and journalist, wandered, sipping the wine of friendship, and finding the bitter dregs of hatred and a future doom.

In postwar Germany was disillusioned youth, eager for the hypnotic dynamo of Hitler. In Vienna Esk found Lotte, the dainty Austrian actress, who put on socialism as one does a new cloak, and Emil Wolfe, brilliant Jewish surgeon, who "departed" after the Nazis broke all his fingers. On into Prague the wanderer moved, to become embroiled in the last fateful moments of the Czech republic. Budapest, crossroad of old world hatreds, gave him the friendship of a docile and friendly little Jewish newspaper man, who knew too well what the future held for his people.

This story, in its essentials, is not new to readers of the daily press, but under the passionate stirring of Storm Jameson's prose it takes on new vigor. Her phrases sting in sharp bursts, like shrapnel, driven into being by the violence of her own feeling.

Critics Submit Their Choices for Pulitzer Prizes in Literature

The Saturday Review of Literature each year asks the leading literary critics of the United States for their nominations for the Pulitzer prize awards in literature. The actual awards of course are made by the Pulitzer prize committee and will be announced May 6, but the critics' choices are considered exceedingly important. Their selection for the fiction award was overwhelmingly in favor of "The Grapes of Wrath," by John Steinbeck, and for "Abraham Lincoln: The War Years," by Carl Sandburg, for the biography award. The majority chose "America in Midpassage," by Charles and Mary Beard, for the history award and for poetry "The Collected Poems of Mark van Doren."

The runners up were: in fiction, "The Web and the Rock," by Thomas Wolfe; in biography, "Thoreau," by Henry Seidel Canby; in history, "Abraham Lincoln: The War Years," by Carl Sandburg; and in poetry, "Huntsman, What Quarry," by Edna St. Vincent Millay.

China of Today Is Sketched by Wife of Chiang

"This Is Our China," by Mme. Chiang Kai-shek. [Harpers, $3.50.]

BY FRANK TOOLEY.

China is bound to shed her worn-out gowns of indifference and laziness. The awakened minds of the present generation and the developing ones of the next will see to that. Moreover, her destiny—regardless of the outcome of the present undeclared war with Japan—is with the democracies.

These are among the most provocative and dominating thought strokes from the deft pen of Mme. Chiang Kai-shek in her newly published word sketch of China today and the China which Japan first sought to put asunder almost three years ago.

The American educated wife of the Chinese generalissimo and dictator explains the position of her native land, the thoughts of its people, their misgivings, aspirations, and sufferings, and China's future in an educative, yet pleasant manner.

Mme. Chiang is bitter towards Japan, of course. But her tears for China's wounds intermingle with the conviction that China will rise from the present Japanese styled "incident" to take the rôle of a unified, progressive nation. There was another aggressor, she recalls.

"It was Genghis Khan who established and upheld the doctrine of death to defeated populations in order to prevent suppressed hatred bursting out in time to his undoing," Mme. Chiang says. "He swept like a torture thru the heart of China. Hot on his tracks the Japanese now are attempting to follow. But history has proved that Genghis Khan, with all his annihilating cruelties, failed to subjugate us."

Will China continue to be unified after the war, or will there be internal dissension? And if there is dissension, what will be the probable effect on the future of the country?

"Yes, there is unity in our country now," she replies, "and, if the sufferings and hardships we have undergone because of this 'undeclared' war have not taught us the necessity and the importance of coöperation, then China deserves to be doomed."

While war is uppermost in Mme. Chiang's mind, she nevertheless takes the reader on a delightful excursion thru China's back provinces, plucks a few white strawberries from a mountainside to whet the mental appetite, and describes in detail her school for orphaned children. These sidelights form a pleasing frame for a rare picture.

Writes of China

Mrs. Chiang Kai-shek, author of "This Is Our China," reviewed in adjoining column.

"The Mad Booths of Maryland," by Stanley Kimmel. [Bobbs-Merrill, $3.75.]

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

Mad, indeed, were the Booths. Not what could legally be called insane, perhaps, but strange and dramatic in their ways.

Junius Brutus was the sire of the tribe. He came to America early in the 19th century after a career in England and the continent, checkered with theatrical success, moments of failure, and a host of indiscretions.

Mary Alice Holmes, mother of the Maryland Booths, was a calm, patient woman, bewildered somewhat by Junius Brutus and the children she reared. Of them, the best known were Edwin and the infamous John Wilkes.

Edwin Booth became the great tragedian of the middle years of the century, perhaps the greatest the English speaking stage has ever known. His Shakespearean characterizations were superb. His private life was saddened to the extent that he became a walking symbol of the melancholy Dane he portrayed so well on the boards.

His first wife, Mary Devlin, died untimely; his second, Mary McVicker, was caught up by madness. But overshadowing even these troubles was the shocking crime of his brother, John Wilkes, the assassin of President Lincoln.

"The Mad Booths of Maryland" rises to heights of dramatic intensity in describing John Wilkes' plotting the killing in Ford's theater in Washington, the flight thru Maryland and Virginia. Mr. Kimmel has done an excellent job of marshaling and writing facts and conjecture anent the Booths. The family's career is as stirring, as eventful as any imagined novel.

Lectures

Carl Sandburg, author of "Abraham Lincoln: The War Years," will give a series of six lectures at the University of Chicago beginning tomorrow night with "Romanticism and Realism in American Literature." Next Tuesday his subject will be "American Tall Tales and Nonsense Stories." On May 9 he will give "The American Song Bag." The final three lectures will be given on May 14, 16, and 21. They will be at Leon Mandel hall at 8:30 p. m.

Norman Bel Geddes Offers Ideas for Highway System

Norman Bel Geddes, the designer, presents a plan for an entirely new type of national motorways system in a book of ultramodern format called "Magic Motorways" [Random House, $3.50]. It is the first and only book that has treated the subject of vehicular transportation comprehensively from an historical viewpoint and from a constructive angle, offering a solution of the problem.

Among Current Mysteries

Well Written Yarn.

"The Wedding Guest Sat on a Stone," by Richard Shattuck. [Morrow, $2.]

A wild few days in a California resort hotel is the background of this fast paced detective tale. A newlywed couple finds a man's body with a bayonet protruding. They and other roisterers decide to conceal the body and try to track down the killer themselves. It's not so easy to hide a body, they learn. And death menaces again. The solution is satisfactory. It's not a particularly baffling mystery, but a well written one.

S. M. K.

Humor in This One.

"69 Diamonds," by Jeremy Lord. [Crime Club, $2.]

In "69 Diamonds" Col. Winston Creevy, equipped with monocle and a British accent, bumps into a baffling murder mystery while on vacation in California. The elderly, retired English secret service official [who made his first public appearance in "The Bannerman Case"] helps his old time Yankee detective friend solve the puzzle. Wandering thru the mystery are a pair of the drollest alcoholics in modern murder fiction. Jeremy Lord has given detective fans one of the funniest and liveliest who-done-it stories of the season.

A. C.

A Scientific Setting.

"Brain Waves and Death," by Willard Rich. [Scribners, $2.]

Here is a who-done-it that will delight those who enjoy refined murder in a scientific setting. The first victim is submitting to a study of his brain waves when his hour comes. He is in a hermetically sealed room. An automatic camera is photographing him at intervals. The entire staff of the laboratory is listening thru earphones. The second murder is even more inexplicable. As you may imagine, a hard headed, common sense detective throws the light upon what has been so dark in the first 200-odd pages.

Oh, Promised Land
THE GREAT NEW NOVEL BY JAMES STREET

FANNY BUTCHER says:

"The lustiest, most roistering, most violent of all the historical sagas of this year . . . a vast tale of thunder across the Mississippi wilderness from 1794 to 1817. In these 816 pages is recorded the hard living history of Big Sam Dabney and his beautiful vixen of a sister, Honoria, pledged to stand together against a world of human derelicts. Every emotion in these pages is at fever heat, every action blazing with passion, every event epic. It has the authentic tempo of excitement lashing through its pages. A whopping good yarn, one of the best in many a day."

Go to your Bookseller and he will show you the novel that is a nation-wide best-seller—recommended by reviewers, authors, booksellers and the public. To indicate how widespread is the appeal of this book, we here quote some of the many voices in the chorus of praise for the new smash hit—

SHOW ME A LAND
By CLARK McMEEKIN

"It has been quite a while since any one has told a better or more exciting story." —New York Times Book Review.

"An engaging version of a lively scene. Unusually entertaining narrative." —New York Herald Tribune "Books."

"A dead ringer for the best-seller lists." —Sterling North, Chicago News.

"Few novels in recent years equal it in narrative suspense, fast-moving action and refreshed and accurate detail. It is a bewitching pattern to weave a novel on, and these writers have achieved something to be read, loved and long remembered." —Louisville Courier-Journal.

"A vigorous and fascinating book." —Philadelphia Bulletin.

"The most vital, exciting and compelling American novel to make its appearance in a long time." —Philadelphia Inquirer.

"Surely there is something that will excite almost every reader in this narrative." —Oakland Tribune.

"Completely satisfying. A winner." —John G. Kidd, Bookseller, Cincinnati.

"This story ought to hit the best-seller lists with a bang. It's got everything." —Syracuse Post Standard.

"This story contains material of interest to so many kinds of people that it should have a splendid sale." —Alice L. Steinlein, Bookseller, Wilmington.

"A fine spirited novel that is sharply and tensely alive. You are swept on by the compelling power of the story." —Buffalo News.

"I have enjoyed 'Show Me a Land' beyond words." —Mrs. John Nance Garner.

"I have read 'Show Me a Land' with enthusiasm and amazement! It is packed with dramatic material. All the crowding characters are enormously alive and individually interesting." —Margaret Deland.

"Material as fresh as the dew on the Blue Grass. A fine, brisk and lovable novel." —Atlanta Journal.

"Admirable picture of mid-nineteenth century Kentucky. Enjoy reading the book as much as the author must have enjoyed writing it." —Boston Transcript.

"I give you 'Show Me a Land,' the story of a woman's love. Entertaining." —Harry Hansen, N. Y. World-Telegram.

"Gives the reader the sense not of following a plot, but of seeing life incalculable, ruthless, colorful, and teeming with dramatic interest." —Chattanooga Times.

"A crisp, brisk, expertly entertaining story." —Cue.

"Colorful, absorbing story." —Dallas News.

"Sets a high mark for 1940 novels." —Dallas Times Herald.

"Unusually entertaining narrative." —Washington, D. C., Post.

"Highly satisfying." —Kansas City Star.

"What a good novel should be. No propaganda, or filth, but clean, well written and interesting." —Mrs. Brand Whitlock.

"A rousing story." —Charles Hanson Towne.

A Familiar Theme Bobs Up in Novel of Imperial Rome

"Patrician Street," by John Gibson. [Vanguard Press, $2.50.]

Remember the story of the virtuous country girl who went to the big city and triumphed over wickedness and vice? Here it is, laid in the city of Rome under Domitian, emperor from 81 to 96 A. D. Domitian's only claim to being unique is that he was the first of the emperors to call himself divine.

John Gibson's novel is a lurid account of the manners and morals of the decayed and dependent gentry of the time. He misses no details of Roman depravity, corruption, and brutality, whether or not they have anything to do with the story. The characters speak in the idiom and slang of 1940 America. This lends a certain amount of realism to the story, but some readers may find it irritating.

Annia is the country girl who personifies virtue. Her husband, Decimus, is the decadent Roman citizen. Hermes, the gladiator, and Crescens, the chariot racer, provide the heroics and the happy ending—just in the nick of time. C. J. W.

Authors and Their Work

Both the author and the illustrator of an enchanting little book for young children, "The Seven Diving Ducks" [McKay, $1], live in Evanston. Margaret Friskey wrote the words. Lucia Patton made the amusing drawings.

Any writer, known or unknown, who has never published a mystery novel, is eligible to enter the second Mary Roberts Rinehart prize contest, which began April 15 and ends Oct. 31 of this year. A thousand dollars on account of royalties is offered for the best manuscript. The judges will be Mary Roberts Rinehart and the editors are Farrar & Rinehart. Details can be obtained by writing the publishers at 232 Madison avenue, New York City.

Sigrid Undset, famous Norwegian novelist and Nobel prize winner, has volunteered her services to her country in its war against German aggression and has been assigned to censorship work.

A Little Girl's Story of 2,010 Days of Hitler

"Two Thousand and Ten Days of Hitler," by Patsy Ziemer. [Harpers, $2.75.]

BY PAUL JACOBY.

Historians, statesmen, diplomats, students of political science, and political refugees have written many volumes about Adolf Hitler and his iron fisted dictatorship over Germany. And now Patsy Ziemer, a 12 year old American girl who until a few months ago lived in Germany, has written with simplicity and charm of life in Germany before and after Hitler.

Patsy's father is Gregor Ziemer. He was founder and headmaster of the American school in Berlin. Events and background material beyond the comprehension of the young author are sketched in by Mr. Ziemer.

Thru recollections—tragic, humorous, and pathetic—and the use of a diary Patsy Ziemer presents a vivid picture of Nazi oppression. Obviously of a highly sensitive nature, she emphasizes the youth and educational system of Germany today. She and her father present interesting comparisons before and after the Nazi reign.

The tremendous difficulties of keeping the American school alive in Berlin, persecution of Jews [the Ziemers are not Jewish], the difficulty of obtaining food, and the harsh and frequently cruel domination of the people by Hitler's burocratic army are well described.

The affection Patsy had for Germany before the days of Hitler and for the friends she made while living in that country make a pathetic picture.

She tells of the seizure of Austria, where Viennese secretly raised their arms in the Nazi salute—a quick pressing of their hands against their foreheads. The rapid conquests of Germany, the dread of war, the feeling of oppression, and the general terror are presented in a vivid manner.

Patsy and her father and mother escaped the war by a narrow margin and returned to America, where the girl saw the Statue of Liberty and then recalled bitter experiences in Germany under Hitler. She concludes her book in this way:

"O, I hope America will not get into this war, too. Then we will be all mixed up. That would be terrible. I can't think of any word to show how terrible that would be. I am glad that we are back in America and I am glad we have this book finished. Daddy says any time we feel that being Americans is not the most wonderful thing in the world, then all we have to do is to look into our book and we will be happy again."

"Two Thousand and Ten Days of Hitler" is an illuminating document not only for American parents, but also for American children.

Does Short Stories

Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings, author of "The Yearling," whose collection of short stories, "When the Whippoorwill," is reviewed below by Fanny Butcher.

"When the Whippoorwill," by Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings. [Scribners, $2.50]. Published yesterday.

Here in 285 pages are the short stories which the author of "The Yearling" has written about the Florida crackers who provided her with the material for that beautiful and memorable book.

Some of the 11 stories are so short as to be almost fragments; some are so long as to be almost short novels. Some are tender, some are gay, some are moving, some are rib-tickling, but none is as easy to forget as it is to read. They are all written with a fine ear for the idiom and the rhythm of the native speech and a deep understanding of the way their characters think as well as live.

Two of the stories, like "The Yearling," have been prize winners. "Jacob's Ladder," the longest, won a prize for a short novel, and "Gal Young Un" the O. Henry first prize for the short stories of its year. "Jacob's Ladder" is a tender, tragic record of two young people who loved each other and the wilderness of the Florida hammock, but who never, until the very end, could stay long enough in one place to strike roots. And always they were having to leave something behind when they moved on, a dead baby, a pet coon, a tamed cat, a bed of lovingly tended flowers—security and all of its symbols. "Gal Young Un" is also among the more tenderly tragic tales—of a child mistress thrust upon a too doting wife and of the wife's final revenge.

"A Crop of Beans," which tells of one decent crop after years of failures and the bank's closing just after the crop money had been deposited, turns at its end to the simple ironic. "Varmints" goes all the way over onto the funny side. It is the story of a local 30 years' war over a mule. "A Plumb Clare Conscience" is also in the funny pigeonhole. But the implication of tragedy in "The Pardon" has no humor to turn aside the reader's sadness.

Good as they are, however, these short stories do not prove that Mrs. Rawlings is better in the shorter narrative than she is in the novel form. The longer sweep of the full length novel gives her special gift an even more certain scope. F. B.

"Why War?" [Scribners, $2.50] is a collection of recent essays and addresses on war and peace by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler.

Life in Midwest Towns Plumbed by Two Novels

"King's Row," by Henry Bellamann. [Simon & Schuster, $2.75.]
"Sioux City," by J. Hyatt Downing. [Putnams, $2.50.]

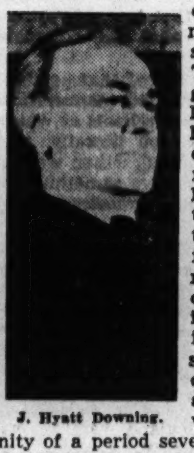
BY WILL DAVIDSON.

The green scum that coats a casual pond in a midwestern woods, the white mold found under a fallen branch, the stifling dust that follows the plow over the plain, and the blight that devours the struggling grain—these are as real and as eternal a part of the midwestern scene as are the cool earth smells and the red barns and white farmhouses of the prairie country.

Equally real are the maladjustments, the cruelties of the small towns, and in these novels we find a side of midwestern life that most of us who are a part of it subconsciously relegate to William Faulkner's dank south.

Most gothic of the books is Mr. Bellamann's fascinating study of a dying town across the turn of the century. "King's Row" might be any small community, and its characters have had human counterparts by the thousand. But seldom have we been permitted to watch the unholy machinations of an existence that imprisons them all. We watch these strange people thru the eyes of an understanding man — Parris Mitchell, whose studies and practice in medicine place him in a position to watch, with sympathy. We are treated to a turmoil of human nature, bad and good. The involvements are too numerous to chronicle here. Suffice it to say that they are beautifully presented, and provide a worthwhile study.

"Sioux City" is a little less bizarre in its flavor, yet it, too, plumbs the depths of some rather unpleasant souls. Anthony Trant, its protagonist, is cordially unlikable. But he happens to be embarrassingly real. His calculating campaign to defeat a town that defeated his father is a little masterpiece of calm, profitable inhumanity, and it enables us to see the beginnings of stagnation in a typical midwestern community of a period several decades past the glories of the pioneer age. In fact, the picture of Sioux City in the boom days of the '80s is, in the end, the meat of this novel. It is a lush, brilliant, swaggering picture, full of rowdy strength.



J. Hyatt Downing.

As in the case of "King's Row," this novel is to the midwestern literary tradition of Stong, Suckow, and Garland what the paintings of Thomas Hart Benton and John Stuart Curry are to the artistic tradition of Grant Wood and Dale Nichols.

Pens Travelogue

"A Unicorn in the Bahamas," by Rosita Forbes. [Dutton, $3.]

A thoroly entertaining and informative travel book is this new volume by Rosita Forbes. Not only is the reader given an excellent history of the whole colorful and dramatic life of the Bahama Islands, but a feeling of the atmosphere, of their essential character, is also imparted

The author literally flew from one island to the other on the wings of the wind [and a sturdy seaplane of the Bahamian Airways] and managed to see them all and to talk with their commissioners and their people.

"A Unicorn in the Bahamas" has everything needed by a good travel book: Facts, fiction, humor, human interest, and understanding. E. W.

'Show Me a Land' Day as Well as Derby Day in Louisville Saturday

Saturday is not only Derby day but also "Show Me a Land" day in Louisville. That saga by Clark McMeekin of Kentucky valor in human and horse flesh ends with the first Kentucky Derby in 1875. Its publishers have made up an amusing little booklet [in replica of the book] which contains three extremely interesting items and a place for you to record what they tactfully label "Derby Winnings and Losses." The items include: A list of Kentucky Derby winners, with their weight, time, and winnings; a notation that the distance until 1896 was 1½ miles and since then 1¼ miles; and two recipes created by Louisville hotels for service on Derby day in honor of the book "Show Me a Land Toddy," to be served hot or cold, and "Show Me a Land Sandwich," to be served either lightly toasted or cold. The booklets will be distributed in Louisville and the recipes broadcast.

in the Book-of-the-Month Club News

☞ "This book is an intimate personal history of what life was like for men, women, and children in the opening of the old Northwest

☞ As fiction it gives Mr. Zara an opportunity to include what formal history too often leaves out—hardship, love, frontier rascality, and the interplay between races.

☞ Also a series of character sketches of the kind of men and women which that life created—some historical, like General Wayne, some fictitious but equally convincing

☞ You'll like this book."

99.5 Per Cent of Community Fund Is Raised

Chicago raised 99.5 per cent of its goal in the 1939 community fund drive, an accomplishment duplicated by no other city of comparable size.

The campaign has raised $3,595,378, George A. Ranney, president of the fund, said yesterday at the organization's annual meeting in the Palmer House. The goal was $3,611,000. Mr. Ranney also said that payment during 1939 of pledges made in 1938 brought the 1938 drive to 99.6 per cent of its goal, a record unsurpassed in the United States.

Mr. Ranney said 506,450 individuals contributed in the 1939 drive. This was an increase of 102,598 individual gifts over 1938. Fifty thousand persons solicited the funds.

The money goes for the social welfare needs of 1940. Laurence B. Robbins, treasurer, reported disbursements were made in the fields of major relief, minor relief, employment and vocational guidance, child care, day nurseries, protective care, care for the aged, and health. The cost of the campaign and of administration was approximately 3 per cent.

The sponsors' division, composed of 204 Chicago business leaders, raised $1,686,661 from 1,209 individuals and corporations, A. H. Mellinger, general chairman of the 1939 drive, reported. This was an increase of 7 per cent over 1938.

Mellinger's report praised newspapers and commercial advertising channels for their coöperation. He said this help served as a green light for the fund to march ahead and was one of the principal reasons for the public response to the campaign.

The report closed with a tribute to the help given by Chicago churches, organized labor, and business organizations "which are interested in the community's welfare and annually rally to the support of the fund."

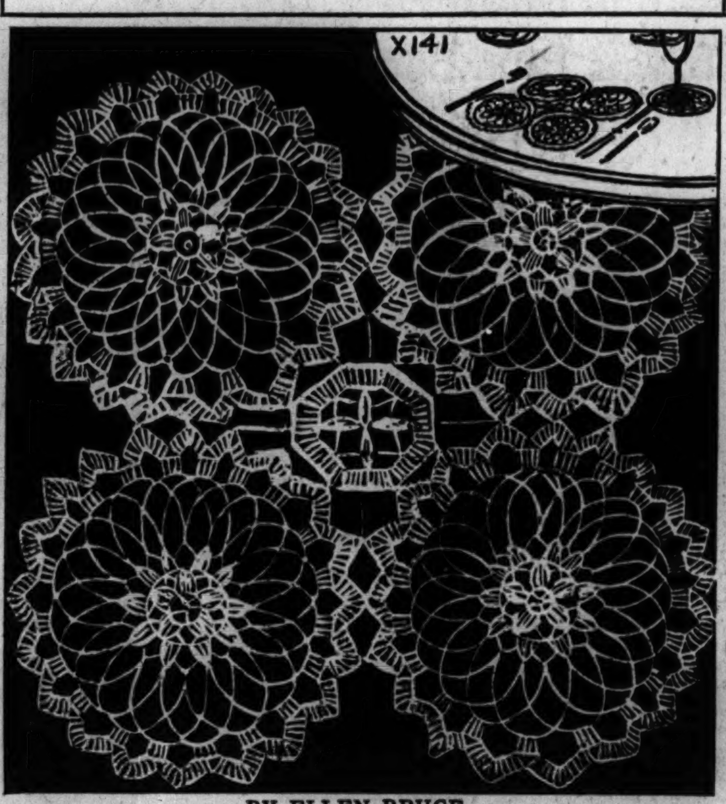
Crocheted Place Doilies



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Crocheted place doilies which may be made in an evening are destined for permanent favor. Four round dahlia medallions are required for the center mat illustrated, and a single medallion is used for the coffee cup or water goblet. The pattern is a simple one to create, and an experienced and rapid crochet worker probably will be able to make an entire set in a couple of hours.

Self-Consciousness Often the Enemy of Bodily Grace

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Within the last couple of weeks we chanced on different occasions to meet two artists, and each voluntarily hit upon the theme of woman's gracelessness, each artist comparing women's lack of grace and poise to the native grace of cats. Odd that they both should have struck the theme simultaneously. Odd, too, that they both should have held discourse on the discouraging lack of grace in women.

One said that nothing made her so discouraged as to stand on a busy street corner and watch women walk along. "They all walk as if their feet hurt, and they probably do."

Speaking of bodily movements, she said: "It's a woman's self-consciousness that creates her awkwardness.

"A woman in her off moments, when her mind is completely off herself, is at her most graceful. At this time, she more nearly catches the magnificent ease and grace of a cat." Incidentally, this artist explained that it is the aristocratic quality of a cat that is so admirable. Any creature, she added, that has this aristocratic quality cannot be commonplace or boring.

But each artist hinted that possibly the practice of studied mannerisms, by-product of charm schools at which studies are taken too literally, also the result of studying other women superficially, may have something to do with the accused gracelessness of our sex.

In any event, self-consciousness and affectation are conceded to be the death of grace, ease, and poise. To illustrate, said one of our authorities, a woman gives a better picture of grace if slumped in a sofa corner than seated rigidly erect in a straight backed chair. In the latter condition she is conscious of herself every minute.

The idea, therefore, is to master the technique of graceful movement, graceful posture, graceful gestures, and then proceed to forget there is any technique to it, just as the pianist, in a brilliant performance, gives no hint of hours of laborious study or finger technique.

1,236 Births in Year at Presbyterian Hospital

Only one maternal death occurred among 1,236 births last year in the Presbyterian hospital. Seven pairs of twins were born. These statistics will be disclosed today in the annual report of Asa S. Bacon, superintendent, at the annual meeting of the board of directors in the hospital. A total of 12,033 persons were received into the hospital during 1939. Of this number, 2,239 were cared for free. Charity work cost the hospital $162,537.

Emotions of Child Shown in Many Ways

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

They're funny little things, and fascinating, too. And when they get unhappy or all mixed up inside, they do things without being aware of why they do them. Their behavior is, in a way, a sort of compulsion. It may be some longing unsatisfied, or some natural urge being blocked, which compels children quite subconsciously to act in a way that puzzles or annoys us. The small girl cries a lot, or has toileting "accidents," or won't let her mother out of her sight, or creates excitement by not eating, and it may all be because the new baby has been allowed to push her out of the cozy, secure place she has had in the family all her young life.

An interesting letter shows us an exasperated mother who cannot solve the riddle of her little girl's "helplessness."

"Dear Mrs. Bevans:

"I am completely floored, stumped, flabbergasted and at my wit's end.

"The oldest of my two children is six and in first grade. She is intelligent and gets fine marks in school. She is inclined to be nervous and highly sensitive, and the least show of emotion brings tears.

"This is the problem: She can't do anything! She can't turn the key in the lock, can't turn the bed clothes down, can't brush her snowsuit, can't turn the water off in the bathtub, and O, a thousand and one little things that she just can't do, and in her intensity cries and carries on.

"She was an only child for five years and I realize I did supervise and superintend entirely too much.

"Now she is getting more and more helpless and I don't know what to do. I lose my patience with her entirely too often, for she is very trying, but everything I attempt seems useless. Self-confidence can't be restored in a child by praise unless she does something praiseworthy.

"I must do something, and that quickly."

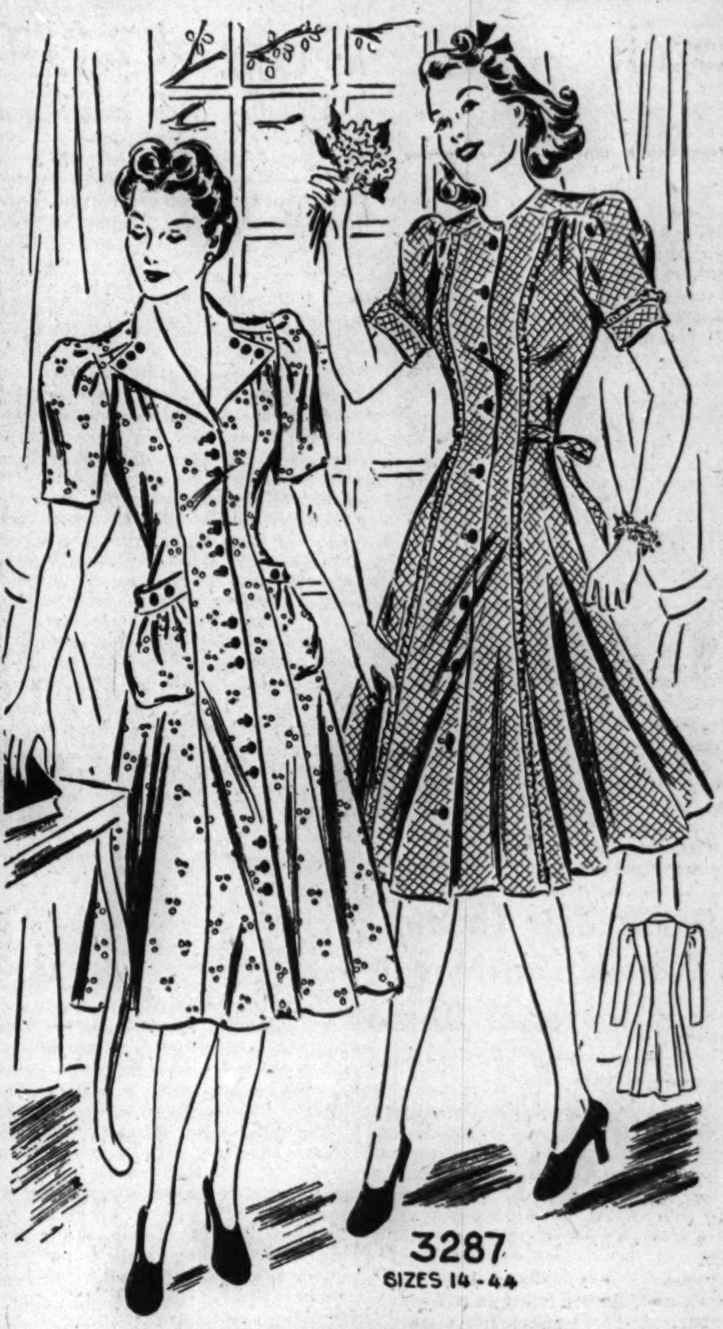
My advice to this mother is to assume, for practical experiment, that her little girl, who has had such close association with her for years, feels keenly a change in her mother's attitude and is aware of receiving less attention, due to the coming of the second baby.

Seeing that the helplessness of the tiny newcomer commands mother's quick attention and constant attention, why not draw it back to herself again by being helpless just like the baby? That mother responds with irritation probably puzzles and distresses the older tho still very young daughter. I need hardly add that all this is not deliberate, but a subconscious process.

Remedy? Attempt for a while no correction of the helplessness. That probably will take care of itself. Give interest to the questions, play and doings of the six year old. Give her warm approval and, of course, there are plenty of things she does that are praiseworthy! Share the baby with her as "our baby." But, above all, plan some time that is hers and yours alone together [as in the old days], a reading time, an outing, a play time or little talks tucked in here and there.

Our "Sex Education" booklet gives reading references for all ages. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, the Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

House Frock Full of Charm



WOMAN'S AND MISS' HOME FROCK.

It isn't often that a house dress has definite chic, but we think this one successfully disguises its indispensable practicality. It's a style which brides, particularly, will welcome into their trousseaux. Established homemakers, too, will appreciate its fine styling. The more sedate version uses a contrasting rever collar matched by the tops on the puffed pockets. The paneled lines are unbroken by a belt, whereas the more girlish model uses a sash, omits pockets, collar, etc., and merely adorns the smart princess lines with frivolous ruffling or lace.

All types of wash materials will make up well.

Style No. 3287 is designed for sizes 14 and 16, and 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inch bust measurement. Size 36 requires 4½ yards of 39 inch material, with 4 yards of ruffling for collarless version; 4¾ yards with ½ yard of contrasting for dress with pockets and collar.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Your Chicago and Mine.

(South Water Street Market.)

Dear Miss Provines:

I wonder if you people who arise at 7:30 or 7:45, have time for an unhurried shower and a leisurely breakfast, and a nice walk to your train or L to arrive at the hour of nine to some quiet, air conditioned office, ever give a thought to where your morning fruit or your luncheon salad greens come from.

I work in the South Water market, where is handled, next to New York, the largest amount of fruit and vegetables in the country. Here the buying and selling of produce is carried on by burly, unshaven men, mainly of some foreign extraction, who arise at four and stand on cold, wet floors all day, haggling over a dime in order to bring you fresh, health giving fruits and vegetables, from the lowly little radish to the deep purple eggplant and the lush, tropical mango.

Where, for a few hours every day, every one goes completely mad trying to buy as cheaply as possible and getting their "stuff" loaded quicker than is humanly possible.

Where fun is considered filling a paper bag with water and dropping it on the head of some unsuspecting old man who makes a sketchy living loading trucks for a nickel or a dime or, very often, a head of lettuce or a bunch of carrots; where the poor come and pick up fallen leaves of cabbage, celery, or lettuce; where one day a man without hands will come begging for pennies; where, as yesterday, a colored man will amuse a crowd by eating electric light bulbs, razor blades, and fire.

Where the girls are ogled and whistled after by the truck drivers and loaders, remindful of the village "drugstore cowboys."

Today one of the boys brought for me to see a strawberry lizard and tomorrow I am likely to see a tarantula that arrived in a shipment of bananas. Today I have a fresh smelling bunch of hardy lilacs from downstate, the first of the season, and last week I had a fragrant, fragile gardenia from California.

Mrs. Catt Tells Voter League to Prize Freedom

BY BETTY BROWNING.

New York, April 30 [Special].—With a pessimism new to associates in her lifelong fight for woman suffrage, Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt tonight warned fellow Americans to prize and safeguard their democracy.

"I see sorry times ahead of us. Nothing will protect us but honest, old fashioned American democracy," the 81 year old suffrage leader emphasized. She spoke at the 20th birthday party of the National League of Women Voters, which opened its biennial convention here today.

With the eloquence that has helped to win women in many countries the right to vote, Mrs. Catt described the spread of democracy following the world war, and then its eclipse "with no promise of return."

"Many Americans are proud of their country and her wisdom, and are certain that she will go ahead the right way," Mrs. Catt declared. "I am not so sure."

"I have seen terrible things happen in American democracy. In the old days I saw suffrage votes bought and sold from Maine to California. Yet now the prospect is darker than it has ever been in my long life. Americans must guard their rights as citizens or we may go down, too."

Several women who fought side by side with Mrs. Catt in the suffrage movement and who now are league leaders were present. One of these, Mrs. James W. Morrison of Groton, Conn., formerly of Chicago, who wears a Quaker snood about her silver hair, was chairman of the celebration.

In an interview earlier in the day Mrs. Catt said that it is too soon to appraise the contributions made by women as voters. She praised the league for its work in educating the public on problems of government.

"The average American citizen does not know what his fundamental rights are in a democracy," Mrs. Catt said. "He does not know what communists and Fascists are asking him to give up in exchange for their forms of government. This is the greatest danger threatening American democracy."

A breakdown of the present economic system "probably means the loss of democracy and of those forms of government which we regard as vital," John M. Clark, professor of economics at Columbia university, told the delegates in a symposium on "Economic Society" in the afternoon.

"If we are to keep a modified market economy," Dr. Clark predicted, "we are in for what may be a fairly long period of groping and fumbling, during which we shall still have unemployment to deal with. And this may seem a heavy price to pay for keeping a market economy going, unless we fully realize the price of having the system go to pieces under us."

Engagement

An engagement announcement made in New York is of interest here because is concerns the younger brother of Charles S. Dewey. Miss Felicia Fisk, daughter of Mrs. Frederick T. Frelinghuysen, and Albert B. Dewey of Washington, D. C., formerly of Chicago, are to be married early in June.

Miss Fisk, whose father is Charles W. Fisk, attended Miss McKeever's school in New York and studied abroad. She is a member of the New York Junior league. Mr. Dewey was educated at St. Paul's school and Yale university. He and the former Gwendoline Ffoulke Smith were divorced last July. They have two sons.

Dinner Starts Record Sales at Low Prices

At a mammoth dinner at the Drake hotel last night a plan to distribute low cost recordings of masterpieces of symphonic music was announced by the Chicago Committee for Music Appreciation. In this work the committee will have the coöperation of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, the Chicago Opera company, the Ravinia festival, and the Woman's Symphony orchestra.

Record sets will be released once each week for 12 weeks beginning Saturday, May 4. The price of a set will be $1.69—with the exception of a few, which will be somewhat higher. The works to be released are Schubert's "Unfinished" symphony, Beethoven's fifth and eighth, Tschaikowsky's "Nutcracker" suite and fourth symphony, Mozart's G-minor symphony, Debussy's prelude to "The Afternoon of a Faun," "Clouds," and "Festivals"; Wagner's preludes to "Die Meistersinger" and "Parsifal," Bach's second and third Brandenburg concertos; Haydn's symphony No. 99, Brahms' second symphony, and the Franck symphony.

There will be two distribution headquarters—65 East Lake street and 14 North Franklin street. It will be possible to subscribe for the entire set or to choose the offering of one or more weeks. However, purchase may be made only during the time of the Chicago campaign.

These pressings, it was announced, are the work of renowned orchestras and conductors. Neither the names of the performers nor the name of the manufacturer will appear on the discs. This whole plan was worked out by the national committee for music appreciation in an effort to broaden the base of American appreciation of symphonic music. The manufacturer, it is said, has waived his profit and the performers their royalties in order to make these prices possible.

Speakers last night were Mrs. Walter Brewster of Chicago; Felix A. Grisette, executive secretary of the national committee for music appreciation; Carlton Sprague Smith, nationally known musicologist; Gladys Swarthout, American mezzo-soprano; Edward L. Ryerson Jr., president of the Orchestral association, the governing body of the Chicago Symphony orchestra; Edward T. Ingle, director of the national committee for music appreciation, and Mme. Olga Samaroff Stokowski, noted pianist, critic, and lecturer. Mme. Samaroff Stokowski presented Roy Harris, American composer, with the $500 award of the national committee for an original composition.

Patents.

Washington, D. C., April 30.—The people of show business have certain patents without benefit of letters patent. . . . Wally Beery has a patent, for instance, on his casual habit of scratching himself. . . . Joe E. Brown needs no patent on his cavernous mouth. . . . Joe Penner's "You Nasty Man" carried its own protection, and Hugh Herbert won a patent on "Woo-Woo" thru usage. . . . Marlene Dietrich's legs patented themselves because no other glamor girls had legs so trimly proportioned. . . . But to people who haven't the chance to win patent rights thru popularity or the medium of usage the patent office, occupying one-third of the gigantic department of commerce building in this city, is a haven for inventors. . . . For $60 an inventor can get protection for 17 years.

In 150 years the patent office of the United States has granted 2,185,000 patents. . . . Of this vast number United States Patent Commissioner Conway P. Coe, 42 year old Marylander, points out that only about 500 are of the screw ball character. . . . Commissioner Coe probably is the most sued individual in the world. . . . Each time an inventor isn't granted a patent, like as not he sues. . . . Or if the inventor is granted a patent and other inventors think he shouldn't have been, Mr. Coe is sued. . . . Conway Coe gets more legal mileage than John Doe.

In 1887 a patent was granted to a man who had the idea of harnessing four eagles, condors or vultures to a balloon, the birds to supply motive power. . . . In 1868 there was obtained a patent for an improved burial coffin, which had a self-contained ladder and a speaking tube attachment to the ground above, so that if a person were buried alive he could either climb out or attract attention.

Silly people, these inventors? . . . Well, what would you think of a man who submitted a buoying device "that would lift a boat by its own bootstraps when navigating in shallow water"? . . . The idea was a sort of bellows. . . . It didn't work. . . . A dope submitted it? . . . Not quite: The inventor was Abraham Lincoln!

Harold Ickes got a patent for a dahlia, of all things. . . . The late Thomas Alva Edison was the best customer of the patent office, with a total of 1,001. . . . Mark Twain got a patent for a self-pasting scrapbook. . . . Other distinguished securers of patents have been Senator William Gibbs McAdoo, Golfer Walter Hagen, Harvard Football Star Charlie Brickley, Albert Einstein, Harry Houdini, Pianist Josef Hofmann, and Pop Warner.

Estate Opened to Garden Show in Lake Forest

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE Lake Forest women who met for luncheon yesterday at the Casino to discuss plans for the Lake Forest Garden club's annual flower show said many times: "If only May 18 and 19 are days like today!" For sunny skies mean much toward making the show a success.

"Do you remember the year it rained and we cleared only $34?" some one asked, but others recalled more fortunate years when the proceeds ran into the thousands. This year's show is bound to be a success, rain or shine, it would seem to this reporter, for it is so much more than a flower show. The place where it is being held would seem to insure great crowds, for the University of Chicago is lending Mill Road farm for the show.

House to Be Exhibited to Flower Show Patrons.

Mill Road farm, given by Albert D. Lasker to the university, is one of the last of Lake Forest's great estates that remains intact. It is a beautiful place, comprising about 415 acres, with a French provincial manor house that is perfect of its kind. David Adler designed the house and he and his sister, Mrs. Frances Elkins, planned the decorations. The entire house, with the exception of two bedrooms, still is furnished and will be open to flower show visitors. Members of the Lake Forest club will display flower arrangements in all of the rooms, but these will not be entered in a competition.

Only the golf course and clubhouse will not be available to flower show guests. They will be able to enjoy the 75 acres of ornamental grounds, parkways, gardens, lawns, and orchards. In the moving picture theater a continuous program is being arranged by Mrs. Charles S. DeLong.

Mrs. Kirk Williams is chairman of refreshments, which will be served around the pool and will consist of cold foods and soft drinks and beer. Miss Marion Clow and a corps of assistants will "police" the grounds on the days of the show, and Mrs. Thomas C. Dennehy Jr. and a group of co-workers will have the same job indoors. "Even the bathrooms are glamorous," Mrs. Dennehy confided yesterday.

Committees Are Named for Lake Forest Show.

Mrs. Albert Day Farwell heads the herb shop committee and Mrs. William Burry Jr. is ticket and exhibit chairman. Others on the committee on arrangements for the show, the most ambitious yet undertaken by the club, are Mrs. Phelps Kelley and Mrs. William A. P. Pullman, co-chairmen; Mrs. Howard W. Fenton, Mrs. Alfred E. Hamill, Mrs. Charles C. Haffner Jr., Mrs. John T. Pirie Jr., and Mrs. Edward K. Welles.

Mrs. Pullman is making arrangements for a special train to West Lake Forest from Chicago on each day of the show. Buses will meet the trains to take the passengers, free of charge, to the gate. A huge parking space is about half a block from the house, and chauffeur driven cars can be driven right to the house. For the convenience of those who make purchases at the horticultural show in the garages and greenhouses, Teddy Haffner and some other boys will run a taxi service [also free] to carry purchases to the parking space.

The clipped hedges—two gardeners are kept busy all the time trimming these extensive hedges—and espaliered trees on the estate are famous. The University of Chicago has a botanical exhibit in one of the greenhouses. This will be an interesting feature of the show. Proceeds will be used for the club's nature study classes in the public schools and for a scholarship to the university.

Landscape Architect to Address Clubwomen.

The Winnetka Garden club, which rarely has an open meeting, is having one today, however, when Mrs.

Fashion Styles Summer Outfits for Active Play

BY REA SEEGER.

If previews of this season's active play clothes live up to their first promise, the next few months should be easy on the eye. Play clothes with plenty of distinctive personality have arrived. Even the captious shoppers will be satisfied.

There's one outfit that is unbeatable . . . out of doors or inside. It's a white short and top combination of cotton, worn with a red and white striped cotton pinafore apron dress effect. It has a bib, ruffles over the shoulders and ties with a whopping big bow in the rear. What could be better for the daily tussle with the kitchen chores or out battling bugs in the garden. Without the apron it's a slick tennis dress.

Shag is here in cotton, held over from the successful promotion and record sales of last summer. Slacks are numbered in the hundreds, and all kinds of color combinations are possible. Shag material jackets feature the elongated torso outline and flat metal buttons. Dove gray, raspberry, lemon yellow, and dark shades are ready for the color mixers. Slacks of gabardine are high fashion. These come with swanky leather belts. The new cut and fit are notable improvements.

White pique and other cotton materials make classic tennis dresses. Some button down the back [easy to launder] some have flared skirts cut in a true circle, others have flat pressed pleats where they'll do the most good, and some have gathered short skirts with simple tops deeply gouged out around the arms and deep in the neckline.

Soloists Shine as Apollo Club Sings 'Elijah'

"ELIJAH."

Oratorio in two parts by Felix Mendelssohn-Bartholdy. Presented in Orchestra hall Tuesday evening, April 30, 1940, by the Apollo Musical club, Edgar Nelson, conductor; Naomi Cullen Cook, soprano; Ruth Helzer, contralto; Robert Kessler, tenor; Mark Love, bass; Vincent Ahnquist, boy soprano; Robert Birch, organist; members of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, and supplementary off-stage women's chorus from Elgin High school.

BY CECIL SMITH.

Mark Love's performance last night of the music allotted to Elijah ranks as the most noteworthy performance he has yet given in Chicago. Capable oratorio singers are scarce nowadays, and it is not often that an artist of Mr. Love's intelligence and impact allows himself to be deflected from opera and concert long enough to master a difficult oratorio part.

Mr. Love has sung Elijah all across the country, but he had not sung it here since reaching his present artistic maturity. His conception of the music is quasi-operatic in that it has dramatic force and narrative continuity, and yet for all that he almost asks his audience to pretend that action is taking place on an operatic stage, he still remains skilfully within the concert picture.

There were many moments of high nobility in Mr. Love's singing, especially in the colloquy with the youth just before the end of the first part, and in the air "It is enough," which attained genuine exaltation. I do not remember a more convincing and satisfying oratorio performance in many seasons.

Naomi Cullen Cook, Chicago soprano, finally had the opportunity she has been deserving. Hers is a glorious voice of such superior operatic timbre that I cannot imagine why her inevitable operatic career has not yet begun. She sang "Hear ye, Israel" with excellent resource, developing from a pianissimo beginning to a smashing climax.

The Apollo club, under Edgar Nelson's experienced direction, delivered the choral parts with considerable authority, and with occasional attempts at a lighter, finer grained tone than usual. In loud passages the effectiveness of the choral tone was diminished by that overuse of thick organ tone which has come to seem customary in Apollo club performances.

Robert Kessler did not entirely find his bearings in "If with All Your Hearts," but delivered the recitatives excellently. Ruth Helzer brought musical intelligence to her work, tho she should learn to sing more notes in a single breath.

Thru the LOOKING GLASS

If there's anything that leaves a woman with a licked feeling it's the first good inventory she takes of herself after she has worked the annual housecleaning fever out of her system. She's pleased as punch with what she has accomplished with her house. But she's dismayed at the appearance of that person she sees in her own mirror.

It's at a time like this that a couple of hours of pampering in a beauty salon will make up for a week of toil. It'll depend upon how much money you want to take out of your purses as to how long you'll stay.

You might start with a body massage that makes the kinks in your spine disappear and your taut nerves melt into nothing at all.

Top this off with a gentle face treatment, a thoro cleansing, a caressing massage that practically pushes you off to sleep, and a stimulating patting with a cool tonic that pulls you right back again.

Add a good shampoo, a rousing one that makes your scalp feel alive. A new hairdress, a final makeup, and you'll feel reborn.

Somewhere along the line, work in a hand and foot treatment. Hands show the brunt of the days of scouring and feet feel it. To make up for the abuse, have an oil manicure and a hand massage. There's a particularly good "mask" manicure that's a whizz at restoring a satin finish to the hands.

With a pedicure and a soothing foot massage you'll romp out into the world with joy in your heart.

Marry My Daughter

By Alice Duer Miller

[Copyright: 1940: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

SYNOPSIS.

Millicent's mother dreams of marrying her lovely daughter off to some one like Dick Shard, who is kind, distinguished and rich. Dick lives in New York, but had visited in Millicent Dunham's home in the midwest when her father worked for his firm. After her father died, Dick gave Mrs. Dunham a job and on her visit to New York he takes her to dinner and the theater with his friends, Constance and Aleck Stewart. After the theater Mrs. Dunham sees Dick about to be hit by a car and in an effort to save his life she is killed. While dying she makes Dick promise to marry Millicent. Tho Dick is in love with Constance, he is determined to keep his promise to Mrs. Dunham and goes to see Millicent and asks her to marry him. Dr. Ogden, an old friend of the Dunhams, advises Millicent to accept, which she does.

INSTALMENT IX.

AN UNHAPPY BRIDE.

Richard Shard had lingered on about a week, devoting a great deal of his daylight hours to business and short trips to his own and other people's factories. Their evenings had been the great problem, and this was solved by Rose's passion for the movies.

Shard, with a car and plenty of money, was delighted to oblige her—Millicent and Rose and sometimes the older Ogdens, and any number of boys used to go every night to the movies, sometimes seeing the same film twice.

Then very suddenly he had announced that he had been telegraphed for and must go back to New York. He had left the same day. Everybody had commiserated with Millicent on losing her lover's society—every one except Rose, who knew the truth. Every one had been so sure Shard adored her, that, as sometimes happens, in his absence she began to think of him as if he really did—all the more easily because it wasn't at all what she wanted to believe.

Just as most people avoid thinking about their own death as a reality, so Millicent avoided thinking about her marriage—except during one terrible night. She had waked at 4 o'clock and had seen more clearly than reality itself what her marriage would be. Nothing but the accident that Mrs. Grimes down the street was having her first baby two weeks ahead of time had saved—or lost her. Dr. Ogden, roused before daybreak by a frightened Mr. Grimes, had caught Milly stealing down stairs with her new traveling bag in her hand. He had kept poor Mrs. Grimes waiting 15 agonizing minutes while he and Millicent, sitting on the stairs argued in whispers.

"It isn't," he had said at last, "as if I could offer you a happy home here—no one is happy in this house." She had never heard him speak bitterly before, and she was frightened. He had married for love—this emotion she thought so important.

She had finally given him her word to go thru with it—partly perhaps in pity for Mrs. Grimes. She had gone back to her room and unpacked her bag. If she had run away she would have gone to Ellerman's—they would have taken her in gladly, hospitably, and in the end she would probably have married Roy. Well, she didn't want to marry Roy any more than she wanted to marry Shard. Perhaps she wasn't capable of love.

So she had gone back to her everyday life and to thinking of her marriage with only the superficial part of her attention.

But now standing on the platform with every one milling about her she began to be afraid. Then before she had time to think, old Mr. Ogden, the doctor's father, who lived out of town, but had come in to say good-by to her, came hobbling up, and asking to be introduced to her husband. "Which is your husband, Milly?" She felt a wild impulse to answer: "Well, I think he's the man in the dark blue overcoat—correct me if I'm wrong." Of course what she did say was: "Dick, this is Mr. Ogden—Dr. John's father."

"We think you're a pretty lucky man, Mr. Shard," the old man went on. "We think Milly is the finest girl west of the Alleghanies—and I say west of 'em because I don't know anything of the country east of 'em."

"You don't have to sell that idea to me, you know," Shard answered. He could be trusted to be civil—she was sure he was popular with his salesmen—too civil—that was one reason perhaps why in spite of his guarantee she still was afraid of him—his politeness had such a high, hard finish like an armor you couldn't tell what lay behind it. She had complained of it to Dr. John, who had laughed at her and told her he hoped she would never have anything worse to complain of.

Suddenly the train appeared far away on the edge of the snowy plain. Every one began crowding about her, shaking her hand hard so that the great white diamond of her engagement ring seemed to eat into her flesh. She had been enormously delighted with her ring. She had said when Shard gave it to her: "But it isn't possible—diamonds don't come as big as that." She had certainly never seen one as large. He had been pleased with her pleasure and had smiled at her—his natural grin so different from that more formal smile of his.

The ring, she knew, had been a turning point—she hadn't really meant her "yes" until she had slipped it on her finger and stared at its beautiful icy brilliance. Rose had exclaimed: "O, Milly, how wonderful. I can just see you—draped in diamonds!" It had sounded sweet in her ears—to be draped in diamonds—it had influenced her.

She straightened the ring thru her gloves. They were heavy fabric gloves, black, of course, but heavily stitched in white and scalloped about the tops. They were Rose's wedding present. Millicent had admired them once in Bernstein's window, and Rose had remembered: "I thought," she had said, "that in spite of your mourning you ought to have something a little dashing." They were certainly dashing. Milly had showed them proudly to Shard: "Look," she had said, "aren't they marvelous—Rosy just gave them to me."

"Yes," he answered. "Yes, indeed they are very unusual." She knew he didn't like them, and at once liked them less herself, and felt angry with him for her own change—so snobbish of him not to admire Rose's present.

The train gave a long, shrill whistle, and as it did so Millicent suddenly knew why she was afraid—it was like a revelation—so sudden and heart shaking that for years afterward she never heard the long whistle of a train without the same sick frightened feeling. She was afraid of him because he didn't like her—it wasn't just that he wasn't in love with her—he actually didn't like her—he wasn't her friend—she was going away forever with a man who didn't like her.

It seemed almost incredible to her—not because she was a conceited girl, but because no one ever had disliked her before—every one had loved her—most of all her mother. Her mother—O, she wanted her so much—so almost intolerably. . . . Why did this man ask her to marry him if he didn't like her? Why did he give her that wonderful ring? Was it a bribe, like the candy wicked old men give innocent children to lure them to their doom? There was something strange and sinister about the whole thing.

The train came thundering along beside the platform—porters and conductors dropped off, but no passengers. She heard Shard say in that perfectly impersonal voice of his that his reservation was compartment E, and she heard the porter answer in a voice warm with personal interest: "Yes, sir, compartment E." He began putting their bags on—Shard's of pigskin from London, and hers of imitation patent leather from Bernstein's.

She felt as if she couldn't get on that train. She flung her arms about Dr. Ogden's neck and burst into tears. She paid no attention to Shard's voice saying: "We ought to be getting on board, Millicent." He pronounced her name beautifully, giving full value to both "ll's" and sounding the "i." Most of her friends called her "Mill'cent." Yes, of course, she must go. Even Dr. John saw the necessity; he was withdrawing from her embrace.

An instant more and they were on the train, which was immediately in motion. Shard raised the shade of the compartment and waved a final farewell. She didn't even look out, she was crying too bitterly.

Wednesday, May 1.

An excellent day for practical work inside the skull; think carefully. Look over the lessons of the past, get advice of elders with experience—and coöperate with the interests of superiors.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead from today to next anniversary is promising—push plans May 26-Aug. 15, Sept. 25-Nov. 23, and Jan. 1-March 5, 1941. Your past may hamper, but work thru it. Danger: July 13-25; Nov. 24-Dec. 13; April 12-19, 1941.

Tomorrow.

Not so good; stick to the rut, especially where emotions are involved.

Mrs. Benjamin Harrison, President's Widow, Is 82

New York, April 30 [Special].—Mrs. Benjamin Harrison, widow of the twenty-third President of the United States, is 82 years old today. One of six living widows of former Presidents, Mrs. Harrison now makes her home in New York.

U. of Michigan Club to Hear President at Dinner Tonight

Dr. Alexander Grant Ruthven, president of the University of Michigan, will be the speaker tonight at the annual spring dinner of the University of Michigan club of Chicago at the University club. He will speak on the progress of the university since he was appointed 10 years ago. Fielding H. Yost, director of athletics, also will be a guest of honor. A technicolor movie, "Youth Marches On," which presents scenes from football games and reveals the growth of the athletic plant, will be shown.

It's surprisingly easy and economical to use. Ideal for feminine hygiene. Follow the simple directions and enjoy proved hygienic protection that you may never have known before.

Ellen Shipman will talk about "Planting and Design" in the Winnetka Women's club at 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. Shipman, widely known New York landscape architect, designed the gardens of the William McCormick Blairs, the Austin H. Niblacks, the Ken Clows, the Donald McLennans, Mr. and Mrs. Donald B. Douglas, Mrs. Alfred H. Gross, and the Vaughan Spaldings.

Many luncheon parties will precede the meeting. Among the hostesses are Mrs. Arch Shaw, Mrs. Gordon L. Pirie, Mrs. William T. Bacon, Mrs. William D. Truesdale, Mrs. Harry C. Edmonds, Mrs. Donald Defrees, Mrs. Morris K. Wilson, and Mrs. Charles R. Strong.

The date for a debut party Mr. and Mrs. Charles Deere Wiman will give at their Moline home for their daughter, Miss Mary Jane Deere Wiman, has been postponed from June 26 to July 5. Miss Wiman will share a Chicago debut party with Miss Marie Merrill Hubbard, Mrs. Merrill Hubbard's elder daughter. It will be a ball at the Blackstone on Dec. 26. That is the night Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Meeker and Dr. and Mrs. Horace Gray will give a dinner-dance for Miss Joan Gray.

Mr. and Mrs. Wiman are in Montecito, Cal., for a few days' visit with his aunt, Mrs. William Butterworth. Mrs. Joseph Defrees, who was staying with Mrs. Butterworth, has returned to Winnetka.

Eugene Howards to Give Debut Party for Daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Howard will give a dinner-dance at the Glen View club on Sept. 5 to introduce to society their daughter, Miss Merikay Howard. Miss Howard is a student at Briarcliff Junior college.

A number of Chicagoans are going east for the wedding in Suffern, N. Y., on Friday of Miss Marjory Albertine Banks and Uri Balcom Grannis Jr. of Lake Forest. Mr. and Mrs. Grannis Sr., Dustin and William Grannis, Dodge Freeman, Joseph E. Rich, and William A. Cremin will be there. The young men will act as ushers. Mr. Grannis Sr. will be best man. Tomorrow night they will attend a dinner-dance two of the bridesmaids, Miss Catherine Halsey and Miss Mary Humphrey, are giving in the Trianon room of the Ambassador hotel in New York following the wedding rehearsal.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Wieboldt are giving a dinner for Miss Pauline Wyman and her fiancé, Edward F. Wilson, tonight preceding a concert John Carter will give under the sponsorship of the Oak Park and River Forest Infant Welfare circle. Among the Wieboldts' guests will be the E. Hall Taylors, the junior Gustavus Babsons, and the young John Lyle Vettes. The concert will be given in the Oak Park High school auditorium.

Miss Pauline Wyman Wedding on June 1.

Miss Wyman and Mr. Wilson will have a small garden wedding on June 1 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Albright of Hinsdale. A larger reception will follow at the Casino club.

Mrs. Allbright, the bride's cousin, will be matron of honor. Miss Katharine George and Miss Norma Lee of Milwaukee will be the bridesmaids.

Dr. Donald Wyman will give his sister in marriage. Edward Hall Taylor will be best man and the ushers will be Robert McDougal Jr. of Chicago, David Corbett of Evanston, Anthony Howe Whitaker of Philadelphia, F. Coulter Deacon of Toronto, Ont., and Dr. Harwell Wilson of Memphis, Tenn. The Rev. Alfred Lee Wilson, pastor of the Kenwood church, will officiate.

After a wedding trip to New Mexico Mr. Wilson and his bride will spend the summer in Lake Forest.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Stevens have gone to Jacksonville, Fla., to see their newest grandchild, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wellington W. Cummer II., who was born on April 27. The baby has been named Cheryl Stevens. She has a little brother, Wellington III.

The J. Francis Dammanns are in Hartford, Conn., where they went to see their first grandchild, the Thomas Lynde Dammanns' son. Young Mrs. Dammann is the former Harle Garth of California.

A Tavern club party for Frank Lloyd Wright that was to have been held Friday night has been canceled because of the illness of Mr. Wright.

Minute steaks are a comfort any time one wants to prepare a hurry up dinner. They needn't be cooked until the last minute, when the vegetables are almost ready and the salad is waiting for its dressing.

Tomorrow's dinner is the easy-to-get kind. Individual pie shells for the strawberry tarts may be baked a day ahead of time. Strawberries may be washed and stemmed in the morning or early afternoon. The vegetable may be prepared ahead of time for last minute reheating, if necessary, and the potatoes may be made ready for their 15 minute baking early in the day, if that is more convenient.

MINUTE STEAKS.

Buy one for each person to be served. Flour them or not, as you wish. Drop into hot butter and brown thoroly on each side, by which time the steaks will have cooked sufficiently. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. If you like a little onion flavoring, a slice of onion may be cooked in the butter before the meat is added, and later removed. Or you may rub the skillet with garlic before melting the butter in it.

POTATO PUFF.

This is most attractive in individual baking dishes, but may be prepared in a casserole. For four persons, beat 2 tablespoons butter into two cups hot mashed potatoes. Season with salt and pepper, add 2 well beaten eggs and a cup of hot milk, also ¼ cup grated cheese and a pinch of sage or poultry seasoning. Beat well and pour into casserole or baking dishes. Bake in a hot oven, 400 degrees, until puffy and brown, about 15 minutes.

BEETS WITH SOUR CREAM.

Wash and pare a bunch of beets, about 4 or 5. Slice rather thinly and cook until tender with ½ cup of water. The color will come out somewhat in the water, of course, but this is quite all right, as the water is to become part of the sauce. No color will be lost in the finished dish, and slicing the beets shortens the cooking time considerably. When the beets are tender, add a mixture of 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 tablespoon vinegar, and ½ tablespoon flour. Add also ½ teaspoon salt and a little pepper. Just before time to serve, add ¼ cup sour cream. Cook and stir for two minutes.

FRESH STRAWBERRY TARTS.

Bake individual crusts in tart pans or muffin pans. Fill with fresh, sugared berries and top with whipped cream. Or fold berries into whipped cream. The first suggestion makes a more attractive little pie because of the contrast of red berry and white cream. When the berries are folded into the cream, their red beauty is obscured.

Numerology

By Evelyn Holmes

May 1, 1940.

The month of May is a one-month universally and we may see new patterns in world affairs. There possibly will be changes in many major situations abroad. It is not surprising that May 1—5th month and one-day, was chosen as the day for labor demonstrations. It means change and a new order. Those born on the 1st are excellent pioneers and are leaders in original fields.

Those born on this date may feel some apprehension and nervousness this year. Keep your ideals before you constantly and don't push material interests too far.

On the House

There is a mineral fill insulation which will celebrate its 100th anniversary this year. Quite an age to reach! Says the United States department of the interior: "This material was first manufactured in Wales, England, in 1840, and introduced into this country in 1867." Such insulation in adequate quantity in a top floor ceiling will help keep your house cooler this coming summer—and your fuel bills lower next winter.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

When an inexperienced player watches an expert game he is likely to be horrified and flabbergasted by turns, sometimes at the bids, more often at the plays, and perhaps most frequently at the penalty doubles. He has been taught, very likely, that in the absence of a bid from partner, a defender must be able virtually to count the setting tricks before he doubles for penalties. He finds it difficult to understand how an expert often will double with no apparent assurance of defeating the contract. Consider today's hand!

West, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 diamond	Pass	1 heart	Pass
1 spade	Pass	2 spades	Pass
3 spades	Pass	4 spades	Pass
Pass	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

At a cursory glance North could be fairly certain of only two tricks against the four spade contract, namely, the ace and king of clubs. The timid or inexperienced player would shudder at the very thought of doubling. He would feel that his diamonds were worthless against a spade declaration. He would expect declarer either to ruff away losing diamonds in the dummy or to discard them on East's advertised heart suit.

An expert in the North position would fear neither of these contingencies. The bidding would clearly tell him that East's heart suit was none too solid, since East had failed to rebid the suit and had given only a gingerly spade raise, from one to two. West, on the other hand, had clearly disclosed that he was not extremely strong in trumps by approaching a game in spades, rather than jumping to it after East's raise. On top of everything else, North could be virtually sure that his partner had four trumps and was extremely short in diamonds as, of course, dummy would be also. But North could tell that South probably would be able to overruff the diamonds that declarer inevitably would find he had to ruff in the dummy.

It might be imagined that South had a better double of four spades than did North, but such was not the case. While it is true he had hearts covered, he could not tell about the diamond situation, which could or could not be a splendid auxiliary suit for the declarer, depending on declarer's and dummy's holdings. For all South could tell, dummy might have three diamonds to something like the Q-J, and a singleton club; in that case, South's spades would be picked up and the diamond suit merrily run off.

North opened the club king and, when his partner played low [South looked far ahead and wanted to retain clubs as cards of exit], North shifted to his top heart. Dummy's ace won, and declarer attempted to cash the ace and king of diamonds, discarding a club from dummy on the second. But South ruffed and returned the queen and another club. Dummy ruffed, and now all that declarer could do was to make as many trump tricks as possible. By taking dummy's king of spades separately on a diamond ruff, declarer managed to hold his loss to 500 points.

kowski, Richard Crooks, Josef Hofmann, Walter Damrosch, Helen Hayes, Louis Bromfield, and others.

Not since a military banquet in 1926 with 3,000 guests has the Drake had such a mammoth dinner party as last night's. Two thousand and fifty-three guests were there, including many widely known in the musical and social life of the city. Mrs. Louis Eckstein, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mr. and Mrs. Jason F. Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. Ernst von Ammon, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pynchon, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Morris, Mrs. Andrew MacLeish and her son, Norman H. MacLeish; the Percy B. Eckharts and Mrs. Dwight C. Orcutt were there.

Also present were Edith Mason and her husband, William A. Ragland; Margery Maxwell and her husband, Dr. Frederick Moorehead; Mr. and Mrs. Convers Goddard, Mrs. James B. McMillan, Mrs. Paul Steinbrecher, Mrs. Edward A. Leight, Mr. and Mrs. David Dushkin, Mr. and Mrs. Louis C. Sudler, Mr. and Mrs. Shreve Badger, Mr. and Mrs. Aldis J. Browne Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Marx E. Oberndorfer, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Buck, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Pirie, Mrs. George W. Blossom Jr., the Thomas R. Coynes, the junior Rush C. Butlers, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Byfield, the Lawrence Howes, Mrs. Charles W. Lobdell, Jane Pane Gasser, and Ebba Sundstrom.

The meeting ended with the leading of general singing by Dr. Peter Dykema of Columbia university, who offered free instruction by himself and Miss Swarthout to any one who felt unable to sing "For health and strength and daily food, we praise Thy name, O Lord," after hearing the professor sing it three times. Dr. J. M. Nicholson, one of the guests, stood up and demanded the instruction, but both Miss Swarthout and the doctor reneged on their offer.

The Stage

"Tropical Pinafore," the all-Negro version of the Gilbert and Sullivan opera, "H. M. S. Pinafore," will close at the Greeat Northern theater on Saturday evening. A special matinée on Thursday will admit school children to any seat in the house for 25 cents.

Today's matinée at the Selwyn theater marks the 500th performance of Tallulah Bankhead and her colleagues in "The Little Foxes." This exciting drama ran for 51 weeks in New York before coming to Chicago.

Altho "The Streets of Paris" closed last week-end, the vivacious Carmen Miranda remains at the Colony club thru Sunday night.

BIMELECH WINS DERBY TRIAL; GALLAHADION SECOND

BRADLEY COLT TRIUMPHS BY TWO LENGTHS

Sirocco Is Third in Field of Eight.

Probable Field

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 30.—Bimelech's victory in the Derby trial stakes today made it likely he will go to the post in the Kentucky Derby at odds not more than 2 to 5 and possibly as short as 1 to 5. Nine horses remain in the tentative field, with the possibility that even fewer will start. The field follows:

	Owner.	Odds.
Bimelech	E. R. Bradley	2-5
Gallahadion	Milky Way farm	20-1
Pictor	W. L. Brann	10-1
Dit	Arnold Hanger	10-1
Mioland	C. S. Howard	8-1
Roman	J. E. Widener	15-1
Sirocco	Dixiana farm	20-1
Royal Man	Harold Clark	50-1
Inscolad	Woolford farm	50-1

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., April 30 [Special].—Edward R. Bradley's Bimelech is still unbeaten. He went to the post in the $2,500 Derby Trial stakes this afternoon, followed by the applause of a Churchill Downs crowd that had backed him down to 1 to 9 odds. Then he came home two lengths ahead of his nearest rival, Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' Gallahadion. The Dixiana farm's Sirocco was five lengths further back.

The remainder of the field, which totaled eight eligibles for next Saturday's Kentucky Derby, was strung out far behind the flying Bradley colt. The Shady Brook farm's Connaught was fourth, then came Mrs. J. L. Chesney's Endy, Lexrook stable's Potranco, A. L. Ferguson's Black Brummel, and Potranco's stablemate, Designer.

There was good reason why Black Brummel and Designer finished so far back. They undertook to run with Bimelech in the early stages of the mile race.

Bimelech Breaks in Front.

As they broke from the starting gate, Bimelech took command. Coming down the chute, Designer was in close pursuit. They had gone a quarter of a mile and were swinging down the back stretch when the Lexbrook horse made a determined challenge. Just for an instant he was head and head with Bimelech—but that was the end of him.

Then Black Brummel, moving on the outside, took up the chase. Jockey F. A. Smith sat tight on Bimelech as the new challenger crept up even with Bimelech's haunches. Going into the far turn Black Brummel made one last effort and then was thru.

Around the bend they swung and now Gallahadion was coming on. Connaught was moving with him and Sirocco was beginning to close from last place as they came into the stretch. Without a break in his smooth stride Bimelech straightened out for the run home.

Challengers in Distress.

Meanwhile Gallahadion had conquered all the others. Sirocco, going widest of all, started a drive, but didn't have it in him to get up there. Bimelech crossed the finish line well in hand.

In scoring this eighth victory, Bimelech ran for the first time on a track that was other than fast. Heavy rain drenched Churchill Downs last night, but sunshine and a southwest wind improved the running strip so that it was described as slow.

In this kind of going, Bimelech went the first quarter in :22 4-5, the half in 1:12 2-5, and the mile in 1:38. He was breathing and running easily as he finished, whereas those who had tried to keep pace with him were in obvious distress.

In the mutuels Bimelech paid $2.20 to win, $2.40 to place, and $2.20 to show. Place and show tickets on Gallahadion were worth $4 and $2.20; Sirocco paid $2.20 to show.

Going Poor for Sirocco.

The result of today's race increased respect for Gallahadion and eliminated all the others except Sirocco from serious consideration for the Derby.

In the kind of going that prevailed, Sirocco was not expected to keep any where near that fast early pace. He was so far behind when he started his drive that he did pretty well coming as close as he did. With the additional quarter of a mile of the Derby and the possibility of a thoroly dry track on that day, he might be expected to fare somewhat better.

Royal Man, Inscolad, and Truestar were scratched from today's trial. Sky Dog and Gallant Dream, which were sent out by W. L. ranch with the idea of starting in the Derby, finished fifth and seventh, respectively, in a field of seven behind Calexico in the Bonny Castle purse, a gallop of a mile which was run as the sixth race on today's program.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

NEW YORK baseball writers, who usually are busy at this time each year "revealing" dissension plots on western teams, have been delayed this spring on account of the Yankees being as low as seventh on several dates in the early weeks of the 1940 season. . . . Franz Dykstra, son of Clarence A. Dykstra, University of Wisconsin president, is a leading candidate for the stroke position on the Badgers' varsity crew. . . . The Sugar bowl stadium in New Orleans is the only press box in the world with swivel chairs. . . . It cost in excess of $1,500 to install them. . . . Frank Leahy, Boston college coach, who was a tackle on Knute Rockne's 1929 and 1930 undefeated Notre Dame teams, was born in Winner, S. D. . . . Joe Triner, chairman of the Illinois athletic commission, has resigned a $15,000 a year job with a liquor distributing company to become a partner in another liquor company. . . . Rip Radcliff, former White Sox outfielder, now starring with the St. Louis Browns, is a collector of mechanical pencils. . . . Even Maj. Biff Jones and his line coach, Link Lyman, admit Nebraska will have a pretty fair football team next fall. . . . Bill O'Brien's summer Ice Vanities will run at the Chicago Arena from July 4 to Sept. 2. . . . Tom Rebello, new manager of the Salt Lake Bees in the Pioneer league, batted .404 last season. . . . He made 205 hits, including 58 home runs and 33 doubles. . . . The Pioneer league embraces teams from Colorado and Utah. . . . Eddie Anderson's 1940 Iowa football team will be stronger than last year's, but it is unlikely it will turn in as good a record.

Eddie Anderson.

Red Sanders, successor to Ray Morrison at Vanderbilt, has filled the open date on the Commodores' 1940 gridiron schedule by taking on Tennessee Tech Nov. 16. . . . This is the team that turned in one of the major upsets of 1939 by holding Vanderbilt to a tie score. . . . Roxy, the pachyderm known as Dizzy Dean in the Great Olympia circus, has not been himself of late. . . . His act consists of pitching a baseball with his trunk, but his recent wildness is attributed to a sore trunk. . . . The White Sox expect to whip Washington a week from today as an anniversary gift to Jimmy Dykes. . . . It was in Washington after the game on May 8, 1934, that the late Lou Comiskey appointed Dykes skipper, tho he did not formally take command until next day. . . . Bob Zuppke's one man show of 21 oil paintings will open Monday in the Palmer House. . . . Charles Peterson, billiard artist, recently made 1,800 fancy shots in two days before University of California students at Berkeley. . . . Three former Chicago players and one whom the Sox waived this year, were among the Brooklyn Dodgers who contributed to the team's eighth straight victory without a defeat before 52,000 in the Polo Grounds Sunday. . . . Whitlow Wyatt, former Sox, was the winning pitcher. . . . Dolph Camilli, former Cub, won the contest with a two run homer in the ninth. . . . Dixie Walker, once a White Sox, and Joe Vosmik, on whom the Sox waived, also played. . . . Hugh Casey, whose pitching has aided the Dodgers' splurge, never was given much encouragement as a Cub.

War News.

The papers bristle every day with news about the sanguine fray. Report comes in from Nazi source; also from allied press it pours. The British claim that they have sunk a dozen ships—a fearful dunk. The Teutons say that if there is a naval battle they would quiz its authenticity a bit, for they have never heard of it. And in their turn they make a claim they've set a battleship aflame. They've blasted it in many parts—have wrecked it by their warlike arts. The Britons say it is not so—reiterate emphatic "no!" They say of lies it is a pack—'twas just a dented, scratched smokestack. And so the propaganda goes; from either side it gushes, flows. We are not swayed much by its spell. We think that both sides lie like the devil!

A Practical Question.

A noted scientist who used to teach
That animals had language of their own,
Was confident that he could learn their speech,
Since everything thru study may be known;
He studied rabbits, guinea pigs and rats,
He spent long days with horses, cows, and mules;
He listened to their after-dinner chats
And formulated all their language rules.

A friend who met him on the street one day
Was certainly astonished when he heard
The old professor confidently say
That he could question any beast or bird;
"I wish," said he, "you'd give a skunk a quiz

The Pursuit of Happiness.

Life and liberty—ah, yes,
But still I must confess,
The third one sort o' puzzles me—
"The pursuit of happiness."

I ask you now can happiness
Ever be pursued?
Mustn't it just come to you
In some quiet, restful mood?

Does any one but dreamers try
To tread the rainbow's trail?
Does any one but children seek
To salt the bluebird's tail?

Pursuing happiness, I think,
Is just a wild goose chase,
Just go your way and do your best
And keep a smiling face.

And suddenly you'll know that from
The kindly things you do,
Peace, the greatest happiness,
Has come to live with you!

CUBS BEAT BEES ON TODD'S HOME RUN IN 10TH, 8-7

Two Run Rally in Ninth Ties It Up.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Al Todd, a Wrigley field bench warmer at 3 o'clock, was off the bench and in a hero rôle 2 hours and 25 minutes later yesterday afternoon. The gentleman, who was bounced out of the lineup because his bat had ceased to function, lashed a homer into the left field runway on Dick Coffman's first pitch in the tenth inning, thus fastening down a 8 to 7 decision for the Cubs, who at one stage were five runs behind in the series opener with Boston's Bees.

Todd happened into the party while a lot of maneuvering was going on in the eighth when the Cubs needed three runs to tie. They collected only one, which was driven across by Manager Gabby Hartnett, who was doing his first job of the season behind the plate. Gabby willingly extracted himself from the battle to make room for Bob Mattick, a fellow with speedier legs. That brought Todd into action and altho eight Cubs batted during a two-run tying soiree in the ninth, Al was not among the batters. But he plastered the first pitch by Dick Coffman in the tenth and there was no more.

Passeau Knocked Out.

Todd's heroics, not to mention a previous homer by Hank Leiber with one on base, was necessary because the Bees revealed a ravenous appetite for Claude Passeau's pitching. They nailed him for two runs in the opening inning, a matter which the Cubs adjusted in their first attack on Dick Merriwell Errickson. But Passeau was drilled so severely in the fourth that he surrendered, five runs scoring before Vance Page could clean up the debris. After that the Bees were tame, partly because of Page, also Vern Olsen, and lastly Bill Lee, who got himself a victory on one inning of work.

Leiber's sixth inning homer wasn't the only medicine he used to remove the Bees' sting. The two first inning runs were woven around a triple by Hank. Then, in the ninth, he got the first of the two tying runs across on a scratch single that lacked only inches of being the final out. Right on top of this hit, Bill Nicholson came thru for the third time and the knotting run registered off Coffman who had come to the rescue of Errickson in the eighth.

Bees Open Up in First Inning.

Rigney and Sox Dump Boston Into Second Place; Win, 9 to 4

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., April 30.—More than 7,500 pennant-conscious Bostonians appeared in Fenway park today, convinced they would see their first place Red Sox manhandle the White Sox, tenants of the American league cellar. It was a sad turnout in the end, for the White Sox snorted and rammed their way to a 9 to 4 victory, a tragedy which dropped Joe Cronin's boys out of the top berth.

The White Sox concentrated eight of their dozen hits for eight of their runs. The ninth Chicago run was a homer by Eric McNair, who also doubled in the third for the first Chicago hit off Emerson Dickman, recent conqueror of the Yankees. Dickman was the starting and losing pitcher, tho succeeded by Woody Rich and Charley Wagner.

Foxx Busts One.

John D. Rigney went all the way in the accomplishment of his first success of the season. John D. never was behind today. After the White Sox had scored five runs in the fourth inning the Red Sox produced a counter in their half on a double by Ted Williams and a single by Joe Cronin. After McNair had demonstrated the home run technique in the sixth inning Jimmy Foxx knocked his fourth of the year to score Doc Cramer and Williams, who had singled.

Rigney allowed only six hits, half of them in the sixth inning. He walked only two and neither passee moved off first base. And with all the swell pitching John D. got swell support, as compared with four errors turned in by the local Golden boys.

Sox Open Up.

Bob Kennedy opened the fourth with a single to left and went to third on Joe Kuhel's single to right. Mike Kreevich flied to Williams, Kennedy holding third and Kuhel reaching second. Taft Wright was given an intentional pass, loading the bases; Luke Appling walked, forcing in Kennedy for the first run of the game. Julius Solters singled to center, Kuhel and Wright scoring and Appling reaching third. McNair popped to Bobby Doerr, but Mike Tresh doubled to right, scoring Appling and Solters. Mike was out when he tried to stretch his hit to a triple.

Rigney opened the fifth with a line double to right center, but was sunk on Kennedy's attempted sacrifice. Kuhel fouled to Tabor, but Kreevich singled to center, putting Kennedy on third. Rich replaced Dickman and Wright singled to right, scoring Kennedy and putting Kreevich on third. Appling singled to center, scoring Kreevich and when the ball got away from Roger Cramer, Wright scored and Appling reached third. Solters popped to Doerr.

70 UNEMPLOYED BOOKIE CLERKS SEEK STATE AID

East St. Louis, Ill., April 30 [Special].—Seventy bookie shop clerks, forced out of work here Monday when telephone service to the horse race bet shops was discontinued by the telephone company on orders from a federal district attorney in Chicago, today applied for federal social security benefits in the form of Illinois state unemployment compensation payments that will amount to $16 per week in some cases.

Day Finishes Drill; Leaves for Title Bout

His last strenuous drill of the week completed—a long workout yesterday in Trafton's gymnasium—Davey Day of Chicago was regarded at peak condition last night as he departed for Louisville to oppose Sammy Angott in an important 15 round lightweight bout on Derby eve.

Day, former Chicago Golden Gloves boxer, is hopeful of beating Angott in the latter's home town Friday. The winner of the bout will be recognized as world champion by the National Boxing association, replacing Lou Ambers, whose throne has been vacated. The N. B. A. took this action after Ambers refused to comply with the association's demands that he risk the championship against Day, No. 1 contender. Ambers won the title from Henry Armstrong last August.

Menace New York Monopoly.

Refusal to recognize Ambers as champion is believed to be the first of a series of moves by the N. B. A. to break New York's monopoly on title fights. Ambers consistently has refused to meet Day since Davey lost a disputed decision to Lou in a 10 round nontitle match in the New York Hippodrome Feb. 10, 1937. After the bout, Al Weill, manager of Ambers and matchmaker for the Hippodrome at that time, promised Day a return contest in Chicago Stadium. Weill closed for the proposed encore with Mickey [Soldier] Farr. Weill repudiated his promise and has consistently refused to have anything to do with Day, Farr charged.

Jack Dempsey Is Referee.

Since his adventure with Ambers, Day has engaged in 18 bouts. He won 16, four by knockouts, and lost two. One of his defeats was at the hands of Angott in Chicago Stadium last Oct. 6. Davey obtained revenge in a return encounter against Angott two months later in the same arena. As referee, Jack Dempsey will be the sole judge of Friday's rubber match. Barney Ross also will officiate in a supporting contest.

Cincinnati, O., April 30 (AP).—James Otto [Tex] Carleton, a 33 year old refugee from the minors, stalked into baseball's no-hit hall of fame today by pitching the undefeated Brooklyn Dodgers to a 3 to 0 triumph over the Cincinnati Reds. It was the ninth straight victory for the stampeding Dodgers, tying a modern major league record for consecutive victories at the start of the season—a string last attained by the New York Giants in 1918.

Tex Carleton.

It also was the second no-hit game of the young season, coming two weeks to the day after Bob Feller shaped his opening day spectacle for the Cleveland Indians against the Chicago White Sox.

He's Sold Down River.

Carleton, a right hander who came up to the St. Louis Cardinals in 1932 and moved to the Chicago Cubs in 1935, playing in one world series with the Cards and two with the Cubs, developed arm trouble in 1938 and was sold to Milwaukee in the American Association last year. He won 11 and lost 9 there [compared to highs of 17-11 for the Cards in 1933 and 16-8 for the Cubs in 1937] and during the winter was purchased conditionally by the Dodgers.

This was what made his great exhibition today the more astounding. He refused to be unsettled by three errors his teammates committed behind him in the early innings and in the last five innings set down the National league champions in order.

Coscarart Smacks One.

At the start of the contest, played before 10,544, it was a tight mound duel between Carleton and the equally aged Jim Turner. But in the fifth Turner walked two men and Pete Coscarart hit a home run that accounted for all the scoring of the game.

It was then that the taciturn Texan seemed to grasp the idea that he not only might win, but might get a no-hitter. The crowd sensed the fact, too, and was cheering him at the finish.

Carleton walked Bill Werber in the first inning and in the second inning an error by Peewee Reese let Harry Craft reach first and a wild throw by Coscarart let him go to second. In the third Werber again waited out a base on balls and in the fourth a bad throw by Third Baseman Cookie Lavagetto allowed Frank McCormick to go all the way to second.

But the big right hander never let any of these incidents develop into a threat.

It was Carleton's second victory this season. His other was over the Boston Bees in the Dodgers' third game when he won, 8 to 3, giving up 10 hits, striking out six and issuing no walks.

ORGANIZATION OF NEW ARLINGTON GROUP COMPLETE

May Enlarge Schedule of Stakes and Purses.

The new Arlington Park Jockey club has completed its organization, including the election of a full slate of directors, and is proceeding with the legal formalities incident to taking over the big north side racing plant, John D. Allen, who was elected president of the club, announced last night.

The announcement followed by one day the action of stockholders of the old club in approving without dissent the $1,600,000 deal by which Arlington Park changes ownership. The new corporation will receive the deed to the plant, in exchange for $700,000 in cash and $900,000 in bonds, not later than May 15 and the 1940 racing season at Arlington will open on June 24.

Mr. Allen, who is vice president of the Brinks Express company, announced the complete personnel of the board of directors of the new club and pledged that the new corporation would "live up to every tradition and policy of Arlington Park" in an effort to keep Chicago an outstanding racing center.

Hope to Enlarge Program.

"The schedule of stakes and purses previously announced will be carried out in every respect," he added. "We are hopeful business conditions will permit even the enlarging of the liberal program already announced."

In addition to Mr. Allen, the new corporation's officers are John O. Stoll, president of J. O. Stoll company, vice president; Joseph J. Rice, treasurer, and Eugene E. Murphy, attorney, secretary. Mr. Allen, Mr. Stoll, and Mr. Murphy also are directors. The other directors, as announced last night, are:

Laurance Armour, director of Armour and Company; Ralph L. Atlass, director of radio stations WIND and WJJD; Henry C. Bartholomay, of Bartholomay, Darling, Clarkson company; Frederick J. Bridges, president of Hydrox corporation; Roy D. Keehn, attorney; Edward J. Lawler, president of Keeley Brewing company; Benjamin F. Lindheimer, real estate; Herbert J. Lorber, vice president and treasurer of Rollins, Burdick, Hunter company; John G. McCarthy, president of Chicago Board of Trade; Edward P. Morse, attorney; Daniel F. Rice, senior partner of Daniel F. Rice & Co.; Modie J. Spiegel, chairman of board of Spiegel, Inc., and Thomas E. Wilson, chairman of board of Wilson & Co.

Post and Paddock Club Unaffected.

Mr. Armour said the operation and activity of the Post and Paddock club, of which he is president, would not be affected by the change in ownership of the track. Negotiations for the leasing of the club property for this year have been completed, he added.

Spencers Sign Zentura, Veteran Outfielder

Joe Zentura, former Duffy Florals' outfielder who has been in organized baseball for three years, yesterday signed with the Spencer Coals, Tri-State league champions. Zentura will be in the lineup Sunday when the Spencers open their season in a double-header at the home park, 4200 North Central avenue, with the Indianapolis Kingans.

COUNTY BOARD SEEKS PART OF RACE REVENUE

Wants Money from Tracks to Aid Hospitals.

Betters sometimes win on the horse races. But Cook county always loses, the county board complained yesterday. The board voted to ask the general assembly to turn over to the county a part of its share of track receipts for the operation of the Oak Forest infirmary and County hospital.

Commissioner Maurice F. Kavanagh, chairman of the board's finance committee, said that homeless derelicts follow the horses from track to track. Those who become ill or public charges while seeking a precarious living during the seasons of the four Cook county tracks, the commissioner said, eventually must be given care at the county's infirmary or County hospital.

Cites Expenses on Roads.

Kavanagh said the county, moreover, is compelled to spend large sums for the upkeep of the roads leading to the tracks because the heavy traffic the tracks occasion wears them out. The tracks pay nothing for the maintenance, Kavanagh said, nor do they pay for the policing of the roads.

Kavanagh said also that many automobile accidents are due to the traffic congestion traceable to the races.

His resolution asks the general assembly to return some of the revenue it gets from tracks to governments of the counties in which the tracks operate, the money to go entirely for hospital purposes.

Want It Included in List.

Commissioner George W. Miller, chairman of the board's legislative committee, moved that the resolution be passed and urged that Gov. Horner include the legislation in the work of the general assembly's special session, which convened at Springfield yesterday. The board approved.

Under the state horse racing act, the state collects a $2,500 license fee for each of the 100 days the four Cook county tracks operate, and receives in addition 20 cents from each admission. Smaller fees are collected from the other tracks in the state. But all of the state's share goes to the state agricultural fund. The counties receive nothing.

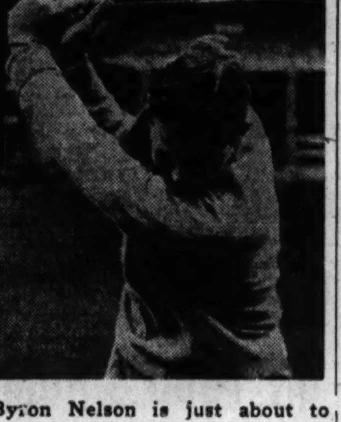
Lambs (Nelson and Dudley) Beat Wolves (Cotton and Padgham) in Ryder Cup

BY BYRON NELSON.

[This is the fourth of a series of articles by Byron Nelson, National Open champion and holder of the Vardon trophy for competitive excellence. He also won the 1939 Western Open championship and was runnerup for the national professional title after a 37 hole final.]

In 1935, I left Texarkana to take up a post with George Jacobus at the Ridgewood, N. J. Country club. Jacobus, who then was national president of the Professional Golfers' association, signed me up during the Masters' tournament of that year. Incidntally, George did a lot to help me build up my game.

I had a very flat swing before going to Ridgewood, but Jacobus made it more upright by getting my hands higher at the top of the backswing, and made me keep my left side firm as I hit into the ball. Before this, I always had a weak left side and hand, with a resultant tendency to let the club face roll over, causing a hook. I think the taller golfer should use the upright swing, and the shorter player the flat. In the upright, the club should start back from the ball on a straight line, with a full free turn of the shoulders and the left shoulder turning well underneath the chin. The swing is more a turning of the back to the ball.



Byron Nelson is just about to start the downward arc of the upright swing, which he uses and recommends to all tall and average size golfers in general. The upright swing stresses a full, free turn of the shoulders so that the left shoulder comes approximately under the chin, as shown.

Nelson Hits Stride in 1937; Wins Berth on Ryder Cup Team.

I worked hard and practiced as hard, with the result that I won the Jersey open of that year with a 72 hole score of 288, against a field that included Craig Wood, Clarence Clark, Johnny Farrell, and Victor Ghezzi. A year later, I scored my first major victory, taking the Metropolitan open with a 283.

The 1937 season was the best I had enjoyed up to that time. Not only did I win the Masters', which is one of the most prized events in our profession, but I also took the $12,000 match play tournament at Belmont, Mass. Highlight of that year to me, however, was my selection as a member of the American Ryder cup team which went to England that season. I got a particular satisfaction out of that because I had to work for it. I won the fourth of the four special places awarded thru work in the P. G. A. and the national open tournaments of that year. I was fortunate enough to get a good start by wining the P. G. A. tourney medal.

When Walter Hagen, the nonplaying captain of the American team, selected Ed Dudley and myself to meet Henry Cotton and Alf Padgham, the Britons' No. 1 pair, in the foursomes, the English press said that Hagen was feeding lambs to the wolves. As the matches turned out, however, and as the English papers admitted, it was really a case of the lambs being the wolves, for Ed and I won by 3 and 2. That day was one of the big thrills of my life, for I never hit my irons so well, and in a strong wind, at that.

Another kick I got out of the 1937 campaign was the Masters', which I won by coming from behind to catch Ralph Guldahl, who appeared to be the winner as far as the 63d hole. At that point he was three shots ahead of me. I came to the 10th hole of the final round, knowing that Guldahl had gotten a birdie there. I had to snare one, too, if I was going to think of catching him. A 30 foot putt fell for me there, and I felt I might still do it. I got a two at the short 12th, where Ralph went in the water, and finally finished with a 32 to beat him out by one shot.

In 1937, I left Ridgewood to become the club professional at the Reading, Pa., Country club. I didn't know it then, but a course only 33 miles from Reading was to be the scene of the biggest victory of my golfing life—the 1939 National Open at the Spring Mill course of the Philadelphia Country club. Naturally, the Open is the goal of every professional, but until I reached Reading, I wasn't sure in my own mind and heart that I was ready to win it. It was my wife who finally got me into the frame of mind which, in my opinion, is absolutely necessary to win. I had told her as far back as 1936 that in three years I would be ready to win, and not before then. I didn't feel that I had all the requirements, which, to me, mean more than having a sound golf game.

I had worked hard in that latter direction, enjoying good success until 1938, which I considered an "off" year for me, in so far as tournament performance went. In that year's open at Cherry Hills in Denver, I finished fifth, but that included a nine on the fifth hole and a seven at the 17th.

My wife kept constantly reminding me of the Open for a year before it was played at Spring Mill, and that was just what I needed. You must build up not only your own game, but the mental picture of it in relation to the championship. And you can't start this construction of the proper outlook 10 days before the tournament.

METZ NAMES TRIO OF THREATS FOR OPEN GOLF TITLE

Makes Predictions After Marathon Exhibition.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

"Yessir, this is growing weather," Dick Metz said yesterday as he prepared for a round of golf on the sunbathed course of the Oak Park Country club.

The handsome young Oak Park pro had just arrived from Oklahoma City after one of the most unusual matches of the season. The "we" he referred to included Dick himself and the three young men whom Richard is blanketing as his personal selection to win the National Open championship at Cleveland in June. That threesome consists of Byron Nelson, Jimmy Demaret, and Benny Hogan.

"Now, about that match at Oklahoma City," Dick continued. "The four of us were invited down to the Twin Hills club there some time ago to play a 36 hole, 2 day, best ball contest. We all know that Canterbury [scene of the National Open in Cleveland] is a wind ridden course, what with all the breezes it catches off Lake Erie. Well, we certainly got primed up for all kinds of wind at Oklahoma City Saturday.

Hogan Decides the Issue.

"By, Jim, Ben, and I had agreed to play extra holes on a sudden death basis, if we were even at the end of each of the two rounds. This is hard to believe, but it's what happened. We were even at the end of each 18, and each day we played eight extra holes before it was settled. And each time it was Hogan who won the match on the 26th hole. On Saturday Ben and I teamed up against By and Jimmy. On Sunday we switched, Hogan and Demaret playing Nelson and myself.

"Hogan won the 26th hole on Saturday with a par 4, Demaret catching a bunker, while Nelson and I three-putted. On Sunday Ben dropped a 20 footer for a par 3. I think that's one for the books—52 holes on a scheduled 36."

What a Man, Demaret!

"Well, now, take that Demaret! What a man! To me there isn't a weak point in Jimmy's game today. Until this season putting was his main problem, but now he's licked that. Aside from this improvement on the greens Jim's game is just the same as it has been the last eight years.

"I think Ben Hogan is the greatest driver in the world today, taking everything into consideration. Yes, Thompson and Snead will get more distance, but over a long stretch of tournament play I think Ben will be straighter. His big improvement this season has been in those shots 100 yards from the green, and in his putting. He three-putted only two greens in those 216 holes in North Carolina in March.

"Nelson? By is in a putting slump right now, but if he snaps out of it by the time of the Open don't be surprised if he repeats. He is still one of the greatest tee to green players in golf. His shots at Oklahoma City were perfect."

Dick himself figures that he'll be around more than somewhat when they tee off in the Open. His biggest difficulty is on the greens.

Spring.

Daintily she dances o'er the earth,
Accompanied by her lilting mirth,
Like a perfumed queen with her retinue,
Reseeking the lover from whom she flew;
Full sure of her charms, beauteous bright in her quest,
Gowned in soft blossoms, the sun at her breast.
No wonder the beloved of this lady of charms,
King Winter, impassively melts in her arms.

MIDGET AUTOS IN TITLE RACE TO BE PICKED ON POINTS

Points scored in four qualifying races to be run off in Soldiers' Field on June 9, 12, 16, and 19 will determine the entiries that will participate in the midget automobile racing world's championship that will follow in the same location on June 23, Lieut. A. J. Strak, managing director of the lake front event, announced last night.

Each of the first four nightly programs will consist of nine races, with a 40 lap feature as the windup. The drivers—and probably as many as 50 will be entered—must qualify their cars for each program, but only the 32 fastest will be eligible. The 16 cars scoring the highest number of points in the qualifying events will meet in the 100 lap race for the championship on June 23. In addition, the second highest group of point winners will rece in a 25 lap event.

AMERICAN DERBY ELIGIBILITY LIST TO CLOSE TODAY

There already is $48,000 in the pot for the 1940 renewal of the American Derby at Washington Park in August. There is a possibility the race might be worth close to $70,000. Today is the deadline for eligibility payments of $100, which are expected to increase the purse to at least $55,000. Starting fees on Derby day are expected to add $10,000 more.

The Washington Park meeting also features two other rich events, the $20,000 added Washington futurity and the $25,000 added Washington Park handicap.

BILDILLI AND THE BROWNS DEFEAT YANKEES, 2 TO 1

Only First Two New York Batters Get Hits.

New York, April 30 (AP). — The plague of lefthanders that has kept the world champion Yankees in quarantine this spring broke out again today with a two hit pitching job by young Emil Bildilli of the St. Louis Browns and gave the westerners a 2 to 1 victory.

It was the first start of the season for the 25 year old recruit from San Antonio of the Texas league and he was a bit nervous. Frank Crosetti opened the New York half of the first inning with a triple and Red Rolfe followed with a single. That was a run—the Yank's only one—for afterward Bildilli gave up narry a hit. Just three more men reached first, two on walks and one on an error.

Red Ruffing held the Browns to five safeties, but one of these was a homer by Rip Radcliff to tie the score in the fourth.

SENATORS, 9; TIGERS, 4.

Washington, D. C., April 30 (AP).—Joe Haynes' pitching and his mates' 13 hits today gave Washington a a 9 to 4 victory over the Detroit Tigers. Detroit took a 2 to 0 lead in the third inning when Barney McCosky hit a home run, Bruce Campbell tripled and Charley Gehringer singled.

In the fifth the Senators, who had gotten but two hits off Tommy Bridges, filled the bases with one out. Gerald Walker then hit Bridges' first pitch against the left field wall for a double which cleaned the sacks. Walker scored as Zeke Bonura flied deep to McCosky.

Cub Homer in 10th Defeats Boston, 8 to 7

fumble occurred, Hassett going to third and West to second. This put both in position to register on Tony Cuccinello's single to center. Chester Ross was plunked by a pitched ball and after Les Scarsella had been thrown out, Al Lopez was purposely passed. Eddie Miller forced Lopez.

The Cubs' half opened tamely, but was finished in a splurge featuring Leiber. After two were out, Augie Galan walked and Leiber cracked the ball to the center field fence for a triple, Galan scoring. Leiber rode home on Nicholson's single to right, Passeau Has Another Lapse.

Passeau was a no-hit workman in the second and third, but the Bees then got busy. Scarsella opened the five run fourth with a double in left and was out at third in an unusual play. Billy Herman threw him out on Lopez' grounder. Miller bounced a single over Stan Hack's head and Errickson singled to center, filling the bases. Rowell rapped a single past Phil Cavarretta, sending Lopez and Miller home. Hassett was thrown out and West was purposely passed but the strategy failed to work. Cuccinello again singled to center, Errickson and Rowell counting. Page came to the rescue and a single by Ross scored West with the fifth run.

After the first inning, the Cubs didn't get another man home until Galan walked to start the sixth and scored on Leiber's homer.

Mr. Errickson Goes Away.

Errickson started the eighth impressively, but a pair of outs apparently was his limit. He fanned Galan and Leiber flied to West. Nicholson beat out a single slapped down by Rowell. The same fellow knocked down Cavarretta's single, but by the time he recaptured the ball Nicholson had sprinted to third. Hartnett, with the count 3 and 2, singled to center to score Nicholson. Errickson was yanked for Coffman, Mattick ran for Hartnett, and Dom Dallessandro batted for Rogell. The latter tapped to Miller and the inning ended.

Bob Collins batted for Olsen to open the ninth and launched the tying rally by singling to left. He was forced by Hack. Herman also drilled a single into left. Coffman threw out Galan. Leiber smacked a hard bounder to deep short and beat Miller's throw for a single, Hack scoring. In another minute Nicholson lifted a tall fly into short right. It fell between Rabbit Warstler and West for a single and Herman sprinted in with the tying run.

The Cubs will be introduced today to the pitching of Nick Strincevich who once was enrolled in the Yankee chain system. The Bees will have to face Larry French who boasts two victories for the season.

The Cub player limit was reduced to 25 yesterday when Catcher Clyde McCullough was released under option to the Buffalo club. He was purchased last fall from Kansas City.

Clay Bryant, who won 19 games for the Cubs when they captured the 1938 National league championship, underwent an tonsilectomy yesterday in Illinois hospital.

Eaves Looks for Home Plate Again Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., April 30.—Vallie Eaves, White Sox rookie, thwarted by wildness in two starts this season, will try to find the plate against the Red Sox in Fenway park tomorrow. He will be opposed by Lefty Grove. Vallie has walked 17 in his two seven-inning appearances. Grove has passed about that many in 14 years.

Fenway park, usually one of the more verdant baseball establishments at this time of year, is as ragged as a mangy Shepherd dog. Football aftermath, the construction gang that rebuilt the right field wall for Ted Williams, severe weather, and miscellaneous insects are blamed for the scourge. Many fine days like they had here yesterday and today will bring up the blades in a hurry, and besides, Boston is so pennant mad nobody notices the vegetation.

Taft Wright, who had been more distinguished for hitting than fielding, showed the Bostons something in the defensive art in the third inning when he speared Johnny Peacock's bid for lead-off triple.

The Sox will be here two more days, then move on to New York for two games with the Yankees.

GALENTO-BAER BOUT IS MOVED BACK TO JULY 2

New York, April 30.—(AP)—At the request of Tony Galento, his 15 round fight with Max Baer at Jersey City's Roosevelt stadium today was postponed to July 2 by Promoter Mike Jacobs. Originally it was scheduled for May 28. Galento asked for the postponement because of the death last week of his manager, Joe Jacobs.

Lake Forest Nine Wins Over Armour Tech, 3 to 1

Armour Tech was beaten, 3 to 1, yesterday by Lake Forest in a game that was a battle of southpaws until the sixth inning, when Chuck Becker, Lake Forest catcher, hit a home run. Fred Honan went the route for the Cardinals, allowing only six hits. Score:

Lake Forest ....010 101 000—3 8 4
Armour Tech ....001 000 000—1 6 3

Those Rabid Red Fans Are Half for Reds, Half for Tex

Cincinnati, O., April 30 (AP).—From the sixth inning on, the 10,544 fans in the Cincinnati ball park comprised a house divided against itself today. By the best estimate, 5,272 were holding out loyally for the Cincinnati Reds to pull the game out of the fire and the other 5,272 were praying for Tex Carleton, the "has been" who suddenly "was" all over again, to pitch a no-hitter.

Pitch by pitch the speculation grew. Pitch by pitch, the crowd asked, "Can he do it?"

The grandstand was tense and silent in the eighth as Tex fanned Mike McCormick and Eddie Joost, both bad men any day, and made Pinchhitter Wally Berger pop out.

The ninth was almost unbearable. Werber grounded out. Lonnie Frey worked a three-two count and then sent out a long fly. Half the crowd roared for Goodman to give Tex his glory and half for him to save the Reds from disgrace. He lined out.

Then Tex was given the rush and it was no bum's rush. They cheered and sang him to the clubhouse. They bumped him and tossed him. They begged for autographs and took his picture.

From the Dodgers' clubhouse came suggestions that for a team like the Dodgers, winning the whole 154 games wouldn't be impossible. Likely all next year's games too.

BUTLERS TAKE LEAD IN STATE BOWLING MEET

The Joseph J. Butlers of the Randolph league took the lead in the state bowling tournament by rolling a 2,977 series on the Portage Park recreation alleys last night. Second place was taken over by the Cotes club, Arcadia, which rolled up a 2,945 count. The Cotes team was paced by Matt Mootz, who put together games of 197, 256, and 247 for a 700 series, and Tom Bushold, who got 218, 248, 230, for 696.

Phillies Whip Pirates, 6-2, on Rookies' Hits

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 30 (AP).—Philadelphia's rookies had a field day today, winning 6 to 2 after chasing Pittsburgh's ace pitcher, Bobby Klinger. It was the fourth straight setback for Pittsburgh.

First Baseman Art Mahan, Villa Nova graduate recently of Little Rock, playing his first major league game, doubled the first time up to drive in the first Philly run, then singled in the third with two outs to start a three run rally.

The Story of My Fall from a $37.50 Cutie to a $24.95 Special

It's outrageous the way these businessmen have no regard for price-class at all. Yesterday I was known as the "American-made Candid Camera That Gives You Everything," Including:

Coupled range finder to get your pictures in focus every time—speed shutter from 1 to 1-1250 second that snaps 18 to 36 pictures in black and white or natural color on a roll of 35 mm. film—built-in exposure meter—interchangeable F:3.5 lens—built-in flash synchronizer—and a sleek chrome and leather body that won a dozen beauty contests.

And now—just because my master wants to make my charms available to everyone, I have been reduced from a proud and well-deserved $37.50 to a miserable $24.95. Please, sir, come in and save me from the clutches of my heartless master.

OFFICE IS SET UP TO CUT TAX BILLS ON PERSONALTY

Clark Tells How to Get Credit on Overbills.

County Assessor John S. Clark yesterday announced the details of a plan whereby more than 100,000 Cook county taxpayers who were overbilled by about $3,000,000 on their 1939 personal property tax bills will have the excessive tax wiped off the books.

The overbilling resulted from a recent state Supreme court decision holding that shares of stock in companies incorporated outside Illinois, but owning tangible property in Illinois are exempt from personal property taxation.

Decision Comes Too Late.

When the 1939 assessment was made, these shares were believed to be legally taxable, and the court's decision came too late to correct the error before the tax bills were computed and mailed out, Clark explained.

The corrective plan announced by Clark provides that all taxpayers whose stocks were ruled nontaxable by the court decision may present their tax bills and an itemized list of their stock holdings at the assessor's office in the county building.

Clark said he has appointed a staff of deputies who will be available to taxpayers, beginning today, until June 1, the tax penalty date when personal property bills are due. On the basis of the information from the taxpayer the deputies will calculate the assessed value of the exempted stocks and subtract the overbilling from the amount of the original bill.

Plan Certificates of Error.

Taxpayers then will be advised, Clark added, to pay only the corrected amount of their bills. The amount paid will be credited as a payment on account on the treasurer's books. Subsequently, the assessor will issue certificates of error which will be approved by the board of appeals, under the arrangement worked out by the board and the assessor's office. These will wipe the remaining liability off the treasurer's books.

Clark said that under state tax laws taxpayers who pay the full amount of their personality bills cannot recover the overbilling later, even tho the tax is based on exempt stocks.

Clark also reminded taxpayers who will be filing their 1940 personal property schedues in a few weeks to omit stocks exempted by the court ruling.

FIVE MOTORISTS ARE SENTENCED IN SAFETY COURT

Five drivers were sentenced in Safety court yesterday by Judge Frank M. Padden. They were Herbert A. Linder, 7334 North Honore street; Jackson Hood, colored, 4226 South Park way, and Roy Hickey, 2826 North Albany avenue, each of whom got 10 days in the county jail for driving while intoxicated; Peter Wesley, 8310 Buffalo avenue, 10 days in the Bridewell on a similar charge, and Gustav Lindberg, 4043 West 79th street, five days in the county jail for reckless driving.

Walter J. Pavelak, 19 years old, 3020 West 54th place, got a suspended fine of $10 by Judge J. M. Braude in Boys' court. He was charged with reckless driving in connection with an accident last January in which George Shaw, 34, of 4626 Ohio street, was killed.

GATTI-CASAZZA'S WIFE, EX-DANCER, DIES IN MILAN

New York, April 30 (AP).—Rosina Galli, 44 years old, former première danseuse and ballet mistress of the Metropolitan Opera company, died of pneumonia today in Milan, Italy. This announcement was cabled here by her husband, Giulio Gatti-Casazza, former manager of the Metropolitan.

"With deep sorrow I wish to communicate to my friends of the Metropolitan the death of my wife."

The marriage of Gatti-Casazza, then 60 years old, and Rosina, then 33, in 1930, took even members of the Metropolitan by surprise. Gatti-Casazza had been divorced by Frances Alda, famous Metropolitan soprano, two years before, and even close friends did not suspect a romance with Rosina.

Frank E. Fisher.

Detroit, Mich., April 30.—Frank E. Fisher, noted engineer and inventor, died today at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Gomer Krise, in Chevy Chase, Md. He was 81 years old. In 1879 Fisher promoted the installation in Detroit of Thomas A. Edison's newly invented incandescent lamp. He also directed installation of the first telephone switchboard in Detroit, and invented the self starter for automobiles.

Richard Lipscomb Van Zandt.

Fort Worth, Tex., April 30 (AP).—Richard Lipscomb Van Zandt, 68 years old, prominent in banking circles for many years, died today. From 1901 to 1903 [illegible] was in the Philippines as a representative of the United States treasury department. For four years he was president of the Live Stock National bank in Omaha, Neb., then went to San Augustine, Fla., as receiver of the First National bank there.

Lieut. Col. Thomas F. Tweed.

LONDON, April 30 (AP).—Lieut. Col. Thomas Frederic Tweed, 50 years old, political adviser to David Lloyd George since 1926 and author of the movie, "Gabriel Over the White House," died today. He was a world war veteran and had held high posts in the Liberal party.

Dr. Arthur Camp Stanley.

Washington, D. C., April 30 [Special].—Dr. Arthur Camp Stanley, prominent Washington physician, died today. Born in Milwaukee, Oct. 18, 1883, the son of Capt. and Mrs. William Stillman Stanley, he came here with his family during his boyhood. He studied at Yale and was graduated in 1906 from George Washington medical school, going later to Germany and Austria for training. During the world war he was a lieutenant commander in the navy. A specialist on gastro-intestinal diseases and arthritis, Dr. Stanley wrote many important papers on these subjects. Funeral will be held Thursday.

Dr. Charles Goetsch.

Dr. Charles Goetsch, 65 years old, associate professor of Germanic philology at the University of Chicago, died of a heart attack yesterday in his home at 6015 Kimbark avenue. Dr. Goetsch was born at Davenport, Ia., and received degrees at the University of Iowa and at the University of Chicago, joining the faculty of the latter institution in 1906. He leaves his widow, Louise, and a daughter, Margaret, a graduate of Johns Hopkins medical school. Services will be held at 3 p. m. tomorrow in Bond chapel on the university campus, with Dr. A. Eustace Haydon officiating.

The Rev. Philip Thelander.

Funeral services for the Rev. Philip Thelander, retired Lutheran minister, will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the Albany Park Lutheran church, Spaulding and Thorndale avenues, with burial in Rosehill cemetery. The Rev. Mr. Thelander died Monday in Augustana hospital of injuries suffered in a fall two weeks ago. His home was at 5723 North Drake avenue. He was born 82 years ago in Sweden. Surviving are his widow, Betty; two sons, the Rev. Roy F. and P. Victor Thelander, and two daughters, Mrs. Anna Erickson and Mrs. Merida Winquist.

William E. Hayes.

The funeral of William E. Hayes, 71 years old, a retired department head of the Crane company, will be held at 9 a. m. Friday from the chapel at 2346 Madison street to St. Malachy's church. Burial will be in Mount Carmel cemetery. Mr. Hayes, who retired six years ago after 43 years with the company, died Monday night in his home at 1957 Washington boulevard. He leaves a sister, Mrs. Robert Finley of Harvard, Ill., and three brothers, John, Matthew, and Thomas F. Hayes.

Mrs. Mildred C. Scott.

Funeral services for Mrs. Mildred C. Scott, 44 years old, wife of Burton Scott, former supervisor of music at the state training school for girls at Geneva, will be held at 1:30 p. m. today in the New England Congregational church in Aurora. Mrs. Scott, a former president of the La Crosse, Wis., Women's club, died Monday in her home at 323 Galena boulevard. Besides her husband, a daughter survives.

Arms S. Chapman.

Arms S. Chapman, 75 years old, a retired newspaper man, died yesterday in his home at 207 Main street, Evanston, after a long illness. Mr. Chapman was on the staff of THE TRIBUNE before the turn of the century and later was editor and owner of the Gilman star at Gilman, Ill. He leaves his widow, Minnie Estelle; three sons, Paul, David, and Asher, and two daughters, Mrs. Dorothy Danzig and Martha Chapman.

FORMER SENATOR F. M. SIMMONS OF N. CAROLINA DIES

New Bern, N. C., April 30 (AP).—Former Senator Furnifold McLendel Simmons died this afternoon at the home of a daughter near here. He was 86 years old.

Simmons, who represented this state in the senate for 30 years, had been in retirement since 1930 when he was defeated in the Democratic primary by Josiah W. Bailey, the present senator. His defeat was attributed to the fact that he bolted his party in 1928 when Al Smith was the presidential nominee.

A TEDDY BARE AND GIRL FRIEND PROCLAIM SPRING

"Spring is here!" quoth he with conviction.

"On the contrary," philosophised Lynch, "'tis the oldest one in the world."

Two pink and chubby youngsters stood there absorbed in a window display. They were in their birthday suits.

With alacrity they accepted the policemen's invitation to ride.

"I'm Teddy Dannis, and I'm 3, and my cousin's name is Helen Samson, and she's 2," Teddy told his new friends. "Helen stayed at my house last night because the baby at her house was sick. This morning it was nice and warm, so we thought we'd take a walk."

At the Woodlawn station the police provided something like Grecian draperies for Teddy and a coat for Helen. In a few minutes the telephone rang.

"I'm Mrs. James Dannis at 6253 Greenwood avenue," said a worried voice. "There has been a kidnaping or something here. My little boy Teddy and his cousin are gone. Their clothes are here. They can't have a stitch on."

"It's the spring, madam," said Lynch.

DELAY GRANTED IN SUIT BROUGHT BY LAUNDRY MEN

A continuance to May 27 was granted by Judge Grover C. Niemeyer yesterday in the injunction suit brought by the Metropolitan Hand Laundry Owners' association against local 46 of the Laundry Workers' International union. The union is accused of intimidating owners who refused to sign new contracts. One point at issue is whether the phrase, "Sign up or else," allegedly used by union agents, constitutes a threat.

The continuance was requested by Attorney Floyd Thompson, representing the union, who said he would be out of the city three weeks on a business and pleasure trip. Judge Niemeyer said that when the case is resumed further testimony is to be heard by Master in Chancery John J. Kelly.

Attorney Morris K. Levinson, for the laundry owners, said he had hopes of arriving at a settlement with a stipulation for arbitration of future differences. Thompson denied the union had agreed to negotiate with the association, which is termed a "puny outfit."

HEIR ACCUSED AS TIPSY DRIVER WINS 2D STAY

A charge of driving while intoxicated against Stanley De Korwen Young, 27 years old, heir to an estate left by his grandfather, Otto Young, a pioneer Chicago merchant, will be heard today before Judge Frank M. Padden in Safety court. Judge Padden granted a second continuance in the case yesterday when Attorney Larry Dowd brought Dr. Floyd T. Hawkins to testify that Young was ill.

Dr. Hawkins said Young, who was arrested Friday after a minor traffic violation at Michigan avenue and Van Buren street, was suffering from a nervous breakdown and needed about three weeks' rest. Dr. Hawkins said Young was "as nervous as a man of 65 and has high blood pressure." He said Young has no occupation.

"He doesn't do anything except try to spend money," said Dr. Hawkins. "And he always is bothered by people asking for money. That's one of the things that make him nervous."

LONGER WARNING TIME ASKED FOR SPEEDING TRAINS

Matt G. Indra of Milwaukee, engineer of the Hiawatha, Milwaukee road flyer, testified yesterday that the train was traveling 100 miles an hour Monday night when it struck an auto driven by John B. Murdock, 17 years old, at the Point Comfort crossing in Deerfield, Lake county.

Murdock, a grandson of the late Dr. John B. Murphy, famous Chicago surgeon, was killed. He was a student at Lake Forest academy.

Andrew E. Van Esso, a lighting fixture manufacturer, of 100 Hazel avenue, Highland Park, the victim's stepfather, told the jurors he thought the wigwag signal at the crossing should be set for a longer warning period. He and the engineer agreed that young Murdock probably had about 14 to 15 seconds' warning of the flyer's approach.

The jury, meeting in Highland Park, returned an open verdict.

Andrew Johnson, 60 years old, of 3718 Wabansia avenue, was fatally injured when he was struck at Lawndale and North avenues by a car driven by Miss Anna Hurst, 23, of 202 North Kolmar avenue. She said he stepped from between two parked cars into her path.

Anton W. Peterson, 60, of 6018 Bishop street, died in the Woodlawn hospital of injuries received last night when he drove his car into an abutment under a viaduct at 68th street and South Park avenue, and it was struck by another car driven by Kenneth Wood, 23, of 5428 South Wells street.

An unidentified man about 55 years old was killed early today when he was struck at Division and Richmond streets by a car driven by Charles Woolman, 46, of 1339 South Kedzie avenue, a grocer.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 279 persons had been killed in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 212 were killed in Chicago, where 6,734 have been injured during the same period.

FOUND DEAD IN ABANDONED BUILDING.
A man known as John Smith, 52 years old, a casual, was found dead yesterday in the hallway of an abandoned building at 357 West Division street. It was believed he had been dead at least three months.

DAWES ADVISES HOW TO BALANCE FEDERAL BUDGET

Can Be Done, Trade Leaders Are Told.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 30.—Gen. Charles G. Dawes tonight returned to the scene of his earlier triumphs in budget balancing to tell the next president of the United States how to balance the budget and avoid national bankruptcy. Former Vice President of the United States and the first director of the budget in an era of budget balancing, Gen. Dawes declared that the budget can and must be balanced.

Gen. Charles G. Dawes.

He compared present fiscal conditions with those of the hectic days following the world war, and advocated application of the same system which he applied as director of the budget in the Harding administration. Within one year he had produced a surplus, reduced the debt, and enabled a reduction in taxes, after three successive years of war deficits.

Addresses Dinner Session.

Gen. Dawes, who is chairman of the City National Bank and Trust company, addressed a capacity audience at a dinner session of the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Earlier in the day, the more than 1,500 business leaders attending the meeting heard W. Gibson Carey Jr., the chamber's president, and Gov. Raymond E. Baldwin of Connecticut blame the Roosevelt administration for continuance of the depression and the presence of "insidious dangers" within the nation. They emphasized the need of internal strength in a period of world disorder and conflict.

Gen. Dawes picked up this theme with all of the oldtime fire for which he was noted while Vice President during the Coolidge administration. He assailed the record of the present administration and warned the next President that "he must be made of stern stuff."

Lacks Proper Control.

"For nearly seven years now, since June 10, 1933, the business of the government has been carried on not only without a coördinating control over routine business, but without a proper system of executive control, as was the case before Harding's administration," Dawes said.

"The next President, if he is to save the nation from bankruptcy and its people from ruin, must make the old fight over again and this battle will be waged under desperate disadvantages. Against him will be arrayed the largest, strongest, and most formidably entrenched army of interested government spenders, wasters, and patronage-dispensing politicians which the world has known.

"When an executive is determined to reorganize a private enterprise on its way to bankruptcy and in the same condition as that which now exists in government business, it is absolutely and fundamentally necessary that he convince his organization that he is in deadly earnest and will stand no nonsense from spending department heads like those who are now riding horseback thruout the demoralized and uncoördinated business system of the United States government.

Declares "Stern Stuff" Needed.

"If the President is a fighter and without qualification pledges himself in his conscience and before his people, and before congress, to fight for a balanced budget, he should not fail. But it is no time for weakness and political trimming. He must be made of stern stuff."

Following is the advice which Dawes offered to the next President [it is the same successful procedure followed in 1921]:

1. By executive order empower the director of the bureau of the budget to create an organization to assemble impartial information and to impose obedience to a decision on business policy; restore immediately the old federal central coördinating service [which was abolished by President Roosevelt on June 10, 1933].

2. Make it a condition of appointment that any cabinet member or head of an agency pledge his honor to support the President in his plan to reduce governmental expenditures and balance the budget.

Gives Starting Procedure.

3. At a public meeting of the business organization of the government in the first month of his term of office, the President should have assembled the director of the budget, cabinet members, heads of independent agencies, and bureau chiefs, and announce his budget policy, stressing

BANK OF AMERICA'S DIRECTORS VOTE 30 MILLION STOCK ISSUE

San Francisco, Cal., April 30 (AP).—Bank of America directors approved a $30,000,000 preferred stock issue today. Stockholders will be asked to approve the plan May 13 at a special meeting.

Directors decided the new financing, which had been agreed upon after a long dispute with federal officials over the size of the bank's capital, would take this form:

1. Convertible preferred stock, 600,000 shares of $50 par value.

2. Interest 4 per cent, or $2 per share per year.

3. Stockholders may purchase three shares of the new stock for each 20 owned of the old; or one for 6 2-3. Rights expire May 27.

4. Any unsubscribed stock will go to underwriters, but no underwriter will sell more than $50,000 to any one buyer.

Officials indicated the immediate booking of the new funds would be something like this: of the $30,000,000, about $12,000,000 or $20 a share will go directly into capital. The other $18,000,000 or $30 a share will go into surplus.

DONALDSON QUITS WARD'S; FOURTH TO LEAVE FIRM

John A. Donaldson yesterday was the fourth important executive to withdraw in recent months from the management of Montgomery Ward & Co., world's oldest and second largest mail order and department store organization. His resignation as vice president and controler, a post to which he had been promoted only two months ago, was indicated in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE of Tuesday.

"I have resigned but I am unable to give any explanations," he said. "I have no new position but there may be one in the offing."

Donaldson submitted his resignation to Sewell L. Avery, president and chairman, upon returning from Washington. His decision to leave the company followed the resignation last Thursday of Raymond H. Fogler as president and director.

Since last December Frank M. Folsom has resigned as vice president and director and George W. Vaught, as treasurer and director. Donaldson, Fogler, and Folsom were brought into the organization in 1932 when Avery revamped the company's executive personnel.

COMPANIES SUE GRAND JURY TO REGAIN RECORDS

Winston Salem, N. C., April 30 [Special].—Two fertilizer companies — Swift & Co. and International Agricultural corporation—sued a grand jury today for return of their records taken in the government's nationwide trust inquiry.

Declaring in effect that the grand jury had their records and that the companies' representatives, sworn to secrecy when they carried them into the grand jury room, couldn't even tell their employés how long the documents were to be kept, the two fertilizer concerns appealed to United States District court for aid.

The companies contended that the jury examining the records had no right to keep them in its possession. They also demanded that their two representatives, C. E. Toole for Swift and John C. Freeman for International, be released from their oath of secrecy in order to tell what the grand jury foreman said about returning the records and that the section of the grand jury's minutes pertaining to this matter be made available.

First Quarter Edison Income Tops 9 Million

First quarter consolidated net income of the Commonwealth Edison company rose to $9,146,256 from $6,767,439 in the first three months of 1939, Charles Y. Freeman, chairman, reported to stockholders yesterday.

"A major part of the increase in income resulted from a decrease in interest on funded debt and in dividends on preferred stocks of subsidiaries," Freeman said. The company issued 1,647,796 shares of capital stock during the first quarter this year in converting $41,194,900 of 3½ per cent debentures.

Charles Y. Freeman.

The earnings were the largest for any quarter in the company's history, altho per share income at times has been higher because fewer shares of stock were outstanding.

Equals 75 Cents a Share.

This issuance of stock was reflected in earnings per share. For the first quarter of 1940 net income was equal to 75 cents a share on 12,119,312 shares of stock outstanding on March 31. In the corresponding period of 1939 income was equivalent to 74 cents on the 9,105,791 shares then outstanding.

Electric revenues increased 5.8 per cent in the first quarter over the 1939 period, Freeman said, while gas revenues increased 11.5 per cent.

For the 12 months ended March 31 consolidated net income totaled $27,793,407, or $2.29 a share, against the preceding 12 months' net of $20,975,903, or $2.30 a share.

Interest Cost Reduced.

Freeman said the reduction in funded debt charges and preferred stock dividends amounted to $1,200,747 during the quarter and $4,177,805 in the 12 month period.

He reported $41,138,000 of the 3½ per cent debentures were outstanding as of March 31 of the $129,431,000 originally issued.

The income statement is subject to audit and year-end adjustments.

PORK GROUP WILL VISIT ENGLAND TO WIN MARKETS

A commission of three members representing the American Pork Producers' association, will leave for England within the next few days in an attempt to obtain new markets for lard and pork. The association announced the action after a meeting at the Hotel Sherman yesterday.

The association, made up of hog raisers, packers, and representatives of farm organizations and agricultural colleges, pledged funds to pay the expense of the commission. Arrangements and selection of members were placed in the hands of a committee.

Kelley Quits Presidency for Anaconda Chairmanship

New York, April 30 (AP).—Cornelius F. Kelley ended a 22 year term as president of the Anaconda Copper Mining company today, relinquishing the office to James R. Hobbins, who had been executive vice president. Kelly was elected chairman of the board, a position which had remained unfilled since the death of John D. Ryan in 1933. Robert E. Dwyer, vice president and treasurer, was named executive vice president, succeeding Hobbins.

STEEL MAKERS' EARNINGS FAR ABOVE '39 MARK

Business Below War Boom Levels.

United States Steel corporation, largest of the nation's steelmakers, and two other major units in the industry yesterday issued earnings reports showing much higher profits in the first quarter of 1940 than in the corresponding 1939 period.

Inland Steel company, of Chicago, a leading independent, and National Steel corporation, Pittsburgh, were the other companies reporting.

Their statements, while reflecting gains over the year ago level of steel operations, disclosed a marked decline in activity and profits since the booming final quarter of 1939, when domestic customers flooded the mills with orders as a result of the European war.

"Big Steel" Net Soars.

United States Steel's March quarter profit was $17,113,995, equal to $1.24 a common share, compared with $660,551, or 19 cents a share on the preferred stock only in the first three months of last year. In the last 1939 quarter the company earned $28,729,177, or $2.59 a common share. The company's rate of production in the latest quarter dropped to 66.9 per cent of capacity, from 86.9 per cent in the three months ended Dec. 31.

March quarter shipments of finished steel products amounted to 3,086,753 net tons, compared with 2,463,409 in the first 1939 quarter and 4,196,029 in the December quarter.

The report showed United States Steel already has spent $10,500,000 in 1940 for betterment of properties. It said also that the average number of employés for the March quarter was 244,031, compared with 208,907 a year earlier, a gain of 16.8 per cent. Pay rolls rose 19.3 per cent to $99,135,515 from $83,065,315 a year ago.

Vote Preferred Dividend.

Directors took no action on dividends for the common stock at yesterday's meeting, but voted the regular quarterly payment of $1.75 a share on the preferred, payable May 20 to stockholders of record May 3.

The most recent dividend paid on United States Steel common stock was a "surprise" payment of $1 a share voted March 26 and distributed last Friday. Prior to that no dividend had been paid since December, 1937.

Inland Steel company reported consolidated first quarter profit of $3,059,844, after all charges, equal to $1.88 a share, compared with $2,024,601, or $1.28 a share, in the first three months of last year, and $4,574,441, or $2.82 a share in the final 1939 quarter.

For the 12 months ended March 31, the company earned $11,966,260, or $7.35 a share, compared with $6,017,728, and $3.81 a share, in the preceding 12 months.

A dividend of $1 a share was declared by Inland, payable June 1 to stockholders of record May 14. A dividend of the same amount was paid March 1. The company paid $4 in 1939.

Operations Curtailed.

In the last quarter of 1939 Inland operated at more than 100 per cent of theoretical ingot capacity. April operations were officially estimated at slightly below 70 per cent.

National Steel corporation increased its March quarter net income to $4,009,193, equal to $1.82 a share, from $2,426,669, or $1.10 a share, a year earlier.

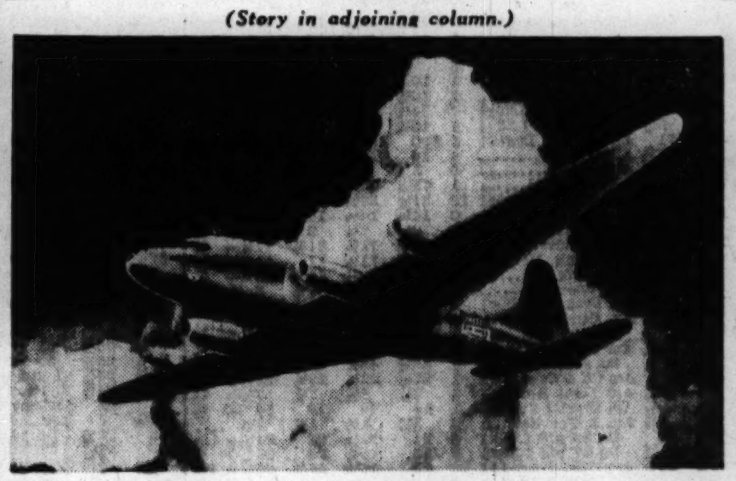
Ernest T. Weir, chairman of National Steel, described the last three months of 1939 as a "superquarter" from an operating standpoint. The company earned $5,292,330, or $2.40 a share, in that quarter. Weir predicted that production for the entire steel industry will not reach 70 per cent of capacity before July 1. The present national average rate is 61.8 per cent. Weir said National is operating at 75 per cent.

Senate Passes TVA Tax Replacement Measure

Washington, D. C., April 30 (AP).—The senate today passed legislation authorizing the Tennessee Valley authority to reimburse states and counties in the TVA area for taxes formerly collected from private utilities. It approved, without a record vote, the Norris-Sparkman bill which has been in controversy in the house military affairs committee since Jan. 21. Last week a subcommittee of the latter group voted in favor of tabling all tax replacement legislation.

Air Line Expands Its Fleet

(Story in adjoining column.)



Here is an artist's conception of one of the twenty Douglas DC-4 Super Mainliners which United Air Lines now has on order. Powered by four 1,300 horsepower engines—a total of 5,200 horsepower per plane—they will have a cruising speed of 228 miles an hour with 40 passengers.

Ryerson Gets Steel Position of L. E. Block

Retirement of L. E. Block as chairman of the board of directors of Inland Steel company and the election of Edward L. Ryerson Jr. to that post were announced yesterday after the annual meeting of stockholders in Chicago. Block was named chairman of the executive committee, and P. D. Block was reëlected president along with other officers and directors.

"Customers have contracted for fairly sizable tonnages of flat rolled steel products for May and June delivery at the recently prevailing reduced prices," President Block told the shareholders. "This should be reflected in better operations during the latter part of the current quarter."

Quarter's Operations High.

Operations during the first quarter were at 85.7 per cent of steel ingot capacity, he said, but the rate for April will be slightly below 70 per cent. Less than 5 per cent of the company's mill shipments were exported in the first quarter, he said.

Most of Inland's export business has been with neutrals, especially Central and South American countries, Block explained. Some business was also carried on with the Scandinavian countries before the German invasion, he added. Except for some sales of shell steel bullets to Canada, little war material has been sold by the company, he said.

With Company Since 1897.

L. E. Block has been associated with Inland Steel continuously since 1897 and has been chairman of the board for more than 20 years. To him and his brother, P. D. Block, credit is generally given for the company's vast growth since its formation in 1893.

Ryerson has been vice chairman of Inland since the company acquired Joseph T. Ryerson & Son, Inc., in 1935. He has been associated with that company since 1909—as president from 1929 to 1937 and since then as chairman. The Ryerson company was founded by his grandfather in 1842.

Ford Motor to Participate in National Auto Show

The Ford Motor company announced yesterday that it has accepted the invitation of the Automobile Manufacturers association, to take part in the 41st annual national automobile show at New York. This will be the first time in years that Ford will take part in the show sponsored by the manufacturers' association of which it is not a member. The New York show will be held Oct. 12 to 20.

DALLYING OF SEC IN INLAND POWER CASE IRKS JUDGE

Court Seeks to Speed Utility's Program.

The Securities and Exchange commission was the target of a judge and a lawyer yesterday in the United States District court in Chicago.

Indicating that his patience with the SEC was exhausted, Judge Philip L. Sullivan issued an order directing all interested parties in the reorganization plan of the Inland Power and Light corporation to come to court on May 9 to show cause why Inland should not be liquidated or reorganized.

"For two years we've been trying to get some action toward the reorganization of the Inland Power and Light corporation," said Robert N. Golding, attorney for the Commonwealth Light and Power company, which is connected with Inland in the reorganization plans. He came into court yesterday seeking an order to speed up the case.

Not Complicated, Says Attorney.

"We've been trying to move the SEC to action," he said. "It would take anybody 30 minutes who had 25 minutes' experience in reorganization to reorganize or at least give a final report on this company. Nothing is complicated about it. If the court will call the SEC in, maybe they can find time to do something about it.

"For 150 years, nobody has found time to help the investors. Then came the SEC. Their way of helping investors is a novel one. They liquidate companies."

Application Filed in 1938.

Application was filed with the SEC in April, 1938, requesting a report on a plan for reorganization of Inland and Commonwealth, both of which were at one time subsidiaries of the Middle West system controled by Samuel Insull. The SEC held a hearing on the plan Oct. 31, 1938.

All of the assets of Inland and Commonwealth, under the plan, other than Commonwealth's claim against Inland and other than Inland's interest in real estate and improvements thereon, would be transferred to a new company to be called Inland corporation. Only one class of common stock would be authorized in the amount of 400,000 shares of $6.50 par, of which 334,440 shares would be outstanding on completion of the plan.

Illinois Oil Output Rises, but National Rate Drops

Oil output in Illinois continued to rise in the week ended April 27, the Oil and Gas Journal reported yesterday, altho national production dropped 20,328 barrels to a daily average of 3,847,577. Illinois production averaged 436,468 barrels a day, or 3,352 barrels more than in the previous week.

UNITED SPENDS MORE MILLIONS ON NEW PLANES

Orders 20 Costing $4,875,000.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

United Air Lines has placed an additional order for ten 40 passenger, 4 engined Douglas DC-4 Super Mainliners and ten additional Douglas DC-3 Mainliners to cost a total of $4,875,000, W. A. Patterson, president, announced yesterday at the company's headquarters in Chicago.

With an earlier order for ten of the DC-4's, placed recently, United is investing a total of $8,555,000 in new planes. The combined order is one of the largest in the history of private American aviation.

The DC-4's are giant planes weighing 25 tons, capable of flying at 228 miles an hour. It is expected they will be able to carry travelers from the Atlantic to the Pacific thru Chicago in only 13 hours elapsed time.

Adds to Chicago' Prestige.

Delivery of the ten additional DC-4's, scheduled for early 1942, and the ten DC-3's late this year will add greatly to Chicago's prestige as an air center, it was said. United officials have taken the position that Chicago, with its central location and its position as the transportation crossroads of the nation, is ideally situated for the operation of a transcontinental air system.

United's latest purchase was prompted by a revised projection of future traffic, after gains in passenger volume during the first quarter of 1940 of more than 50 per cent over the first three months of last year.

In connection with its expansion program, United has on application a proposal for a merger with the Western Air Express San Diego-Los Angeles-Salt Lake City-Great Falls line, the establishment of a new route from Boston and Hartford to points west via Cleveland, and a new Denver-Kansas City-Des Moines route.

For Coast to Coast Service.

"Our original plans called for ten DC-4's, with which United would operate overnight coast to coast service from Seattle, Portland, San Francisco, and Los Angeles to Chicago and New York, as well as on certain intercity schedules," Patterson said.

"Purchase of ten more Super Mainliners is being made partly to permit us to operate [illegible] passenger plane schedules on our Pacific coast route, linking southern California with the Pacific northwest, as well as an additional service on such intercity flights as New York to Chicago, and between other cities."

The Super Main liners will carry 40 passengers when operated as day planes, and will have berth passenger space for 22 in night flights. With a full load they will be able to cruise at 228 miles an hour at an altitude of 15,000 feet.

Have Ceiling of 20,600 Feet.

They will have a ceiling of 20,600 feet with only three of the four engines in operation and will be able

Stocks, Bonds

New York Stocks.

New York, April 30 (AP).—Leading stocks tried to extend the recovery move in today's market, but the majority failed to accomplish much.

Steels, motors, aircrafts, and utilities, moderately ahead most of the day, backed away in the final hour. Rails, coppers, and mail orders were apathetic. Recently buoyant specialties were inclined to lag, altho a handful of these, including shipping stocks, edged forward at the last.

Closing prices were mixed and the Associated Press average of 60 issues was unchanged at 50.2. Dealings, sluggish from the start, expanded a trifle late in the session and transfers totaled 592,280 shares against 566,950 the day before.

The ragged performance was blamed principally on war news from Norway indicating the empires were not doing any too well.

Retaining gains of fractions to about a point were General Motors, Sperry, United States Rubber, American-Hawaiian Steamship, New York Shipbuilding, International Mercantile Marine, Rayonier, Bohn Aluminum, Consolidated Edison, General Electric, United States Rubber, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Eastman Kodak, and Allied Chemical.

Unchanged to off more than a point were Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, Glenn Martin, Lockheed, International Paper preferred, Great Northern, Southern Pacific, Anaconda, Kennecott, and Loft.

Sales of stocks in the New York Stock exchange during April totaled 26,696,490 shares, the largest since last September's 57,091,430, against the March total of 16,270,368 shares and the April, 1939, total of 20,246,238.

New York Bonds.

New York, April 30 (AP).—Reports of German successes in Norway depressesd many foreign bonds today, but the domestic list held firm.

Losses ranging from 1 to 5 points were recorded by Norway 6s, Brisbane 5s, of '58, Australia 5s of '57, Canada 3s of '68, Italy 7s, and Japan 6½s. Great Consolidated Power [Japan] 6½s dropped 8½ in a thin market. German and Belgian issues were marked up fractions to more than a point.

Despite some shearing away of gains in the final hour the corporate list showed a sprinkling of advances. Boston and Maine bonds were conspicuously strong on expectation of steady progress in making effective the road's debt adjustment program.

Face value of bond sales on the New York Stock exchange in April totaled $165,386,500, the largest since December's $176,100,000. The March total was $135,239,000 and the April, 1939, total was $122,804,000.

Chicago Stocks.

Cities Service stock climbed to a new 1940 high level on the Chicago exchange yesterday as the company's March quarter report disclosed a large increase in earnings. The stock touched 5⅝, but eased later to 5 for a net gain of ⅛ point. Losses outnumbered gains among other issues.

Trading was in larger volume than on Monday. The exchange announced April volume was 762,000 shares, compared with 557,000 in March and 653,000 in April, 1939.

Bank Stocks.

Northern Trust shares dipped 3 points and Continental Illinois was off ½ point yesterday in Chicago bank stock trading. Chicago Title and First National each gained a point. Other leading issues were unchanged.

EARLY STRENGTH CANCELED; GRAIN FUTURES RECEDE

Grain futures turned downward yesterday after a showing of strength in the early trading. Final wheat sales were at losses of ⅞ to 1⅝ cents, corn was down ½ to ⅞ cent, oats lost ⅜ to ½ cent, and rye closed 1¼ to 1½ cents lower. Soy beans showed resistance to pressure, but yielded ½ to ⅝ cent.

Hedging pressure in wheat was lighter than brokers had anticipated and much grain is expected to be taken over by the Commodity Credit corporation. Yesterday was the deadline for farmers to repay their loans.

CASH GRAIN

Official receipts of cash grain at Chicago Tuesday: Wheat, 10 cars; corn, 51 cars; oats, 16 cars; barley, 6 cars; soy beans, 3 cars. Range of cash grain prices per bushel in leading markets:

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., April 30 (AP).—Carload lots, per bbl in 98 lb cotton sacks: Family patents, unchanged, $6.70@6.90; standard patents, 5c higher, $5.45@5.65. Shipments, 14,575 bbls. Pure bran, $24.25 @24.50 per ton. Standard midlings, $24.00 @24.50.

Commodities

Losses in commodities futures prices ranged widely yesterday. The only exceptions were zinc and silk, the metal closing 7 points higher and raw silk 1 to 3 points higher.

Crude rubber futures fell back 22 to 32 points. Increased hedge selling against purchases of wool, and May liquidation eased wool top futures 4 to 8 points. Cottonseed oil futures yielded 1 to 4 points as some traders liquidated. Buying orders encountered on the drop cushioned the decline.

Trading in export and domestic copper was fair, copper futures closing 1 point lower. Lead futures lost 2 to 8 points. Strait tin futures slid back 10 to 15 points.

Expanded offerings of raw sugar exerted pressure on domestic futures, which closed 2 to 4 points down. The world list closed ½ to 1½ points lower. Santos coffee dropped back 2 points, raw hide futures 9 to 15, and cocoa 1 to 10.

PLAN TO COMBINE THREE UTILITIES IN ONE NEW FIRM

Indiana Units Subsidiaries of Midland United.

A plan for the consolidation of the Public Service Company of Indiana, the Central Indiana Power company, and the Terre Haute Electric company, Inc., was filed with the Securities and Exchange commission at Washington yesterday on behalf of the three companies.

Under the plan they will be united in one company, the Public Service Company of Indiana, Inc. Midland United company, which controls the three companies to be merged, was part of the former Insull utility empire, controling properties in Indiana. On June 9, 1934, Midland United filed reorganization proceedings under the federal bankruptcy act.

Includes Subsidiaries.

The merger plan also provides for consolidation of the three companies' subsidiaries.

Capitalization of the new company, totaling $44,671,390, would be 1,030,873 shares of common stock, stated value $25 a share, or $25,771,840; and 377,991 shares of 5 per cent preferred stock, $50 par, or $18,899,550.

Funded debt would total $66,393,487, consisting of $56,072,000 of long term bonds and $10,321,487 of serial notes and debentures.

Holders of securities in the present companies would exchange them for securities in the proposed new company.

Stock to Be Exchanged.

The plan provides for the exchange of common stock held by Midland United for common stock of the new company. Operations of the three utilities are in 700 counties in middle and southern Indiana having a population of about 800,000.

Headquarters of the new company will be at Indianapolis. Altho the president of the new company has not been named, R. A. Gallagher, president of Public Service of Indiana, has been mentioned for the position.

NLRB AND FORD CLASH ON ISSUE OF FREE SPEECH

Washington, D. C., April 30 (AP).—The National Labor Relations board clashed with the Ford Motor company again today over the issue of free speech between employers and employés. It told the company that the distribution of its labor views in pamphlet form to Ford workers was not sanctioned by the free speech guarantees of the constitution.

The board issued an order charging that the company engaged in unfair labor practices at its St. Louis plant, not only by distributing the pamphlet but by refusing to reëmploy C. I. O. union workers after a brief shutdown for new models in 1937.

The company, accordingly, was directed to reinstate 94 workers with back pay, and bargain collectively with the C. I. O. United Auto Workers' union.

The board rejected the company's argument that it was within its constitutional rights in making known to the workers its opinion of labor unions and the Wagner act.

EASTERN AIR LINES, 12 YEARS OLD, SERVES 47 CITIES IN 16 STATES

Yesterday was the 12th birthday of Eastern Air Lines, one of the major domestic air transport services. Capt. E. V. Rickenbacker, president and general manager, consulted his records and came up with the following comparisons:

Capt. E. V. Rickenbacker.

On May 1, 1928, 10 Mailwing biplanes of Pitcairn Aviation, Inc., [Eastern's mother company] went into service over a 792 mile route. Powered with a single 200 horse power motor, the small planes carried mail only and cruised at 90 miles an hour.

Today Eastern has 28 air liners in operation. The pay loads, consisting of passengers and mail, ride behind at least two engines of 1,000 horse power each. Several of the planes provide sleeping accommodations. Thirteen more transports have been ordered for delivery this year and eight for delivery in 1941.

The monthly pay roll has grown from $9,712 in 1928 to more than $300,000 in 1940. In the last six months, personnel has increased 25 per cent.

The original service extended to eight cities in seven states. Now Eastern serves 47 cities in 16 states.

COURT ORDERS MINOR CHANGE IN MAJESTIC PLAN

With one minor change in the proposed plan of reorganization for the Majestic Radio and Television corporation, Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday signed a formal order approving submission of the plan to creditors and stockholders.

Terms of the proposed $165,000 of 10 year 5 per cent debentures were amended to provide that interest shall be paid only out of income for five years instead of for four years as originally stipulated.

May 31 was set as the final date for the filing of acceptances. The plan to be effective must be approved by a majority of the stockholders and two-thirds of the creditors.

Minority creditors, some stockholders, the Securities and Exchange commission and the Radio Corporation of America have opposed the plan. The company has been in bankruptcy since last October.

CONTROL BOARD TO ACQUIRE BANK OF CANADA GOLD

OTTAWA, Ont., April 30 (AP).—An order in council providing for the transfer of the large gold and exchange reserve of the Bank of Canada to the foreign exchange control board was passed by the cabinet today, Finance Minister Ralston announced tonight. The minimum gold reserve requirement for the central bank is being discontinued.

The new measure also requires transfer of foreign exchange owned by Canadians to the control board by May 31. Exemptions are provided for those to whom a certain amount of foreign exchange is necessary for normal business.

Day by Day on the Farm

By HOMER NEISZ

Tally 1940 AAA Signers.

April 30, 1940.

WITH tomorrow, May 1, set as the deadline for Illinois farmers to sign up with the 1940 federal crop control plan, county officials of the Agricultural Adjustment administration expect to have complete figures on the number of participants in the various counties by the end of this week. Reports on the total number of signers are to be sent to state AAA headquarters in Decatur as soon as they can be compiled in the county offices.

A cut of 10.89 per cent in the state's corn acreage allotment this year as compared to last is said to have caused many farmers to do some close figuring before deciding whether to follow the program and collect government subsidies or to ignore it and grow more corn.

Dairy Farmers Protest.

Many dairy farmers in counties near Chicago have complained that the cut in corn acreage asked this year will work a hardship on them since they need corn both for silage and for grain. They say it will be difficult for many of them to stay within the reduced acreage allotment and have enough corn left for grain after filling their silos.

In Du Page county, for example, a major complaint about this year's control program is the low corn allotment. Farmers in that county have been allotted only 31,089 acres for corn, compared with 36,887 acres last year, a cut of 15.7 per cent. Here are some typical views of farmers interviewed in various parts of the county:

William Finke of Elmhurst plants 55 to 60 acres of corn each year. He farms 112 acres of his own and rents additional land. His corn allotment last year was 38 acres. He didn't sign up. The allotment is less this year. Again he will not sign. "I milk more than 20 cows and feed about 100 hogs a year," Finke said. "I usually need 10 acres of corn for sileage. I cannot afford to follow the program."

Uncertain of Benefits.

W. D. Mensing of West Chicago was allotted 19.5 acres of corn on his 90 acre farm last year. This year his allotment is less than 16 acres. "I need more corn for my cows," he said. "I have signed up, but I am not sure but what it would have paid me to stay out and plant more corn."

Fred Steben of Elmhurst farms 120 acres and his corn allotment was cut from 34.5 acres in 1939 to less than 29 acres this year. He will follow the program, but is disappointed in the low corn allotment. Steben has a dairy herd and feeds hogs. He says he needs 8 to 10 acres of corn each year for silage.

Decides Not to Sign.

Hermann Hinke of Hinsdale has a corn allotment of 25 acres on his 121 acre farm. "That would be enough corn," Hinke said, "but I want to plant about 30 acres of soy beans for combining and that puts my total acreage of soil depleting crops too high. Then, too, I planted 12 acres of wheat last fall and now I find that I am not supposed to have that much since I have no wheat allotment." He is not signing up.

ENGLISH-GERMAN TRADE WAR HITS FEVERISH PITCH

Parleys Cover Europe; Spread to America.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 30.—The economic struggle between England and Germany to see which nation can get its feet most solidly planted reached a feverish pitch this week, a study of commercial negotiations now going on thruout Europe and in America and Russia discloses.

The Norway episode, which served to put a little pep in the otherwise stagnant military phase of the war, serves to show how this war is two-faced, according to persons studying its economic aspect.

Trade Parleys Cover Europe.

For several weeks, behind the military front of the war, economic negotiations have been going on criss-cross and helter-skelter in all European countries. Experts exchange visits, ministers and specialists come and go, allurements are thrown out, and attempts are made to tie up customer countries exactly as if Europe were at peace.

Political moves, of course, lurk behind some of these commercial negotiations, especially where British deals are made not to assure a flow of goods into the British Isles, but to tie up goods to rot rather than let them get into the hands of the Germans.

Negotiations Widespread.

A catalog of these commercial and economic negotiations on both sides indicates their extent.

FIRST—Anglo-Franco-American negotiations have been conducted at Washington, D. C., since March 6 by Ashton Gwatkin and Charles Rist, largely concerning contraband and British-French purchases in America.

SECOND—A resumption of commercial negotiations between Italy and England.

THIRD—Negotiations for a commercial arrangement between England and Russia were announced this week after talks between Ivan Maisky, Russian ambassador to London, and Lord Halifax, British foreign minister.

FOURTH—Negotiations for commercial contacts between Russia and Jugo-Slavia were begun this week.

FIFTH—Negotiations for commercial arrangements between Slovakia and Russia were signalized by the departure of a Slovak delegation for Moscow this week.

Italians Going to Hungary.

SIXTH—Commercial negotiations between Italy and Hungary are to take place with the departure of an Italian delegation for that country on May 2.

SEVENTH—A new clearing arrangement between Finland and Latvia.

EIGHTH—Negotiations this week were begun between Turkey and Rumania with a view to establishing a trade agreement.

NINTH—A trade deal between England and Spain will be announced in parliament this week.

TENTH—A trade deal between Britain and France and the Swiss was announced today.

ELEVENTH—A commercial pact between Rumania and Germany has been concluded by Dr. Karl Clodius, German trade negotiator, who is seeking to conclude similar pacts with Budapest and Belgrade.

Indications are growing increasingly clear that the war background is merely providing a more favorable atmosphere to carry out these trade negotiations than would peace, with moral issues having less place in anything now going on.

AWARD NEBRASKA REFUNDINGS.

Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc., was awarded $300,000 refunding bonds of Nebraska City, Neb., on a bid of 100.42 for 1⅝s. The bonds, dated June 1, 1940, will mature on June 1, 1941 to 1955. They are callable after five years.

UNITED SPENDS MORE MILLIONS ON NEW PLANES

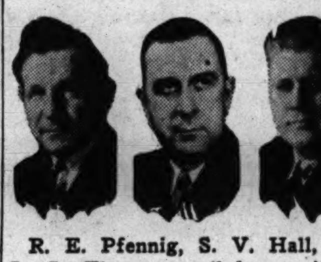
The first of the DC-4's are scheduled to be delivered on March 31, 1941. United's fleet now consists of 43 Douglas 21 passenger Mainliners and 15 Boeing twin engined transports. The new planes will bring the total to 88.

Patterson also announced the election of three additional vice presidents to United's staff. They are R. E. Pfennig, vice president in charge of the eastern division; S. V. Hall, in charge of the western division, and C. C. Thompson, a member of the administration staff. The eastern division extends from New York to Denver and the western division from Denver to the Pacific coast. Pfennig's experience dates to the start of mail flights between New York and Washington in 1918. Hall was a world war aviator.



R. E. Pfennig, S. V. Hall, and C. C. Thompson (left to right), newly appointed vice presidents of United Air Lines.

J. A. Herlihy, who has been operating vice president, was elected executive vice president in charge of operations. P. M. Wilcox, in addition to retaining his post as secretary, was made assistant to the president.

NEXT OF KIN WANTED

To the children or remoter issue of Joseph Peter Martin (child of a family formerly living in Lanesborough, County Longford, Ireland), who lived for some time in Chicago and to Elizabeth Martin and Teresa Martin and Kate Martin or other sisters of the said Joseph Peter Martin and their respective children.

Pursuant to an order of the High Court of Justice Eire made in the matter of the Estate of Joseph Peter Martin, late of Castle Street, Dublin, Joseph Martin, Plaintiff, Frances Martin, Defendant, all persons claiming to be next-of-kin of the said Joseph Peter Martin, late of Castle Street in the City of Dublin, who died in or about the month of August, 1938, and in particular the said children of the said Joseph Peter Martin and the said Elizabeth Martin and Teresa Martin and Kate Martin and their respective children are by their solicitors on or before the 24th day of June, 1940, to come in and prove their claims at the Central Office of the High Court of Justice, Four Courts, Dublin, Ireland, or in default thereof they will be peremptorily excluded from the benefit of the said order. The 27th day of June 1940, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon at the Examiner's Office of the said Court is appointed for hearing and adjudicating upon the claims.

Dated the 10th day of February, 1940.

THOMAS E. B. ADDERLEY, Examiner.

Michael J. Maguire, Solicitor for the Plaintiff, 59-61 Dame Street, Dublin.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

Hog raisers and feeders broke the market yesterday in their efforts to capitalize on recent sharp advances. Heavily increased supplies at Chicago and other packing centers caused one of the most severe price breaks in recent months. Wholesale prices of fresh pork also slumped.

The average price of hogs fell back to $6, the lowest since Monday of last week. The top was $6.30 early, but it was difficult to get more than $6.15 at the close.

Best longfed steers were steady to weak, with other steers and yearlings weak to 25 cents lower. Calves advanced 25 cents.

UNITED STATES STEEL CORPORATION

Notice of Annual Meeting of May 6, 1940

NOTICE is hereby given that the annual meeting of the stockholders of United States Steel Corporation will be held at the principal office of the Corporation, Hudson Trust Company Building, No. 51 Newark Street, in the City of Hoboken, County of Hudson and State of New Jersey, on Monday, the 6th day of May, 1940, at ten thirty o'clock in the forenoon, daylight saving time, for the following purposes, namely:

1. To elect Directors pursuant to the By-Laws.
2. To elect independent auditors to audit the books and accounts of the Corporation at the close of the current fiscal year.
3. To transact such other business as may properly come before the meeting.

Stockholders of record on the books of the Corporation at the close of business on March 22, 1940, will be entitled to vote at the meeting.

By order of the Board of Directors,

GEO. K. LEET
SECRETARY

Dated, March 22, 1940

Copy of this notice together with proxy statement required by Regulation X-14 of the Securities and Exchange Commission and form of proxy may be obtained from the Secretary upon request.

DAWES ADVISES HOW TO EFFECT BUDGET BALANCE

Can Be Done, He Declares to Business Leaders.

the authority of the director as his agent to execute orders; have bureau chiefs report within 30 days on possible savings in the unspent appropriation for that year.

4. With government expenditures approximating 9 billion dollars per year, he must attack them at once, and continually thereafter. The reduction in government expenses for the first calendar year must be effected partially in the first six months, when the President will be least equipped for the task. Accordingly, he should commandeer outside talent of the highest order to assist in applying effective pressure "against the fortified inertia of departmental plan and prejudices."

Can Be Balanced, Dawes Says.

"The budget can best be balanced in the way which any private organization, with its business in the demoralized condition of our present government business, would take as a matter of course," Dawes said. "Mistake not, the budget of the United States can be balanced."

President Roosevelt's "astonishing" executive order abolishing the federal coördinating service "was one of the chief causes of the present condition of chaos in the business system of our government," Dawes said. Its restoration is the most important step to be taken, he declared.

The Dawes address was broadcast over the Mutual Broadcasting system.

Conceding that "I for one would not change our position for that of any nation on earth," Carey said that nevertheless there is a severe crisis to be met in this country and sound leadership in government is needed most.

Evidence of Mismanagement.

He mentioned the following record as evidence that abundant resources have been mismanaged for years: A federal debt of 43 billion dollars, federal tax levies of 5 billion a year, the largest government pay roll in history, powers of the executive branch of the government greater than contemplated by the people, the plight of agriculture after costly attempts at correction, the low level of durable goods operations, the unsolved problems of unemployment, and inactive tho plentiful capital.

Carey, who is president of the Yale & Towne Manufacturing company, said that, pradoxically, this situation has been caused mostly "by a federal government which has itself, by error after error, continued the so called 'emergency' which long since should have passed."

"Insidious Danger Involved."

"By many this is recognized clearly, but it is imperative that all men of understanding and good intention comprehend fully the insidious dangers involved," he declared. "An open attack or invasion brings men's minds to a focus and stirs them to action. It is slow dissipation of resources, the gradual undermining of our institutions, and the encouragement of class feeling which are most difficult to check."

Gov. Baldwin said that operations of the federal government in the last seven years have stifled productive effort and employment.

"If government would cease frightening business and private industry, if government would encourage, not discourage, production, if government would be helpful and coöperative and a little understanding of business and industry's problems instead of sneering at business and industry's efforts and proceeding on the theory that private business is something evil—then there would be increased business and industrial activity, and there would be more jobs!"

Internal Defenses Needed.

Charles E. Wilson, president of the General Electric company, said that "American industry believes that the nation's first step forward must be the fortification of its peace and freedom with internal defenses impervious to the insidious assaults of either totalitarian or defeatist doctrines."

Election of James S. Kemper, president of the Lumbermens Mutual Casualty company, Chicago, as the chamber's next president was indicated.

Redemption Notice

To the Holders of
First Mortgage Gold Bonds, 5% Series due June 1, 1957, of

Ohio Electric Power Company

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that pursuant to the provisions of the Fourth Supplemental Mortgage dated June 1, 1927 supplemental to the Mortgage and Deed of Trust dated as of July 1, 1924 between the Ohio Electric Power Company and The Seaboard National Bank of the City of New York (now The Chase National Bank of the City of New York), The Marion-Reserve Power Company, successor by consolidation and merger to Ohio Electric Power Company, has elected to and will redeem and pay off on June 1, 1940 all of the First Mortgage Gold Bonds, 5% Series due June 1, 1957, issued under said Mortgage and Deed of Trust. There will become and be due and payable on June 1, 1940 upon each such bond at The Chase National Bank of the City of New York, Trustee, 11 Broad Street, New York, N. Y., the principal amount thereof and accrued interest to June 1, 1940, together with a premium of 4¼% of the principal amount thereof. All coupons maturing on or before June 1, 1940 may be presented for payment and surrendered with the bonds to which they are appurtenant at said office of the Trustee or may be detached and presented for payment in accordance with their respective terms. Such bonds, with all subsequent coupons attached, should be surrendered to said The Chase National Bank of the City of New York on or after June 1, 1940 for redemption and payment as aforesaid. All such bonds will cease to bear interest on and after June 1, 1940 and the coupons for interest maturing subsequent to June 1, 1940 will be void. The holders of said bonds may, upon surrender of the same, together with appropriate coupons appertaining thereto, to The Chase National Bank of the City of New York as aforesaid, immediately receive the full redemption price as above, including accrued interest to June 1, 1940.

In case registered bonds are presented and payment to any one other than the registered holder is desired bonds should be accompanied by proper instruments of assignment.

Dated, Marion, Ohio, May 1, 1940.

CLASS 1 RAILS' NET OPERATING INCOME RISES

Volume Is $115,107,762 in First Quarter.

Net railway operating income of class 1 railroads in the United States in the first quarter totaled $115,107,762, compared with $85,959,925 in the first three months of last year, the Association of American Railroads reported yesterday. The compilation was based on returns from 133 class 1 roads.

This income was at the annual rate of return of 2.4 per cent on the railroads' property investment, the association said, against 1.79 per cent in the corresponding 1939 period. Twenty-eight of the reporting railroads failed to earn expenses and taxes this year.

The roads had March net railway operating income of $36,734,348 compared with $34,375,047 in March, 1939. Gross revenues for the month were $327,009,238 compared with $315,091,017.

ATLAS AND AIRPLANES.

The proposed merger between Curtiss-Wright and Atlas is an unusual development. What explanation is there for the move? I would like a review of the merger terms.—H. F.

Answer: The contemplated fusion of the Curtiss-Wright and the Atlas corporations is an expression of the belief of the managements of these dissimilar firms that Curtiss-Wright is in position to embark on a profitable expansion of its aircraft business.

Another factor mentioned in financial circles is the possibility that congress may impose stiff restrictions on investment companies, recently urged by the Securities and Exchange commission. The merger would remove Atlas from the sphere of such new regulation. Atlas is now one of the largest investment companies in the country.

The practical effect of the merger would be that of a private financing deal in which Curtiss-Wright would add about $36,500,000 in new liquid capital contributed by Atlas under the plan. In the merger, Wright Aeronautical corporation, owned 97 per cent by Curtiss-Wright, probably would be included.

Excluded from the merger would be a special portfolio of Atlas investments estimated at $25,000,000, and airport real estate of Curtiss-Wright valued at about $5,000,000 which would be turned over to separate companies.

Holdings of present common stockholders of Curtiss-Wright would not be disturbed in the merger, except that they would receive their pro rata share in the separated airport company. Holders of class A stock of Curtiss-Wright would be given the choice of taking either one-fourth share of new 5 per cent preferred stock of $50 par value to be issued, and 1.8 shares of common stock, or one-half share of new preferred and four-fifths share of common stock. The class A holders would also receive their pro rata share of airport stock.

For each share of Atlas common would be given in exchange 65-100 share of Curtiss-Wright common and a pro rata interest in the special investment company. Each share of Atlas 6 per cent preferred would be exchanged for one share of Curtiss-Wright preferred and one-fourth share of common stock.

The Curtiss-Wright name will be unchanged in the union of the two firms. The merger plan, already agreed upon between the managements of the companies, must be approved by stockholders at forthcoming meetings to become effective.

TERRY AND THE PIRATES—ROBIN HOOD ON A RAFT

NAE, LOSSIE! TH' RANGE IS TOO GREAT FOR THOT PEA SHOOTER! WE MUST HA' A BETTER SCHEME! ...THEY MUST GO OOPSTREAM A BIT FOR OPEN WATER TO TURN ABOOT IN!
BLAZE!— HELP ME DUMP THE WATER FROM THAT OLD BOAT AT THE WHARF!
WHAT CAN YOU DO WITH A BOW AND ARROW AND THAT WATER-SOAKED SCOW?
SOMETHING BESIDES STANDING ON SHORE LOOKING FOOLISH! STICK AROUND—I'LL SHOW YOU WHAT YOU CAN LEARN BY BEING A BUM ... WITH NO PURPOSE IN LIFE!

Personal Loans

On Your Own Signature.

Here salaried men and women [single or married] can get $25 to $250 or more entirely on earning capacity and personal responsibility. We prefer to make these loans the way most people like—without security—without endorsers.

NO WAGE ASSIGNMENTS.

Simply do this:

1. Make application. [Can be in person or by phone.]
2. Come in, sign and get the cash.

Pick Your Own Payments.

Take a year, or more, to repay. You know best how much you can afford each month—you name the payment which best fits your income.

PRIVACY.

We keep the entire transaction strictly between us. Your employer, friends or relatives are not notified.

SIMPLE TO GET.

Our loans are made on the simple basis of your ability to make small, regular payments, and if you can, you should not hesitate to see us for a loan at once. Come in or telephone.

These maps show the speedy course of the German campaign in Norway. The black represents German occupied territory and drives. The European war was carried to Norway on April 9, when German troops landed, amidst heavy naval and air action, at Oslo, Kristiansand, Stavanger, Bergen, and Trondheim. On April 15 and 16 British troops landed at Namsos and Andalsnes in attempt to encircle German-held Trondheim. By April 22 the Germans had advanced northward to Elverum and Hamar. By April 26 they had captured Roros. The next day a German column pushed over the mountains to threaten the communications line of the southern wing of the British pincer movement. The Germans yesterday boasted that Norway was conquered after the Trondheim and Oslo forces joined near Inset and another column captured Dombas, a rail head. The drives left them in command of practically all railroads. (Story on page 1.)
